Seed Planted to Promote Missouri's Cotton Crop

By Leo Schade

PORTAGEVILLE -- Two hundred fifty cotton raisers and agricultural leaders gathered at the University of Missouri Delta Center last night to learn how to further promote the $90 million cotton industry in Missouri.

The meeting was called by a 15-man committee, which has studied the industry in cooperation with the University of Missouri agriculture college.

Chairman of the committee and master of ceremonies was E. B. Gee Jr., Blytheville, Ark., who outlined the committee proposals, following a barbeque chicken dinner. Speakers were Dean Elmer Kiehl, college of agriculture, University of Missouri, and Dr. C. B. Ratchford, college of agriculture, both from Columbia.

Bootheel state legislators and the staff of the University of Missouir Delta center attended.

Gee said that major needs of the industry were to employ an agricultural engineer, provide factual information, and have farm labor available.

The industry must have improved drainage, land leveling, land and soil research, land grading, weed and insect control by chemicals, a study of irrigation, improving the quality of cotton, and how to have effective defoliation," Gee said.

"The committee stressed the importance of cotton harvesting improvements, ginning and marketing. There must be more efficient ways, and we may come to the point where we must find more labor. It will take the cooperation of every agency connected with the industry, including financial institutions and our state legislature.

"The time is short, and the needs are immediate to expand our present $90 million industry.

Dean Elmer Kiehl said:

"I am familiar with the work conducted by this committee, which entails a total of 128 persons. We are committed to this area's growth, and are spending time and money to assist you in your problems.

"We believe cotton has a future. Your group has requested a lot of work from us but you failed to add the dollar signs to your report. You have asked for an agriculture engineer and you will get one.

"Let me remind you that in 1961 the place where you were sitting was just an open field, and today it has one of the finest research centers in the country. We are putting effort on irrigation and drainage and will add more full time personnel to further the study."

Ratchford said:

"I am aware of the value of cotton to your area, and you must have a good crop to get in the swing of things. Cotton must be your swing industry, and we must have more top yields, instead of the one and two bales per acre, compared to yields, which are much greater in western states.

"We needed a feedback on what you need, and you have given it to us, but we must spend less time arguing different opinions. On Oct. 12 there will be an agricultural specialist come here to follow your guidance, and we are going to try to meet all of your demands. We started something in the Bootheel when we crossed over county lines in trying to solve your problems. The one thing that scares me is the reluctance of your farmers to make a farm practice change, because in most cases we find it takes them seven years. This practice must change greatly in the future."

Fair to Open on Monday

DEXTER - Agricultural and home economics contests, a parade and the Miss Stoddard County contest will highlight the Stoddard County Fair which begins Monday.

The midway will open Monday at 7 p.m. followed at 9 p.m. by the Future Farmers of America pig scramble at the arena. Tuesday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. home economics and 4-H entries will be accepted.

At 8:30 a.m. Wednesday field crop entries will be accepted and home economics exhibits will be judged. From 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. entries for prepared fresh flowers will be made.

Thursday at 9 a.m. 4-H and home economics exhibits will be open to the public; 10 a.m., closing time for field crop entries; 2 p.m., special matinee for children; 5 p.m., grand parade on Stoddard street, and 6 p.m., deadline for livestock entries.

Float prizes are $50 first place, $25 second and $15 third.

At 8 p.m. Thursday Miss Stoddard County will be crowned at the fairgrounds.

At 7 p.m. Friday swine will be judged; 8:30 p.m., beef cattle judging, and 9 p.m., 4-H pig scramble at the arena.

At the Dexter Homecoming Day Saturday exhibits will open at 9 a.m.

Fair officers are Dr. E. G. Bailey Jr., chairman; Jim Russell, vice chairman, and W. L. Arnold, secretary.

Jaycees Plan Projects to Offset Loss

After suffering a financial loss on the annual Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo this year, determined Junior Chamber of Commerce members have undertaken to make it up.

Exact amount of the loss has not been determined. Bad weather caused poor attendance.

The group is sponsoring a jackpot horse show Sunday at 1 p.m. on the rodeo grounds. In addition, the club will have two stands at the Cotton Carnival and is preparing for a white elephant sale. A fat calf sale is planned during October.

James Cox, chairman of the white elephant sale, said today that his 22-member committee has contacted 250 merchants asking for donations of merchandise to be sold in the event.

Date of the sale is at 1:30 p.m., Oct. 16 at the armory. Only a handful of merchants have responded to the call so far. More contributions are expected soon, Cox said.

A white elephant float is being prepared. It will be in the Cotton Carnival parade, Sept. 24.

Gemini Records Pile up

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Gemini 11 astronauts today soared higher and faster than ma has ever flown, amazingly cat napped while Richard F. Gordon Jr. hung halfway outside the orbiting ship and then spun through space tied to an Agena satellite by a 100-foot cord.

"This is really weird," Gordon commented as the astronauts disconnected from the Agena and began unreeling the cord between the two vehicles.

"Man this is wild," he added later.

Command pilot Charles Conrad Jr. had difficulty at first pulling the coiled tether out of a bag located on the Agena.

"It looks like we're skipping rope with the Agena," Conrad said as he attempted to pull the line taut between the two satellites.

"That will take somebody a while to figure out. We got a weird phenomena here. The tether's got a bow in it."

Hunter Phillips

Tax Official To Crown Miss Sikeston

Hunter Phillips, chairman of the State tax commission in Jefferson City, will be in Sikeston Sept. 23 during the Cotton Carnival to crown Miss Sikeston.

The crowning will take place following the Sikeston-Charleston football game. The carnival begins Monday and will continue through Sept. 24.

Each senior home room in the high school has submitted two candidates for the title. There are 11 senior home rooms so 22 candidates will compete.

Sfc. A. B. Ledbetter is chairman of the contest.

Phillips, a resident of Kansas City, was county judge of Jackson county in 1954-64. He was appointed chairman of the state tax commission in February of 1965.

Voice Objections At Highway Meet

Only two persons objected to the proposed plan to widen Highway 61 from the intersection with business route 61 south to the Greer st. intersection at a public hearing at 10 a.m. today at the Security National Bank.

The principal objections to the State Highway Department plan to widen the two mile stretch of Highway 60 from the intersection of business route 61 south to Greet St. were not aimed at the improvement itself. They were against the prospect of having to close some businesses during the construction.

The highway plan covered in the Sikeston Area Transportation study calls for the widening of the present 20 feet, two lane pavement to a width of 52 feet with four lanes. A four foot median is also included in the plan. It will be flush for most of the distance and raised at business district intersections between Tanner and Greer to provide for left or right turns. The plan is projected to meet the needs of the city in 1985.

Earl Jarvis, manager of the El Capri Motel, objected to the State Highway department proposal, because of the effect closing of his business entrances could have.

Sherman Grant, Grant Oil Co., voiced his objection to closing of entrances. He said, it was not that he objected to inconvenience caused by the progress, but that it was a dollars and cents proposition and that by cutting off access to his business, it could mean the death of the business.

Sherman suggested that the State Highway Department make some provision to allow customers to continue to enter businesses along the proposed improvement, while construction is being conducted.

Charles Matthews, 1 Cotton Trace, was the first to raise a question at the hearing. Matthews addressed his first question to the proposed four feet wide flush median, which is included in the proposal to be constructed from the business route 61 intersection to Tanner.

"What is the purpose of the median?" Matthews asked.

W. Dale Carney, 10 District Highway engineer, who conducted the hearing, explained that the median was planned, as a safety factor and to give additional width. No restrictions on turning right or left will be imposed concerning the flush median, Carney added.

Matthews also asked if the traffic flow study indicated the need to go north with the extension, rather than south. Matthews was particularly concerned with the area from Wakefield north to the business route intersection. This stretch is proposed to be a limited access area with certain planned points of entry. The points will be settled with the individual property owners if the plan materializes, Carney said.

The point Matthews emphasized, was that it seemed more important to build four lanes south from Greer, or south from Tanner to the intersection of Highway 60. This would serve more of the developed and presently congested business area, he noted.

William Vandivort, 8 Bel Air, questioned the drainage problem and asked who was responsible for the drainage. Carney noted that the city will have the responsibility to provide the necessary drainage from the railroad crossing back to Anderson to the open drainage ditch.

Jarvis asked how long it would be before construction began if all plans went through and were approved. Carney assured Jarvis that construction would not be started in 1967. He stated that depending on financing the construction probably would not be started for three to four years.

Jarvis also asked about the rerouting of traffic, and was told that there would be periods of rerouting depending on the phase and progress of the construction.

Ernest R. Inman, representing the board of public works, asked who would be responsible for paying the cost of moving the white way, if and when the construction is done.

Carney stated that the expense would have to be borne by the city or the board of public works.

Edward C. Matthews, Jr., 824 North Ranney, also asked about the limited access area, on the north section of the proposed improvement, suggesting that an expansion to the south seemed more logical.

Rolvaag Scores Primary Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Minnesota Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag, rejected for renomination by his own Democratic-Farmer-Labor party, won the chance on his own Tuesday to seek a second term in the Nov. 8 general election.

In another of Tuesday's 11 primary elections, Edward J. McCormack, a long-time challenger to the Kennedy clan, captured the Democratic nomination for governor of Massachusetts. He defeated Kenneth P. O'Donnell, a top aide to President John F. Kennedy.

Former House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, 81, was upset by a 35-year-old housewife and lawyer, Margaret M. Heckler, in his bid for Republican nomination to a 22nd term in another speaker during the 80th and 83rd Congresses and was Republican leader for 16 years before being toppled by Rep. Charles A. Halleck, R-Ind.

Some other races indicated popular support of President Johnson's Viet Nam policies and an apparent white blacklash to open housing, the most controversial section in the administration's civil rights bill. But national issues generally were scarce in the campaigns.

Besides Minnesota and Massachusetts, other primaries were held in Arizona, Colorado, Maryland, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont and Wisconsin. Voters chose nominees for six governorships, nine Senate seats and 74 House seats.

Rolvaag, 53, stormed past his handpicked lieutenant governor, A. M. (Sandy) Keith, 37, who bucked Rolvaag in June to win the party's convention endorsement. The governor also seemed to be carrying his state in three key races against Keith supporters.

Rolvaag will face Republican Harold LeVander, 55, a South St. Paul lawyer, who swept past nominal opposition in the GOP primary.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, a former Minnesota senator, took no active part in the primary campaign, although he backed Keith after the party nominated the lieutenant governor on the 20th ballot. He called early today for party unity in support of Rolvaag and predicted his re-election.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, took no side publicly in the Bay State Democratic primary, but promised to support Tuesday's victor in November.

This means Kennedy will be working for McCormack, whom he defeated in a bitter battle for the Senate nomination in 1962, in his general election campaign against GOP incumbent John A. Volpe, who was unopposed. McCormack is the nephew of House Speaker John W. McCormack.

Former Massachusetts Gov. Endicott Peabody, trying for a political comeback, defeated Boston Mayor John F. Collins in the Democratic race for Senate nomination.

Strike Hits MU Campus

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) - Maintenance workers at the University of Missouri went on strike today but at mid-morning a circuit judge issued a temporary restraining order directing them to stop picketing.

The Public Service Employes Local 45 called the walkout in its efforts to get recognition as a bargaining unit for various campus employes.

Circuit Judge John M. Cave granted the university petition for a temporary restraining order against the local.

It directed the union to stop picketing and to stop interfering with university operations.

The union's pickets had prevented members of some other crafts from going to their jobs on the campus, where preparations are being made for a record enrollment this fall.

The university's Medical Center and teaching Hospital was exempted by the union from the strike.

The union, affiliated with the Laborers' International Union of North America, has been seeking recognition as a bargaining unit. University officials contend state laws prohibit the university from granting such recognition.

Aged Graniteville Man Steps into Car's Path, Dies

Archie Sylvester Blankenship, 67, Graniteville, was killed yesterday at 6:30 p.m. in the city limits of Graniteville on highway 21, when he stepped in the path of a 1958 Chevrolet, driven by Doyle Cowin, 18, Van Buren.

The body of Blankenship was taken to the White Funeral Home in Ironton.

Roger Dale Neeley, 19, Malden, was arrested for careless and reckless driving, according to the highway patrol, when he entered a service station with his 1965 Honda Monday at 3:10 p.m. in Malden, at a high rate of speed and slid into a 1963 Chevrolet, parked near the station.

Neeley's vehicle went under the car, causing the youth to receive a possible broken foot. He was taken to the Doctor's Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Bill Sherwood, 67, Holland, was given a summons by the patrol for failure to yield right-of-way, in an accident yesterday at 1:20 p.m. on highway 61 at the state line.

He was driving a 1961 Ford, when he pulled in front of a 1966 Rambler, driven by Joseph Hayden, 60, Caruthersville.

Sherwood was treated by a Blytheville physician for injuries to his left arm.

A 16-year old juvenile girl of Poplar Bluff, driving a 1963 Chevrolet, sideswiped a 1963 White tractor trailer, driven by Rodney Nick, 25, Cape Girardeau.

The accident occurred last night at 8:30 p.m. in the east city limits of Poplar Bluff on route 60.

The juvenile was treated at the Lucy Lee Hospital, Poplar Bluff, for cuts on her face.

First Bale of Cotton Ginned in Sikeston Area

The first bale of cotton in the Sikeston area was ginned this week, the employment service reports.

Cotton picking, for all practical purposes will not begin until the last week in September. There are no out - of - area labor needs for harvest. No labor is available for out-of-area movement. There is a shortage of qualified, year-round farm hands.

The farm labor information station and rest camp, route two, served 307 migrants last week. All were returning to Texas.

Demand for seasonal farm workers in the Cape Girardeau area has increased. Apple pickers and hay hands for immediate employment are needed. Apple picking will continue for six weeks. There is no labor available for out-of-area employment.

Cool dry weather prevailed over the Caruthersville area this week. Scattered cotton picking started during the week. No great demand for hand pickers is expected. Most farmers are planning on picking from 85 to 90 per cent of their crops with machines.

There is little farming activity in the Poplar Bluff area. Fifteen tractor drivers were referred to Wisconsin this week. Cotton picking is not likely to start until around Oct. 1.

Expansion of Occupation Program Asked by School

A report on application for expansion of the multi - occupational program, latest enrollment figure and plans for educational conferences were discussed at the September school board meeting Tuesday afternoon at the superintendent's office.

The latest enrollment figures at the public schools show 3,884 attending, Lynn Twitty, school superintendent said.

The figure does not include 117 students in the area trade technical program from neighboring schools, he added.

Harold Vogel, assistant administrator, reported to the board that application has been filed with the federal government for approval of a new multi - occupational program for 342 trainees for institutional training. Approval is hoped for by Nov. 1, he said.

The application calls for the continuation of nine existing manpower development training act programs and inclusion of five new programs. The new areas of training would be general clerical, building trades, sales and related fields, small appliance repair, and small gas engine and outboard motor repair.

The nine programs existing are: automobile mechanics, body and fender repair, agriculture mechanics, food service, nursing aides, welding, building and ground maintenance, heating and refrigeration and licensed practical nursing.

Four persons from Sikeston will attend a governor's conference on education in Missouri set for Sept. 30 - Oct. 1 in Jefferson City.

Attending from Sikeston will be Mrs. Manuel Drumm, Bernard Rice, Harold Kiehne, director of secondary education, and Twitty.

Six Sikeston residents plan to attend the Missouri School Board association meeting Nov. 13-15 in Columbia. They are Bruce Lewis, Lee Austin Bowman, Clem Beal, Robert Mitchell, Dr. A. D. Martin, and Twitty.

The board voted approval of payment of $15,613 in monthly bills. The bills covered normal operations including transportation, supplies and incidentals.

In addition $2,078.09 was spent from the building fund for business machines, lawn mowers, and kitchen equipment.

Courses Will Be Offered

MALDEN - An organizational meeting for Southeast Missouri State college extension courses will be held at the science and mathematics building at 7 p.m. Friday.

Courses tentatively listed as available by the college for extension credit will be offered only if a minimum of 15 students enroll in each of the courses. Other courses than those listed may be offered if as many as 15 students make the request.

Courses will meet one evening each week.

Courses tentatively offered include English composition, American history, western civilization, fundamentals of speech, phonetics 2820; elementary accounting and intermediate algebra.

Brenda Graham Named Queen

BLOOMFIELD -- Brenda Graham, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Graham, was crowned Miss Bloomfield at the chamber of commerce's annual homecoming Tuesday night.

The fight to save nature's beauty continues in this country as the amount of unpopulated land shrinks.

As the population increases and more and more people live in cities the importance of wilderness areas and parks grows.

In frontier days wildernesses were in surplus. That is no longer true.

President Lyndon B. Johnson has nothing more urgent before him than to prod Congress into passing emergency legislation to save the northern California redwood forests.

The redwoods are arrayed in a controversy with conservationists taking the position that they should not be destroyed and lumber interests and county officials opposing them. The county officials are concerned because taxable lands disappear when forests become part of state and national parks.

The nation cannot afford to lose the inspirational value of the giant redwoods. It's not just a loss for California.

Congress failed to act this year on legislation to establish Redwood National Park.

Virgin trees are being cut up for lumber.

President Johnson has asked Congress to enact emergency legislation to stop it until the controversy is settled. A lumber company has refused to accept compensation for quitting its cutting operations.

Congress must act quickly on the emergency legislation and it should create the proposed Redwood National Park next session without fail.

It could go one step further and save the trees in Redwood Creek Valley as well.

The increase in tourist travel to northern California will through the years offset any immediate loss of revenue to communities in the region.

The lumber industry can be compensated for the loss.

Only about 300,000 redwoods are left from approximately two million acres of the forested acres. Few of these are now in state parks.

The majesty of these trees, providing shade, magnificent scenery, opportunities for inspiration and meditation will be needed more in the years ahead as city dwellers seek to get away from the noise and clamor of the centers of population.

Tomorrow's heritage of natural beauty is more important than today's greed.

LOWER AIR FARES?

When it comes to conflict of interest and half - a - loaf compromise, an international disarmament conference can't hold a candle to a meeting of international air carriers. Money as well as national pride is at stake. Both will be very much in evidence when the International Air Transport Association meets in Honolulu, Monday, Sept. 12, to establish fare rates for the two years beginning April 1, 1967.

The U. S. Civil Aeronautics Board recently stated that fare reductions were "warranted and required in the public interest" on the North Atlantic, North and Central Pacific, and United States-Mexico routes. With regard to the heavily traveled North Atlantic route, C.A.B. called for "substantial cuts" in economy - class fares, extension of excursion rates to weekends, and lower fares for Europeans traveling to this country.

The C.A.B. no doubt will get considerably less than it is asking for. Airline industry officials expect that group flight fares may be trimmed somewhat, and that baggage restrictions may be eased, but they foresee no across - the - board fare slash. Although C.A.B. has the power to veto any fare agreement signed by American members of I.A.T.A., it probably would think twice before doing so. The 43-day airline strike, which ended Aug. 19, left a hole in the carriers' pockets that will take time to mend.

ANTI-TRUST DISCRIMINATION

It is a well-known fact that exemption of labor unions from the anti-trust laws results in flagrant partiality in the application of these laws by the Department of Justice during strikes and labor - management disputes. Congress should remove the exemption and the bias in the law.

The shut down of New York City newspapers and the demise of the Herald Tribune offer a good case study of the inequities.

If the three publishers of the Journal American, the World-Telegram and the Herald Tribune had gotten together last Spring and announced they were going to shut down all three newspapers on April 25 for four months so they could work out the details of their merger, negotiate some new and more favorable labor contracts with their 10 unions, those publishers would have been brought before the bar of justice for conspiracy in restraint of trade.

Instead, when the publishers merged to continue morning, evening and Sunday newspapers the Guild said it was going to strike and it wouldn't let these publishers produce any papers after April 25 until its demands were met satisfactorily. The heads of nine other unions went along with this and the papers were shut down. But when the Guild's demands were met then the head of another union said "now it is our turn," and so on and on until the tenth -- the pressmen -- the final holdout.

The unions participated in deliberate acts of restraint of trade for which their employers would have been fined and imprisoned and competition has been stifled instead of fostered.

SO YOU THINK YOU'D PREFER THE GOOD OLD DAYS!

Consider the following office rules, posted in this country in 1872 by Zachary U. Geiger, sole proprietor of the Mount Cory Carriage and Wagon Works.

1. Office employees will daily sweep the floors, dust the furniture, shelves and showcases.
2. Each clerk will bring in a bucket of water and a scuttle of coal for the day's business.
3. Clerks will each day fill lamps, clean chimneys, trim wicks. Wash the windows once a week.
4. Make your pens carefully. You may whittle nibs to your individual taste.
5. This office will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. daily, except on the Sabbath, on which day it will remain closed.
6. Men employees will be given an evening off each week for courting purposes, or two evenings a week if they go regularly to church.
7. Every employee should lay aside from each pay a goodly sum of his earnings for his benefits during his declining years, so that he will not become a burden upon the charity of his betters.
8. Any employee who smokes Spanish cigars, uses liquor in any form, gets shaved at a barber shop, or frequent pool or public halls, will give me good reason to suspect his worth, intention, integrity, and honesty.
9. The employee who has performed his labors faithfully and without fault for a period of five years in my service, and who has been thrifty and attentive to his religious duties, is looked upon by his fellowmen as a substantial and law abiding citizen, will be given an increase of five cents per day in his pay, providing a just return in profits from the business permits it.

H. L. Hunt Says

THE BALLAD OF THE GREEN BERET

The Hit Parade has long been a barometer of the musical tastes and sentiments of our nation's young people.

A few weeks ago, a song called "The Ballad of the Green Berets" was #3 on the Hit Parade. The fact that a patriotic song, reflecting pride in our fighting men, has made a good showing on the popularity poll indicates in our young people an admirable interest and enthusiasm for those men who defend our freedom. How much better the proud praise of our freedom's defenders than the depressing warnings of doom and destruction popular in songs a few months ago!

The "Green Berets" are the Army's Special Forces--an elite group of specially trained young men skilled in guerilla warfare, survival techniques, communications and languages. Educational and physical requirements are high, the training is tough and demanding and only the most dedicated and resolute men are equal to it.

The "Green Berets" forerunners were World War II's Rangers, the first regiment which suffered casualties of about 9 out of 10 of its 2000 men. Their World War II counterpart in the Pacific was the Marine Raiders who hit beach after beach on island after island, wriging an illustrious new page in this country's history of heroic men who fight their country's battles.

Today the Green Berets deserve recognition and gratitude from all segments of the citizenry, but it is especially gratifying that our youth so accord it in their own way.

As the Ballad says, these young fighting men are "America's best," their personal sacrifices are many, and it speaks well for our country's future that its youth take such pride in the men of the Special Forces who serve it nobly and with honor. HLH

Finland's Socialist Prime Minister Explains Why Socialists Junk Socialism For More Profitable Capitalism

Helsinki, Finland: -- Where machine guns don't vote there is no Socialism.

Even here in Finland, where the common border with the Union of Soviet Socialist Re-Republics runs from darkened Lapland down to the Baltic, free enterprise, despite a Socialist coalition government, is "in."

Nationalization of industry is as "out" as a short haircut in a European youth club.

Every "Socialist" premier in Northern Europe will tell you that -- just as they told me all along the line.

This was especially true after a few minutes' conversation with a newspaperman who really made good -- Prime Minister Rafael Paasio. The Helsinki sun and his laughter wove a good-humored pattern through the high-ceilinged office atop the Council of State Building as I asked him about Socialist governments and nationalization of industry.

"Socialization is not the Pearly Gates," said the mild mannered Premier, who manages daily to keep his government on the thin line between the unspoken pressures of the USSR and the old friendships with the U.S.

Socialization or nationalization are not solutions to problems. We don't think states should nationalize property for the sake of nationalizing or government ownership.

"We are interested in raising the standard of living of our people," the Prime Minister asserted during our hour long talk.

I reminded him, as I had other Social Democratic Premiers in the past few weeks, that he is a veteran Socialist, running a Socialist Party. And I asked what of the old Socialist preachings of Kautsky, Vandervelde and Scandinavian Socialist prime ministers of old.

Mr. Paasio looked past me onto the Square of the Senate -- which architecturally is the best preserved of all old Empire style structures (with a statue of Russian Czar Alexander II in the center).

"Dead men should not lead," said he, quoting an old Finnish political writer.

His attitude is a reflection of the new times. Virtually all the major and powerful Socialist parties of Europe have abandoned their principles of collectivization. They don't confuse the welfare state, as it is known back home, with Socialism. They know that only an efficient and free business community can make their country prosper.

Furthermore, here the government encourages competition. The Prime Minister and his aides, in office since last May, explained that only a handful of businesses are run by the government. Some are in the wood working and processing field -- such as pulp and lumber. Some in iron ore. But in each case the government went in because private capital was either inefficient or insufficient. In some cases the government and private industry are partners. In many instances, the government and private plants compete in the same field.

"We do very little thinking about nationalization," said the premier, who had once edited a small town newspaper. "There is some thought of taking over some insurance business and production of pharmaceuticals."

Apparently neither the three Communists in his cabinet, nor the Finnish Communists who have 41 seats in the 200-man Parliament, attempt to pressure the coalition government into socialization of Finland's commerce and industry. Such policies obviously have failed across the Soviet border. They have failed in Eastern Europe. They are being abandoned everywhere for capitalist pursuits. This is simplification. But any other analysis is falsification.

Everywhere, the Communists are trying to go "mod." Everywhere, and here, too, the younger radicals are weary of the outmoded Socialist slogans and interminable dialectic mouthings of Moscow's inflexible leaders.

They push their elders for new faces. They snicker at them. They laughed here when Gus Hall came recently and talked of an American Communist party and terminology long considered old hat in Finland.

I asked the prime minister whether the Kremlin pressures the freedom-loving Finns -- philosophically, militarily, or morally.

"They do not," he retorted. "We sleep well at night."

And then, as have all the other prime ministers, he spoke of his affection for the U.S. -- BUT expressed, in soft terms, his opposition to our policy in Viet Nam. He thought we should get out. But he knew not how.

"It's a matter of prestige," said he as we pirouetted around the issue of Southeast Asia.

After I left, I asked an aide if I could talk with the powerful Centrist Finnish president Urho Kekkonen. "Oh, he has gone hunting near Sotchi with Premier Kosygin," was the reply.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's Note: The brass ring good for one free ride on the Washington Merry - Go-Round today goes to President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines.)

WASHINGTON -- A lot of presidents, prime ministers, and potentates have visited the White House this year, but none more important than Ferdinand Marcos, President of the Philippines, first modern republic to emerge in Asia, a showcase of American democracy.

Here are the reasons for the importance of his visit:

1. The ties between the Philippines have begun to wear thin. No longer do Filipinos like being called a show - case of American democracy.

2. The Philippines have done a great job of education and reconstruction in various Asian countries, could do more. They can be of especial help in South Viet Nam.

3. The Philippines have become an important stabilizer for peace and against Communism in troubled Southeast Asia. With support and encouragement, they can do more.

MARCOS THE MAN

The man who will sit down President Johnson to discuss these matters is a handsome war hero whose family has been fighting Philippine battles for the past 75 years, and who himself once murdered the political enemy of his father.

His grandfather joined the anti - American Guerillas immediately after the Spanish-American war to try to upset American rule and was one of those who nearly killed my father - in - law, then a young lieutenant in the American army trying to subdue the jungles of the Philippines in the way we are now fighting in the jungles of Viet Nam. The American army never did succeed until General Aguinaldo, leader of the Guerillas, surrendered.

President Marcos has seen more than his share of fighting. He was wounded in Bataan, after Gen. Mac Arthur retreated there; captured by the Japanese, forced to join the Bataan death march; escaped twice and recaptured twice, severely tortured. Toward the end of the war he helped organize the Guerillas in Southern Luzon which made the landing of American forces there much easier. During the closing days of the war, he helped capture the Japanese commander, Gen. Yamishita, in the bitter battle of Besang Pass. Today, he holds 27 medals, the most decorated Filipino soldier of World War II.

In his previous civilian attack on his father's political rival, Nalundasa, Marcos was convicted of murder, appealed his case; and by studying law in prison, won his release from the supreme court.

Perhaps because he understands war, Marcos, when campaigning for President, was against Philippine participation in Viet Nam, even though his country is a member of the SEATO Alliance.

But after becoming President, Marcos switched, has now sent a 2,000-man engineering battalion to South Viet Nam to rebuild and improve villages.

It was the civil action program in Philippine villages under Gen. Edward Lansdale which did so much to cut the ground out from under the HUK Communist movement. Lansdale has tried to duplicate this in Viet Nam.

UNREST IN PHILIPPINES

President Marcos' shift of policy has caused a lot of criticism in the Philippines. He put it very frankly in a private letter to President Johnson, Aug. 9, in which he accepted LBJ's invitation to come to Washington.

"There has been a noticeable resurgence of subversive activities since the Philippine government decided to send to Viet Nam a Philippine civic action group with security troops," President Marcos wrote Johnson.

"My administration has instituted a massive campaign of land reform directed at the heartland of subversion, designed to convert big feudalistic landed estates into small landholdings for the benefit of tenants and small farmers."

Few countries are better qualified to help bring peaceful democracy to Asia. Some years ago, while in Afghanistan, I visited a civil aviation school conducted by Filipinos under an American aid program to teach Afghans modern airport management. Because of color prejudice, Filipinos were able to do a much better job than white Americans.

This is also true in South Viet Nam.

President Marcos is fully aware of the fact that his country has a long way to go in eradicating poverty, improving its schools, and stamping out graft. Corruption is just as rampant as in South Viet Nam. And with over 7,000 islands in the Philippines, it is relatively easy for smugglers to unload anything from cigarettes to automobiles without paying duty. Half of the government's revenue is lost in this way.

President Marcos has begun to crack down on this, is determined to wipe out bribe-taking by government officials and legislators. He also has some arguments to settle with Johnson regarding the 500,000 acres of military property held by the United States under a 99-year lease.

But, compared with the first time I visited the Philippines, in 1922 when it was an American Colony under the stern command of Gen. Leonard Wood, the Republic of the Philippines has become a proud, vigorous, and successful example of self - government in an area where self - government is precarious indeed.

NEW TEAM FOR STATE DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON -- After a great deal of searching, President Johnson has now found the no. 2 man for the state department, Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, former sugar refining executive who turned diplomat 15 years ago and has established a remarkable career in diplomacy ever since.

The post he will fill, Undersecretary of State, is one of the most important in government, partly because it has been so well filled by George Ball, retiring Undersecretary, partly because the job of backstopping the Secretary of State in the present complicated state of world affairs has become almost as important as that of secretary.

For the no. 3 post in the state department, Deputy Undersecretary for Economic Affairs, Johnson has tentatively selected Lucius Battle, long-time able state department official whose latest post has been Ambassador to the United Arab Republic.

Ambassador Bunker's latest job has been that of unsnarling the complicated Dominican Republic mess, one of the most difficult in the Western Hemisphere, which required consummate skill and tact and which he finally succeeded in doing.

There has been some hesitancy about picking Bunker for the exhausting job of Undersecretary of State because he is 72 years old. However, the manner in which he worked night and day to solve the Dominican crisis convinced the President that he could outwork a much younger man.

YALE AND DIPLOMACY

Bunker first came upon the diplomatic scene through the happenstance of having attended Yale, one class behind Dean Acheson, (1916) who when he became Secretary of State picked Bunker in 1951 to be Ambassador to Argentina, at that time giving trouble because of the anti - American policies of Dictator Peron.

Bunker went from Buenos Aires to Rome. And when the Eisenhower administration took over, was picked by Ike to head the American Red Cross. Bunker has spent his life in private business, having started in sugar refining in 1927, and worked his way up to be chairman of the National Sugar Refining Company.

It is unusual for a Republican administration to recognize the abilities of a political ambassador, and Bunker was clearly stamped as a Truman appointee. However, other diplomats were impressed with Bunker's ability and recommended to John Foster Dulles that he be made Ambassador to India, where he did a suberb job for five difficult years. He was then given an even more difficult job -- mediator of the new Guinea dispute between Indonesia and the Netherlands.

By this time Bunker was considered the most valuable trouble - shooter in the state department, and he was appointed Ambassador to the Organization of American States, an assignment which took him to the Dominican Republic.

Bunker is a native New Yorker, has also served as a director of the Curtis Publishing Company, the Lambert International Corporation, and several insurance companies.

BATTLE'S CAREER

Lucius Battle was born in Dawson, Ga. in 1918, educated at the University of Florida, 1939, became a resident of Virginia where he served on the commission for the restoration of Williamsburg, and as one of the Virginia campaign managers for the late John F. Kennedy in the 1960 election.

Battle had come to know Kennedy in the navy in World War II, and, after his election, Kennedy appointed him Assistant Secretary of State in charge of education and cultural affairs. Battle had served in the state department previously as a career diplomat, having acquired experience in NATO, at the American Embassies in Paris and Copenhagen, and a special assistant to secretaries Acheson and Rusk.

Johnson appointed Battle Ambassador to Cairo in 1964. He is 48 years old.

Irene Ann Bowan Says Vows With Charles Brown

LILBOURN- Miss Irene Ann Bowan and Charles Franklin Brown were married at the Methodist church Friday at 8 p.m. by the Rev. Claude Stone, Jr., pastor of the church.

Mickey Hendricks, New Madrid, was best man and Miss Rosemary Martin, Doniphan, as maid of honor. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The new Mrs. Brown is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bowan. She is a graduate of Lilbourn high school. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tinsley Brown, New Madrid.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in fellowship hall of the church, after which the couple left for a trip to points of interest in western Tennessee.

The couple will live in New Madrid where Brown is employed by a motor firm.

Keglers Korner

By Hildred Poole

Hello! Things have gotten off to a slow start this year, as far as the reports getting to me concerning the different leagues. Secretaries will have to give me the reports before I can put them in this column.

IMPERIALETTS

Kroger 4 -- Crown 0; Global Finance 1; A & B 3-- L & A 1; Belltones 2 -- Progressive 2.

High game was rolled by Mildred Cockrell and high series was rolled by Jessie Young. The high game was 185 and series was 486. Good shooting gals.

The only two splits that I saw picked up were; the 5-8-10 picked up by Pat Happe and the 3-9-10 picked up by Nelda Hogde.

ROYAL KEGLERS

Janie Shell really got her ball rolling and bowled high game of 236. This is 97 pins over her last year's average and that is really firing that ball. Janie I sure do need some pointers this year. How about some help? Jean Lee also rolled high series of 568. This gal never quits. She just keeps pounding that ball into the pocket and comes out on top.

League standings for this league are Liberty Super Market 7-1; Busch Bavarian 6-2; C. D. Alcorn Agency 5½-2½; Bank of Sikeston 5-5; Malone and Hyde 4 1/2 - 5 1/2; Holyfield Flying service 4-6; Mutual of Omaha 4-6; Lewis Furniture Co. 3-5; First National Bank 3-5; Ferrell Rental Equipment Co. 3-5; General Oil Co. 2-6; Wades Body Shop 1-7. This league has expanded to a 12-team league and I understand they are really enjoying the larger league.

No column would be complete at this time with out at least a brief mention of Pop Ziegenhorn. Pop was at the lanes a great deal and no-one enjoyed bowling any more than he did. We'll all miss him!

Mrs. Rhein to Instruct Hat Class Oct. 13

NEW MADRID - On Oct. 13, at the community building, members of the extension clubs in New Madrid county will have the opportunity to attend a hat-making class.

Mrs. Albert Am Rhein, of Hopedale, Ill., will be the instructor. She writes:

"With the sounds of autumn in the air, milady's attention is turned toward the new trend in fall millinery. The pill box and variations are always in vogue. The 'travel and packable' is convenient as well as dynamically good looking. Off-face hats, naturally in the young look, feature such colors as purple, plum, bright green, brown, and all beiges. Velours and jewel-tone velvets are favorite fabrics, and are often accompanied with maline and velvet tubing. Of course, as always for fall, there will be all colors and designs of feathers, and sometimes hats feature veils, flowers, and various types and colors of leaves."

Ticket sales must be reported and money sent to Mrs. Paul Trout, Kewanee, by Tuesday, since the size of the class is limited, and if club members do not fill the quota, outsiders may attend. The morning session will start at 9:30 a.m. A list of items to bring is printed on the back of the tickets.

Mrs. Smith Is Honored At Shower

MOREHOUSE - The home of Mrs. Lucian Appleton was the scene of a wedding shower honoring Mrs. Gary Don Smith, Sept. 2.

The bride's colors of blue and pink were carried out.

Those attending or sending gifts were the honoree's mother, Mrs. Roy Barber and Phyllis, Mrs. Lavern Smith and Louise, Mrs. Goldie Moore, Mrs. Mildred Wilson, Mrs. Zelmer Goines and Sara Ray, all of Gray Ridge.

Mrs. Shirley White of St. Louis, Mrs. Clarence Patterson, Mrs. Hattis Hunt, Mrs. Jimmie Parker, Mrs. Myrtle Smith, Mrs. Evelyn Lewis, Mrs. Mildred Stroud and Brenda, Mrs. Marie Channey, Betty Crider, Geraldean Goodwin.

Matthews PTA Committee Meets

Plans for the school year were discussed at the first meeting of the year of the Matthews Elementary Parents-Teachers Association executive committee Thursday with Don Bohannon, president.

The budget was drawn up for presentation and approval at the first regular meeting of the P.T.A.

Programs for the year were planned with the theme being "For Every Child - A Chance".

Several projects are being considered, a membership drive is planned and a successful year is expected.

After the meeting, refreshments were served to the group by Mrs. Bohannon.

We would like to say Thank You
for your patience and understanding during our remodeling.
We have completed our project and now open for business.

Flood Collects Two RBI's In Eighth For 3-2 Cardinal Victory

Curt Flood's eighth inning double drove in two Cardinal teammates for a 3-2 St. Louis victory over Cincinnati. It was the first time St. Louis has defeated the Reds in their last eight games.

Cincinnati led twice before Flood's double settle the issue. Deron Johnson doubled in the Reds first run in the fourth and hit his 24th homer of the season in the seventh.

The Cards got their first run in the fifth on Orlando Cepeda's single, a walk and Ed Spiezio's single.

Larry Jaster won his 10th against five losses.

Roger Repoz slammed a two-run homer in the 15th inning Tuesday night to break up a 1-1 standoff between Kansas City and Cleveland and give the A's a 3-1 victory.

Kansas City's first run in the second inning at Cleveland also came off the bat of Repoz. Ed Charles doubled, moved to third on an infield out and scored on Repoz' roller to second.

The Indians tied it in the eighth on Fred Whitfield's lead-off homer.

There were a number of missed scoring opportunities as the A's stranded six men and Cleveland left nine on base. Each team got 9 hits, but they were well scattered by A's starter Paul Lindblad and the Indians Steve Hargan.

Lindblad went eight and two-thirds innings and allowed 7 hits while Hargan went 13 innings and gave up only 5 hits.

Jack Aker was the winner. He pitched the last three innings and was touched for one hit. It was his seventh victory against four losses. The loss went to Rookie Ray Culver in relief.

Kansas City has now won five straight and trails sixth place Cleveland in the American League standing by five games.

John Odom will try to extend the string to six tonight against the Indians and Sam McDowell.

Ray Washburn will start for the Cardinals tonight in Busch Memorial Stadium and Milt Pappas will be on the mound for Cincinnati.

Franks Awarded One Year Contract

SAN FRANCISCO AP - Herman Franks has signed a third one-year contract to manage the San Francisco Giants, fighting now for the National League pennant.

"We all think he has done a splendid job," announced club owner Horace Stoneham Tuesday. "There was no question he would be rehired."

Terms were not announced. But it was believed Franks, 51, will get $50,000 for leading the club in 1967.

Roland Named By AP

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Roland wasn't even a starter last Sunday when the St. Louis Cardinals played the Philadelphia Eagles. He didn't play in the first half, except to run back a punt for 11 yards.

But when Charley Winner, new Cardinal coach, cut him loose in the second half, he helped St. Louis turn a 10-3 deficit into a 16-13 victory. Johnny will start from now on.

Because of his inspired performance under pressure, The Associated Press has selected the Missouri rookie halfback as the Offensive Player of the Week in national Football League.

Roland ran for first downs three times after he entered the game. He rushed eight times for 53 yards, caught two passes for 40 yards, returned two kicksoffs for 50 yards and brought back two punts for 16 yards. For his first day one the job—even if it was a half day —he contributed 159 yards to total offense.

"I thought about starting Roland earlier in the week," Winner said. "But I decided to go with experience. I went to him in the second half because he's an opportunist. He reminds me of Paul Hornung in that he makes the most of what he has."

Roland, who played defense last year at Missouri to plug a need, has become a prime favorite with Card fans, He grabbed a deflected pass for a 37-yard gainer on a third-and-33 situation. The catch, after Joe Scarpati of Philadelphia and Sonny Randle of the Cards collided and both touched the ball, set up the go-ahead TD for a 13-10 lead, in the final period.

Jim Bakken's 27-yard field goal finally won the game in the last five seconds.

Bart Starr of Green Bay scored a touchdown on an improvised eight-yard run out of the passing pocket and mixed his plays well in a 24-3 romp over Baltimore.

Starr completed 14 of 19 for 138 yards and also ran three times for 36 yards. Jim Taylor also sparkled for Green Bay on offense by rushing 16 times for 76 yards.

Bill Brown of Minnesota took out after the running title vacated by Jim Brown when he carried 16 times for 99 yards in the Vikings' 20-20 tie with San Francisco. Fred Cox tied it with a 31-yard field goal into the wind with six seconds to go.

Homer Jones, the New York Giants' fleet spread end, scored twice at Pittsburgh on pass plays from Earl Morrall that covered 75 and 98 yards. He caught only two all day in the 34-34 tie, but they added up to 173 yards.

TONY OLIVA, left, of the Minnesota Twins has been the American League batting champion for two years in a row and he'd like to make it three. Baltimore's Frank Robinson has other ideas. The two are running neck and neck for the batting title with Robinson having a chance to win the triple crown—the batting, runs batted in and home run championships.

MIAA Football

Ivan Schottel's fourth and most experienced Maryville State team and always-tough Springfield State are ready to strongly challenge — and possibly end — Kirksville State's supremacy in MIAA football this fall.

Coach Red Wade at Kirksville calls it a rebuilding year, although he has a talented nucleus in quarterback Rick Goyzynski, end John Newcomb and fleet halfback Sharron Washington, all three first team All-MIAA last year. Washington led the league with 949 yards rushing and 96 points.

Wade's line is thin in experience and he must rebuild the defensive secondary, but the Bulldogs won't give up the title easily.

Schottel has 29 lettermen and two straight 6-3 seasons. Prior to 1964, Maryville had only one winning season in 11 years. Schottel has experience gaps in some key positions, but the potential is there.

At Springfield, Jim Mentis has Pat Hogan, all-league fullback, several good linemen, some good transfers, and Ardie McCoy, an outstanding sophomore halfback. Springfield was runner up in 1965.

Kenneth Knox at Cape Girardeau State has 24 lettermen and believes his team could be improved if it can avoid the 1965 injury troubles. Warrensburg State, under new coach, Howard Mahanes, could be a dark-horse.

Coach Dewey Allgood of the University of Missouri at Rolla is rebuilding after losing eight starters through grades or transfers.

Mike Corbett, a good passer, may become the quarterback Schottel needs for split end Bob Albanese, an all-league choice who grabbed 37 passes for 556 yards last year.

Maryville's top runner is Jim Blankenship, with 747 yards in '65.

Mahanes takes over at Warrenburg with a 68-16-2 career record at Galena (Kan.) High School and Fort Scott (Kan.) Junior College.

His 23 lettermen include passer John Repp and receiver Keith Browne.

Cape's key man could be quarterback Greg Brune. Allgood is counting heavily at Rolla on quarterback Ronnie Lewis, who threw for 1,006 yards last year, and halfback Richard Erxleben, who ran for 467.

The opening schedule Saturday has Kirksville at Western Illinois, Pittsburg State at Warrensburg, Maryville at Drake, Cape Girardeau at Northeast Louisiana, Emporia State at Springfield, and Rolla at Harding of Searcy, Ark.

FISHING FACTS

A CASE FOR CANE

To many sport fishermen, the thought of a cane pole is akin to the feeling of an opera fan when subjected to a session of "rock and roll" music.

However, when considered in terms of popularity, the cane pole probably draws as many admirers in the fishing world as the rock-and-roll crowd does among music lovers.

The cane pole deserves a better reputation than it generally receives, claim the fishing experts. Besides being the best angling tool for toddlers, this unadorned chunk of Calcutta can produce fish under the most difficult situations when wielded with a knowing hand.

The cane pole artist must, of course, exercise his talents in a radius limited to about two times the length of his pole. But within this area he can achieve perfect casting control and handle the lure with a delicacy and precision that eludes many other fishermen.

The cane poler can plop a plug or dangle a fly with unmatched accuracy. If a toss goes slightly astray it can be yanked back without touching the water and the error erased. Retrieves can be zigzaged over a wide area with a tantalizing flourish. Dappling the surface with the lure is another cane pole technique nearly impossible to duplicate with other tackle.

Cane pole fishing is far more than just boobers and worms, so give it another look, or perhaps even give it a try. You might start catching fish in those difficult places you formerly had to pass up, and that alone makes a good "case" for "cane."

Americans consume an average of 15.5 pounds of coffee a year.

Statistics Can Be Misleading

NEW YORK (AP) — Statistics can be misleading. The first crop of team figures for the National Football League emphasize the point.

The Chicago Bears are best on defense, according to the yardage tale, yielding only 208 yards in their opener. But they lost to Detroit 14-3.

Pittsburgh was No. 1 against the running game, holding New York to 32 yards. They just got out with a 34-34 tie.

San Francisco was the top performer on pass defense, allowing Minnesota only 72 yards. Still, the 49ers wound up in a 20-20 tie with the Vikings.

Look at the figures for team offense.

Los Angeles had the best over-all attack with 421 yards. They managed to sneak through against the new expansion team from Atlanta, 19-14, but they did it with four field goals.

The Vikings, shot down in the air, were the leading rushers with 226 yards in their 20-20 tie with the 49ers.

Los Angeles also showed the way in passing offense with 275 yards, but Roman Gabriel's 21 of 35 produced only one touchdown in that 19-14 victory.

Individual offensive leaders for the first week were Bill Brown of Minnesota with 99 yards on 16 carries to top the rushers and Tommy McDonald of Los Angeles with nine catches for 114 yards and No. 1 place among the receivers.

Bill Nelsen of Pittsburgh was rated first among the passers in the complicated rating system used by the NFL.

Oscar Derby Heading Into Home Stretch

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This is the season when the leaves start to golden and the swallows bug out of Capistrano. It also marks the beginning of the home stretch in the Oscar derby.

It is shaping up as a lively race, one of the best in years if the prestigious autumn releases fulfill their promise.

The pace was set earlier this year by "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" which had the shock value and dramatic power to nominate itself immediately, and in all departments.

The film may produce the oddity of having all four players nominated in the four acting categories: Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton as stars and Sandy Dennis and George Segal as support. The Burtons conceivably could win history's first "his" and "hers" Oscars.

Little else that has been released earlier in the year seems to be in top contention. Alan Arkin made an impressive debut in "The Russians are Coming etc." and could be nominated. There are nomination chances in various categories for "Khartoum," "Fantastic Voyage" (effects), "Alfie," "The Blue Max" and "Harper."

The blockbusters are yet to come, and they will be jamming Los Angeles theaters in December to make the Academy deadline.

Fox has two big ones on the way. "The Bible" is likely to create a stir, both for its direction by John Huston and in various performances, although the episodic nature of the film could mitigate against the latter.

Robert Wise, a two-time winner with "West Side Story" and "Sound of Music," is rushing the completion of his $11-million "The Sand Pebbles" to make the deadline. Also from Fox: "Hombre," a Paul Newman Western.

Julie Andrews, nominated twice in a row, could make it a third with the epic "Hawaii." The United Artists film is a possibility for best picture honors, as well as for the acting of Max Von Sydow. United Artists also has hopes for Zero Mostel in "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum." And Walter Matthau in "The Fortune Cookie."

Columbia has three big ones on the way: Richard Brooks' "The Professionals" with Burt Lancaster, Lee Marvin, etc.; Fred Zinnemann's "A Man for All Seasons" with Paul Scofield; and the Peter O'Toole-Omar Sharif film, "Night of the Generals."

Other studios appear to be placing their chances on single releases. Paramount has the multistar "Is Paris Burning?"

MGM is planning a late release of the racing adventure, "Grand Prix." Universal's prestige item is "Fahrenheit 451," Francois Truffaut's first film in English.

Fischer Quints Mark Third Birthday

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP) - The Fischer quintuplets celebrate their third birthday today - but their party will be out of the public eye.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fischer, try to keep the quints away from gawkers. Residents of Aberdeen, their hometown, see them only infrequently, generally when they ride by in the family station wagon.

Friends say the quints talk a lot. Jimmy, the biggest, reportedly does the most chatting. His sisters are Cathy, Margie, Mary Ann and Maggie.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

THE PIZZA TASTE is an ever-fascinating one. It can be dressed up in many new ways such as this Pizza Rice Pie. The crust is a savory rice mixture. The topping is convenient, canned tomato sauce with cheese and many of the pizza "standards" -- oregano, basil, Mozzarella cheese, pepperoni and stuffed olives. Serve with a green salad and fresh fruit.

Pizza Rice Pie Wins Cook 'Bravos'

All the world loves the pizza flavor which is a heady blend of tomato, Italian spices, herbs and cheeses. As long as the topping keeps its same gusto, the cook can change the crust for welcome variety. Why not a rice crust?

The answer is a hearty "yeah" after you've tasted this "Pizza Rice Pie." Cooked rice, onion, eggs and butter are pressed into a regular pizza pan and partially baked. Then the convenient seasoner, canned tomato sauce with cheese, is poured right from the can over the rice crust. Herbs, cheese, meat and olives go on in quick order. Pop into the oven. In less than 30 minutes you have a main dish that will inspire "bravos."

With the rice pizza pie serve a green salad with oil and vinegar dressing, and fruit for dessert.

PIZZA RICE PIE
2-2/3 cups cooked rice
1/3 cup minced onion
2 eggs, beaten
3 Tablesp. melted butter or margarine
1 (8-oz.) can tomato sauce with cheese
1/4 teasp. oregano
1/4 teasp. basil
1 cup shredded Mozzarella cheese
1 (4-1/2 oz.) package sliced pepperoni
1/2 cup sliced stuffed olives

Mix together rice, onion, eggs and melted butter. Line a 12-inch pizza pan with rice mixture and bake 12 minutes at 50 degrees F. until set. Spread tomato sauce with cheese over rice crust. Sprinkle with oregano, basil and shredded cheese. Top with pepperoni and olives. Bake at 350 degrees F., 20 to 25 minutes before serving. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

FOREIGN AID AUTHORIZATION

There is increased apprehension about the size and method of handling of the Foreign Aid Program. This is combined with a steady loss of gold by this country to foreign countries as a result of our continuing unfavorable balance of payments. These apprehensions were reflected by the vote which gave Senate approval to the conference report authorizing $3.5 billion for the foreign assistance program in the fiscal year 1967, which was passed by a remarkably small majority, 33-25.

The Senate voted separate authorizations for military and economic assistance and authorized $2.06 billion for economic assistance, $792 million for the military aid program.

The House of Representatives combined them, however, and because of this, plus the fact the House obtained in conference $731 million more than had been authorized by the Senate, I voted against the bill.

There were 98 points of difference between the Senate and the House of Representatives compromised in the conference. The House and Senate having both approved, the bill is cleared for the President's signature.

CIVIL RIGHTS

Following the Labor Day recess, the Senate began what is expected to be a lengthy debate on the Civil Rights Act of 1966 as passed by the House of Representatives.

The five major titles of the bill deal respectively with: Selection of federal juries; discrimination in state jury selection; preventive court relief against threatened violations of civil rights of individuals; discrimination in the sale or rental of housing by those in the business of developing, selling or renting houses; and federal punishment for forceful interference with a person lawfully engaged in certain federally protected activities such as voting or enrolling in public schools.

ZIP CODE WEEK

The week of October 15 to 20 will be observed as National Zip Code Week in 302 major cities throughout the country, according to a recent announcement by the Post Office Department. During this week, postmasters will cooperate with local business, civic and educational leaders in fitting Zip Code promotional projects into the pattern of community activities.

The Missouri cities participating in Zip Code Week include Independence, Kansas City, St. Joseph, St. Louis, and Springfield.

Zip Codes become mandatory for all second and third class volume mailers beginning January 1, 1967.

The other three members of the five-man board include two farmers, Howard Taylor, Dexter, and James Schooling, Concordia; and C. B. Ratchford, University vice-president for extension.

London Bishop to Lay Cornerstone at Fulton

LONDON (AP) - The Anglican Bishop of London, Dr. Robert Stopford, will lay the cornerstone of the Winston Churchill Chapel at Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., next month.

It was in Fulton, on March 5, 1956, that Sir Winston made his famous "Iron Curtain" speech.

The chapel will be built around the shell of the Church of St. Mary Aldermanbury, designed by the famous 17th century architect-Sir Christopher Wren-which was bombed so badly in World War II that only its walls and interior columns survived.

The shell has abeen reerected as an American tribute to Church.

Bishop Stopford and his wife will leave London Sept. 30 for a 10-day visit to the United States.

'Has-Been' Debbie Enrolls at Kansas U.

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) - "I'm just a has-been," Debbie Bryant said Monday as she enrolled at the University of Kansas.

Debbie was a year late getting enrolled. She toured the country last year as Miss America. Her reign ended Saturday night with the crowning of her successor, Jane Jayroe, Miss Oklahoma.

A transfer from Christian College in Columbia, Mo., Debbie will be a resident counselor in a freshman dormitory at Kansas, a rare post for a girl who has not attended the university before.

When the Overland Park, Kan. native arrived on campus here, a dozen boys volunteered to carry her luggage. One said it would be an honor to carry Miss America's luggage.

That prompted Debbie to say: "I'm not Miss America any more. I'm just a has-been."

Stock Chief's Resignation Raises Several Eyebrows

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP)— When an executive quits a top job in his mid-50s, his health good and his future plans indefinite, his action generates rumors that imply the real reason for his departure lies buried.

George Keith Funston generated those rumors this week. Funston, 55 years old, 6 feet 3, and in good health despite gray hair, made plans to quit as president of the New York Stock Exchange, giving as his reason:

"The demanding nature of the presidency precludes me from pursuing many other interests which I should like to enjoy more fully in the future."

Among these interests are gardening, travel, education and church work, and corporate directorships.

So, in the privacy of his big mint-green office, where the ticking of a small clock made a quiet contrast to the boisterous trading floor below, Funston was asked the real reason.

"The possibility of a new contract not being extended to me was never a consideration in my plans to leave," he replied. "I knew it would be offered to me. I never was more in the saddle than now. The board was 100 per cent behind me."

Funston said he liked the job. "It's a whale of a good job," he said. "It's no burden."

And so why did he announce plans to leave the job on or before expiration of his present contract in September 1967?

"I've got so many other things to do. This is a night and day job, and I tend to get myself wrapped up in everything I do anyway. I think I deserve a rest.

"From the time I come in until I go home I'm with somebody. There's a lot of balls in the air all the time. Yes, I'm more tired now when I go home at night than I used to be. But now the control will be in me."

As president of the exchange, Funston is its voice, and though it has been a loud voice in bringing a bit of democracy into what has been called a private club, he has received criticism from many directions—fair and unfair—a natural hazard of the job.

This he discounted as a motivation. "I've found that those who are against you today will be with you tomorrow," he said. He restated his goal of doing now the things he always wanted to do.

Funston feels he had done a good job. Among other things he put the exchange on a sound financial footing. It had been losing money regularly. His biggest contribution, associates feel, was in broadening shareholders from 6.5 million when he took over to 21 million now.

Welfare Roles Total 2,074

BENTON -- The Scott County Welfare office handled 2,074 cases in August with a total payment of $158,151.70, Mrs. Cathleen Gipson, county welfare director, reported.

Of this amount the largest portion, $84,648, went for old age assistance, which had 1,251 cases or $67.66 payment per person.

For old age assistance nursing care and vendor payments 42 cases received $4,067.70 or $96.85 per person.

The 424 cases of aid to dependent children totaled 1,312 children with a total payment of $44,251, or $104.39 per case and $33.73 per child.

On general relief roles of 129 cases with 143 persons received $8,701, or $67.45 per case and $60.85 per person. Permanent and total disability accounted for 187 cases and $13,204, or $70.25 per person.

Forty-one cases were handled on the aid to the blind role, for a total of $3,280 or $80 per person.

Fifty-two children received child welfare services, including nine child welfare services, nine protective services, 20 foster home care with a total expense from state and county funds of $995.48 or an average of $49.77 per child and 14 services were given to adoptive and unmarried mothers.

Rev. Kennon Withdraws from District Race

ADVANCE -- The withdrawal of the Rev. Lawrence Kennon of Advance as Republican candidate in the 150th district is official.

Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick said Monday that a written withdrawal had been received in his office from Rev. Mr. Kennon.

The Rev. Mr. Kennon gave ill health as the reason. The letter was dated Sept. 9. The Rev. Mr. Kennon earlier had said he would withdraw for health reasons.

Selection of a new candidate to replace him is expected to be the main item of business at the Bollinger county Republican Committee meeting Wednesday. Whoever is chosen will face incumbent Democrat Frank C. Ellis of Sedgewickville in the November election.

The 150th district is composed of Bollinger and Madison counties, two townships in St. Francois county and one township in Stoddard county.

Weaver Sets MU Position On Collective Bargaining

COLUMBIA, Mo. AP -- President John C. Weaver Tuesday spelled out the University of Missouri's position on collective bargaining in a letter to all non-academic employes.

Dr. Weaver said his letter was prompted, in part, by employes concerned over a recent letter sent by Service Employes Local No. 45.

The union letter he pointed out said the union had reached the point where unless the university grants Local 45 exclusive bargaining rights for all non-academic employes, including the withholding of dues from wages and negotiations about conditions of employment by Sept. 12, 1966, the union would be forced to use "pressures."

Dr. Weaver said he had answered the union by pointing out the university cannot legally bargain or enter into a contract with it.

"The board of curators had previously told the union the same thing," he said. "I further stated that if Local 45 disagreed on the law, the university would be willing to cooperate if the union wished to seek a judgment in a court on these legal questions."

He said the university had based its position on a ruling of the Missouri Supreme Court and he added:

"The university cannot change the law."

He said one of the questions being asked by employes is whether they would be required to join a union. The answer to that question, he said, is that no employe is required to join any organization as a condition of employment.

Another question, he said, wanted to know what will happen to an employe if he refuses to report for work.

"The university expects all employes to be on the job when scheduled," he said. "Any unauthorized absence from work, if deliberate and without valid cause, will bring such consequences, which could include suspension or dismissal, as the administration and the board of curators will determine."

The letter was sent to about 3,000 employes on the four campuses of the university.

Nuisance Case Dropped

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo. AP -- The case against Mrs. Grace Phillips, former director of the Job Corps Center who was charged with operating a public nuisance, was dropped Monday.

The charge was filed July 19 after some citizens complained that some girls at the center were promiscuous, drunk and noisy.

Dave Lodwick, city attorney, said the case was dismissed because the situation at the center had improved and Mrs. Phillips had left town. He said the $75 bond she had posted would be returned to her.

Rest and Recreation Leaves Go Big With U.S. Fighting Men

MANILA (AP) —"Man, first I'm going to get me a hot shower, then a cold beer, the biggest steak I can find, a soft bed. Then I'm going to sleep for two days."

Grimy and tired, the 1st Cavalry trooper had just arrived in Manila from South Viet Nam with 35 other soldiers for five days of rest and recreation. That's R and R in soldier slang.

Other soldiers had flown to other R and R centers around Asia -- Bangkok, Singapore, Hong Kong, Kuala Lumpur, Penang, and Formosa.

"Most of these guys aren't hell raisers like they used to be in the old days," said Lt. Ed Guest, a Navy veteran of 26 years who organizes Manila's R and R center.

"Saigon has got all the bars they'll ever want to see. When they come here they're just ordinary tourists. They want to rest, eat good food and see the sights. Most of all they want an air-conditioned hotel room and room service."

Guest briefs the soldiers on the delights and dangers of Manila, telling them to wear civilian clothes at all times, to pay their hotel bills in advance and to stay out of trouble.

"We've had 8,000 men through here since January and no trouble — so don't be the one to spoil the record," he tells them.

The briefing is repeated daily in the other R and R centers, where soldiers go at the rate of 1,000 a week to forget about the Viet Nam war for a few days.

They are tired but glad to be among friends in a city where there is little chance of some one exploding a plastic bomb while they are eating a bowl of noodle soup.

The R and R program — started during the Korean War and now refined and expanded — has put the United States into the travel business in a big way.

At the same time it is providing a lucrative multimillion-dollar windfall to traders, hotel keepers, restaurant owners and shady ladies.

Bangkok, the capital of Thailand and exotic city of saffron robed monks, golden temples, beautiful girls and fiery Mekong whisky — not a drop sold until two days old — is the biggest and most popular of the R and R centers.

"You've never seen such long faces as those on the men lined up at the airport to go back to Viet Nam," said Capt. Hans Wagner of Tallahassee, Fla., who supervises the Bangkok R and R center.

"It's like heaven. Of course, I've never been there," said Marine Lance Cpl. Mike Walker, a mortar man from Huntington, Ind., as he sipped a beer in the bar of one of the dozens of modern hotels that have sprung up in Bangkok.

For Pfc. James Cobb, a grenadier from Atlanta, Ga., R and R provides plenty of recreation but not much rest.

"I've been on the go since I got here. I wouldn't say I'm resting, just having a wonderful time," he said.

Wagner's briefing to the new arrivals covers everything from clip joints to how to bargain for Thai silk.

Pistol-Packing Girl Shoots 2 and Takes Over Taxicab

TORONTO AP -- A girl ran wild with a pistol in downtown Toronto Tuesday and wounded two men before police took her into custody in a taxicab.

Carol Ann Tomlinson, 22, of suburban Long Branch was arrested on two charges of attempted murder for the shots that hit Wilfred Knight, 37, and John Kwan, 31.

The shooting spree began at 1:30 a.m. as Knight left a tavern.

A witness, Bernie Wright, said:

"This girl walked up behind him, took out this gun and boom! There was one hell of a blast. Next thing I knew she was running toward me with the gun, but she must have changed her mind because she suddenly went to a cab in front of me, put the gun to the driver's head and they drove off."

Police said the woman ordered the driver, John Warren: "Move or I'll kill you."

As the police told the story:

At an intersection she got out and then commandeered Kwan's cab. She pointed the pistol at him and said: "Get going!" Police gave chase in cruisers. At least one shot was fired from the cab.

Detective - Sgt. Desmond Bryan said police cars caught the cab several times, "but whenever we got close she pointed the gun behind Kwan's ear as if threatening to shoot him, so we had to drop back again."

Kwan noticed the girl had rolled down a window and was aiming at a passing motorcycle officer.

He swerved the cab to throw off her aim and reached behind to knock the gun aside. The pistol cracked and a bullet seared his temple. He was also struck in the leg.

Seconds later his cab crashed into a roadblock. Kwan was thrown against the windshield but managed to scramble into the back seat and grab the girl before she could pick up the gun, which had fallen to the floor.

Police rushed the car, which was full of smoke. The girl had fired bullets into the meter and radio in an effort to get Kwan to drive faster.

Seabee Joins Nation's List Of Heroes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The name of Marvin Glen Shields, a Seabee, was enrolled Tuesday alongside those of the nation's great heroes.

Shields, from Port Townsend, Wash., was awarded the Medal of Honor posthumously for heroism in Viet Nam.

Shields' daughter, Barbara Diane, who will be 3 years old in January, was too young to understand the solemnity of the award ceremony in President Johnson's office.

She romped about in the office, dropping and picking up her small pocketbook, until Johnson picked her up, placed her on his desk, and put an arm around her.

Secretary of the Navy Paul H. Nitze read the citation before Shields' closest relatives, military brass, and members of Congress.

Those on hand included the hero's widow, Joan Elaine Shields of Seattle; his father, William Glen Shields of Marina, Calif.; his mother, Victoria Blanche Casselery of Port Townsend; and a brother, Ronald M. Shields of Camp Washington.

Another present was Lt. Charles Williams of Vance, S. C., who was awarded the Medal of Honor -- the nation's highest military decoration for heroism -- for the same action in which Shields lost his life.

Johnson said Shields, by his heroism in a 14-hour battle at Dong Xoai on June 10, 1965, saved the lives of many of his comrades.

Although twice wounded, the citation said, he continued to supply his fellow Americans with needed ammunition and to return the enemy fire for hours.

Johnson said Shields is the first Seabee ever to be awarded the Medal of Honor.

Plane Catches Parachutist in Recovery Effort

GEOGETOWN, Del. AP -- A parachutist jumped out of a plane Tuesday and was caught, safely, with a hook apparatus by a passing plane in a demonstration of an air rescue that could be useful during wartime over enemy territory.

It was the second attempt at an air recovery. The first jump earlier in the day by Charles Alexander from about 10,000 feet was unsuccessful.

The recovery plane swooped past the 27-year-old parachutist at 120 miles an hour and caught him as he dropped at 1,100 feet a minute.

Bruce Sheaffer, project engineer for the sponsor of the demonstration, said it was an extremely cloudy day and "we were practically on instrument conditions."

Sheaffer said that "without a horizon it is difficult to tell whether you are climbing or diving a bit."

Sheaffer said that instruments could be adapted to the recovery, but this has not been done as yet.

The recovery plane, which had hooks extending from its rear to catch the parachute, actually hit the parachute twice but did not take hld, he said.

Air Force and government officials were on hand for the experiment, run by All American Engineering Co. of Washington and Pioneer Parachute Co. of Manchester, Conn.

Ft. Wood Work Resumes

FT. LEONARD WOOD, Mo. (AP) - Construction work on billets and other facilities here was resumed Tuesday after informational pickets had been removed from two of the three main gates by the sheet metal workers union.

Lloyd C. Staver, resident engineer at the post, estimated from 75 to 90 per cent of the workmen would be back on the job during the day.

Among the projects in a $16 million construction program at the post is a number of troop billets. With winter approaching, the Army is hopeful of completing the troop billets so that many soldiers can be moved from their tent quarters before cold weather sets in.

Both mother and daughter always enjoy going buy-bye.

TURKEY AND TRIMMINGS usually mean a bread stuffing for the big bird. Why not switch this time to orange-rice poultry stuffing! Equal parts rice and bread crumbs are seasoned with convenient, canned tomato sauce and orange juice for a novel new dressing. Very easy to prepare.

Orange-Rice Stuffing Is Novel New Dressing

His Majesty, King Turkey, is switching to a new stuffing. It's called "Orange-Rice Poultry Stuffing" and as the name indicates, it is different from the usual bread stuffing.

There is bread in the dressing but also an equal measure of cooked rice has been added. There's also orange juice and a surprise -- canned tomato sauce. The tomato sauce furnishes "instant" seasoning right from the can. The flavor effect has to be tasted to be appreciated. (Spanish and Mexican cuisines have long enjoyed the mingling of tomato, orange and rice flavors.)

With the turkey and rice-y dressing serve buttered Brussels sprouts, hot dinner rolls, relishes, fresh fruit and pumpkin pie with whipped cream. Happy holidays."

ORANGE-RICE

POULTRY STUFFING

1-1/2 cups finely chopped onion
1-1/2 cups finely chopped celery
1/3 cup butter
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1 (8-oz.) can tomato sauce
1-1/2 cups orange juice
1 chicken bouillon cube
1/2 cup hot water
1/4 teasp. sage
1/4 teasp. poultry seasoning
1/4 teasp. salt
2 cups packaged precooked rice
2 cups stale bread crumbs

Lightly cook onion and celery in butter in skillet. Add parsley, tomato sauce, orange juice, bouillon cube which has been dissolved in hot water, sage, poultry seasoning and salt. Bring to boil. Remove from heat, add rice, cover tightly and let stand 5 minutes. Mix in bread crumbs. Makes enough stuffing for an 8- to 10-lb. turkey.

Judging Teams Win in Columbia

COLUMBIA Twenty-five [illegible] were selected to represent Missouri in national and regional 4-H events at State 4-H achievement day contests Saturday at the University of Missouri.

The winning poultry judging teams consists of Martha Toalson of Columbia, Dennis Brasher of Bragg City, Steve Turner of Independence and Ronnie Hobbs of Liberty.

The team will compete in the national 4-H poultry judging contest in Chicago Nov. 26.

Among the blue ribbon winners in the achievement day contests were in livestock judging, Dan Schussler of Montrose, Neal Steward of Purdy, Don Harrell and Mike Griffin of West Plains, Charles Humphreys of Marshall, Kenneth Leimkeuhler of Napton, Paul Meier of Jackson and Brian Schnarre of Foristell.

Easy Alimony

MILWAUKEE, Wis. AP --- Milwaukee County is considering opening a drive-in window for convenient payments of alimony.

"This might be an incentive for a man to make his payments current," said Francis X. McCormack, clerk of courts, Monday.

McCormack said the idea, to be studied by a county board committee, would "help a lot of people."

An alimony payer "wouldn't have to double park, jump out of his car, run into the courthouse and stand in line to make his payment," he said.

REFUSES TO SERVE

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)--Chelsea Montoya received enough write-in votes to give her a place on the student council at the University of New Mexico. But Chelsea did not accept. She is a cat whose name was mentioned on the campus as a prank.

Second Sheppard Trial Date Set

CLEVELAND (AP) - Judge Roy F. McMahon of Cuyahoga Common Pleas Court today scheduled Samuel H. Sheppard's second murder trial for Oct. 18.

He did not designate a trial judge.

Sheppard's defense attorneys said at an arraignment last Thursday that they intended to file a motion this week for a change of venue, but the motion has not yet been filed.

McMahon said he was having difficulty in selecting a trial judge because both the prosecution and defense objected to any judge who is running for re-election on the November ballot. This eliminated 12 judges.

Other judges were ruled out for various reasons - one because he participated in the prosecution at Sheppard's first trial, another because he is related to prosecutor John T. Corrigan who will prosecute the re-trial.

Sheppard is charged with second-degree murder in the bludgeon killing of his first wife, Marilyn, on July 4, 1954, at their home in Bay Village. He has pleaded innocent and is free on $10,000 bond.

Main Street Will Never Be Same

LAVERNE, Okla. AP ---Main Street in Laverne will never be the same.

Bursting with pride over the town's most distinguished citizen, city officials decided Monday to change the name of Main Street to Jayne Jayroe Boulevard in honor of the new Miss America.

Letters to the 19-year-old beauty's home, which is located on the main street, will now be addressed to Miss Jane Ann Jayroe, Jayne Anne Jayroe Boulevard, Laverne, Okla.

The beauty queen, whose name is listed as Jane Ann on her birth certificate, is known in her hometown as Jayne Anne or Jay - Jay.

Lilbourn Improvement Club to Build Float

LILBOURN -- The Civic Improvement club met Monday with Mrs. Raymond Lloyd. This was the first meeting of the year following the summer vacation.

The new president, Mrs. Paul Moore, presided. Minutes of the last regular meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Arnold Simpson, and approved. One new member, Mrs. Joan Copeland, was inducted.

A committee was appointed to supervise the building of a float for the Homecoming parade during the fall festival; the committee consists of Mrs. Jim Dambach, Mrs. Bill Jones, Mrs. Claude Stone, and Mrs. Arnold Simpson. Mrs. Bill Newton and Mrs. H. B. Mitchell were appointed to select a candidate for Miss New Madrid County. The club also voted financial assistance in the making gifts for soldiers serving in Viet Nam.

Following the business meeting a program on conservation and recreation in state parks was presented by Mrs. Herman Snellings, program leader for the evening.

The next club meeting will be Oct. 10 at the home of Mrs. Bill Ice, with Mrs. C.D. Wright, program leader. The program will be about Missouri. Hostesses for this meeting will be Mrs. Lloyd and Mrs. Bill Newton.

"IT'S A VERY GOOD YEAR"

"A good year for truck crops" -- that's an expression you're likely to hear this year to describe the abundant harvest of late summer vegetables now filling the Nation's produce counters.

"Truck crops" has long been an American synonym for vegetables. Yet, and this may surprise you, the phrase has nothing to do with trucks or how vegetables are transported to market. The same is true for "truck gardens". The fact is, both were widely used in the days of horse drawn carts and wagons.

History reveals that our word "truck" as used in the vegetable world was derived from the French word "troquer," which long ago had as one of its meanings, "to barter or exchange." Early settlers in this land, lacking cash, needed something they could use to barter or exchange for necessities they could not grow, raise or make.

For some, the soil was the best answer. Small gardens were planted and lovingly tended, for the harvest was to provide not only their needs, but oftentimes "dreams" as well. As soon as the crops were harvested, they were carted into "farmers' markets" where the bartering and exchanging took place. Perhaps these vegetables should have been called "dream crops," but generally the reference was "barter and exchange crops," or "troquer crops." And, in true American style, the French spelling was revamped and the phrase emerged as we know it today, "truck crops."

Why only the vegetables were thusly dubbed has not been determined, for in the original "farmers' markets" such items as freshly cut flowere, house plants, eggs, poultry and simple - to - fancy handiwork creations could also be found.

The bountiful yields of our 1966 harvest are the result of many advancements made in the vegetable world since the first "barter and exchange" gardens were planted. Today's shopper finds an ever-changing array of garden fresh vegetables on her favorite produce counters. Purchased "garden fresh," many have been grown miles away, harvested at the peak of flavor, carefully chilled to retain their crispy only-minutes-from-the-garden goodness, and then rapidly transported to produce centers throughout the Nation.

However, most Midwest shoppers should find plenty of locally grown vegetables at their favorite stores these days, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

For a real "truck garden" feast, try mixing several favorites together. Slice firm tomatoes, about 1/2 inch thick into a shallow dish. Add sliced cucumber, sliced raw cauliflower, green pepper rings, sliced dry onion rings, a little carrot, and possibly a few radish slices, then top with minced parsley. Drizzle your favorite dressing over this and cover tightly with foil or plastic wrap, then refrigerate for one hour. Serve on salad greens.

GOLF NOTES

Skill as putting was justly rewarded in Tuesday's golf session for the women. Mrs. John Sikes, Miss Louise Marshall, Mrs. Howard Johnson and Mrs. Jack Miller were the winners.

Mrs. Sikes takes the honors for the finest game Tuesday. To go along with her 12 putts, she birdied one hole, bogied two and had six pars for a one over par score of 38.

The first round of the match play tournament has been completed with the following results:

Cox defeated Dawson. Emerson won over Joyner by default. Atchison defeated Estes. Medley defaulted to Stepp. Warf defeated Armstrong. Marshall defeated Bush. Tope defeated Mitchell. Campbell defeated Stamp. Lee defeated Miller. Dempster defeated Ralph and Graff defeated Moll.

The second round of play must be completed before Tuesday.

There are only two more Tuesday sessions of golf for the season. Tuesday prizes will be awarded for low net scores. Sept. 27 will be a consolation tournament. Only the non - winners of the year will be eligible for prizes. The others play for fun.

The awards luncheon will be Oct. 4.

A Priceless Asset

By Senator Strom Thurmond, South Carolina

The Mayflower Compact, written in November of 1620, begins with a prayer, "In the name of God" and goes on to state: "We  having undertaken, for the glory of God,  Do by these presents solemnly and mutually in the presence of God, and of one another, covenant and combine ourselves together into a civil body politic."

Thus our Nation began founded on prayer.

The kneeling figure of George Washington through that bitter winter in Valley Forge is a part of this country that should never be forgotten.

Prayer played a large part in the winning of our independence.

The Constitutional Convention in June of 1787 had been meeting for weeks without agreement, when Benjamin Franklin rose to his feet and addressed George Washington:

"Mr. President: The small progress we have made after 4 or 5 weeks close attention and continual reasonings with each other is a melancholy proof of the imperfection of the human understanding. We have gone back to ancient history for models of government that now no longer exist. And we have viewed modern states but find none of their constitutions suitable to our circumstances. How has it happened, Sir, that we of humbly applying to the Father of Light to illuminate our understandings?

"In the beginning of the contest with Britain, when we were sensible of danger, we had daily prayers in this room for divine protection.

"Our prayers, Sir, were heard; and they were generously answered. . I therefore beg leave to move:--

"That henceforth, prayers imploring the assistance of Heaven and its blessings on our deliberations be held in this assembly every morning before we proceed to business."

So what is history's verdict on our Constitution after almost a 190-year trial?

A country with only 6 per cent of the world's population has 57 per cent of the world's automobiles, 51 per cent of the world's telephones, 41 per cent of the world's radios and 47 per cent of its television sets. Our Nation has more college opportunities than any other country in the world.

These, of course, are only material evidence of God's blessings on this country. Our spiritual heritage is far greater and deeper.

Great events in our Nation's history have turned in our favor in answer to prayer.

When the British Army at New Orleans sent message to Andrew Jackson that "Tomorrow morning at this time we will eat our breakfast on your campground because we have several lords with us and General Packingham," Jackson sent back the message: "Come right on for I have on my side the Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord God Almighty, and Andrew Jackson."

Samuel B. Morse, inventor of the telgraph, said "Whenever I could not see my way clearly, I knelt down and prayed for light and understanding."

During those dark days of our Nation's history, when brother fought against brother, President Lincoln from time to time would proclaim days of "public prayer, humiliation, and fasting." He is quoted as saying, "I have been driven many times to my knees by the overwhelming conviction that I had nowhere else to go: my own wisdom and that of all around me seemed insufficient for the day."

The old body servant of General Stonewall Jackson said that he could always tell when a battle was near at hand by seeing the General get up many times at night to pray.

Prayer is never outmoded or out of place. Here is a prayer, recorded by Astronaut Gordon Cooper while orbiting the earth:

"Father, thank You, especially for letting me fly this flight. Thank You for the privilege of being able to be in this position to be up in this wondrous place, seeing all these many startling, wonderful things that You have crated."

George Washington, Father of our country prayed:

"Almighty God: We make our earnest prayer that Thou wilt keep the United States in Thy holy protection; that Thou wilt incline the hearts of the citizens to cultivate a spirit of subordination and obedience to government; to entertain a brotherly affection and love for one another and for their fellow citizens of the United States at large.

"And finally, that Thou wilt most graciously be pleased to dispose us all to do justice, to love mercy and to demean ourselves with that charity, humility and pacific tempor of mind which were the characteristics of the Divine Author of our blessed religion, and without a humble imitation of whose example in these things we can never hope to be a happy nation. Grant our supplication, we beseech Thee, through Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen."

In this day when so many families are abandoning grace before meals; when the Supreme Court has removed prayer and Bible reading from our public schools; when a spokesman for the National Council of Churches has publicly said that "the loss of the traditional Sunday would not be catastrophic and might be healthy"; when bishops are proclaiming that Jesus Christ is not divine and other theologians announce that "God is dead"; it is time for the people of this country to awake.

Play your part in encouraging our people to pray more; to examine the religious heritage in our country and to see the benefit of seeking God's blessing.

Prayer is the only way in which the finite can communicate with the infinite; in which the known can communicate with the unknown, in which the visible may be in touch with the invisible.

You may easily see, if you but examine the history of our Nation, that prayer and communication with God is the very cornerstone of our Society.

If you allow it to be abandoned now, you will be casting away the greatest asset this Nation, or any other nation, has ever known.

Unless our Nation is awakened to its dangerous trend toward materialism and away from the spiritual heritage of our forefathers, then I fear for the future.

Challenge our people, ..., to recall those words of Holy Writ which so aptly describe our country; "Blessed is that people whose God is the Lord."

The Prayer

For Today

From the Upper Room

There is nothing love cannot face; there is no limit to its faith, its hope, and its endurance. (I Corinthians 13:7, NEB)

PRAYER: Our Father, teach us that those who dwell in love in Thee. That we may dwell in Thee, help us to love others despite their shortcomings and sins; in the spirit of Christ. Amen.

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: YOU have a problem. It is called exaggeration. When "Los Angeles Heartache" complained about her daughter - in - law's dirty house you replied, "If all the women who wrote to me on this subject were lined up they would reach from Anchorage to Amarillo."

The distance from Anchorage to Amarillo is approximately 2,450 miles. If you allowed six feet of space for each complaining woman 2,376,000 women could fit into that space very nicely.

Will you take twenty lashes with your old typewriter ribbon -- or do I gargle my garters? -- D. D. OF MILES CITY

Dear D. D.: I just put in a new typewriter ribbon so I'm going to try my darndest to weasel out of the punishment. (If there's anything I hate it's ink on my back.)

I figure that for every woman who writes about a problem there are about a thousand who have it but DON'T write. Since you are apparently much better with figures than I am, please let me know if this gets me off the hook -- somewhat.

P. S. If I am guilty of overstating the case YOU are equally guilty of understating it. I just learned that the distance between Anchorage and Amarillo is 3,496 miles!!!! So go ahead and gargle your garters, Bub.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl, 18, brought up by cultured parents who have high morals and good taste. I have been exposed to extensive travel, fine art, music and literature. My father is one of the city's most prominent civic leaders.

You would think that I'd be interested in young men of similar backgrounds and interests, but I'm not. For some strange reason, I am drawn to crude rough-necks -- boys with backgrounds very different from mine.

I am in college now and have been dating three fellows. I would be ashamed to have my parents meet any one of them. They'd think I had flipped. Maybe I have. Why am I attracted to the unpolished types -- fellows who are poor marriage material? Straighten me out--PLEASE!! -- CONCERNED ABOUT THE FUTURE

Dear Concerned: When a girl is attracted to young men she'd be ashamed to introduce to her parents, it strongly suggests she is rebelling like a pouting child. This is probably a phase that will pass. (Soon, I hope.)

You write like a girl whose thinking is fairly solid -- on the conscious level, that is. Keep your wits about you, Toots, and don't go off your rocket and marry one of these birds.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married for six years. We have no children. I went to a very fine doctor last week and he told me I'd have to have surgery if I want to have a family.

My husband says I should go to another doctor and not tell him about my first doctor's diagnosis. Would this be ethical? I don't want to make an enemy of the first doctor if the word should get back to him. What is your advice? -- MONTEREY

Dear Monterey: Most physicians have no objections if a patient seeks the opinion of another physician. By all means go to one or even two others. This is not unethical behavior. It is prudent.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting -- And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Mail Box

Dear Mr. Blanton:

Your editorial in the Sikeston Standard, recently, under a headline 'Freedom Salesmen Needed--Reds to Destroy Business Man and You' is, I believe, one of the best and most informative editorials I've read in some time. It merits the praise and thanks of every person who loves his Country, who strongly believes in the system of free enterprise. I agree that too often many who do not operate a business, who do not know of the battle he fights for survival, are prone to 'let george do it' in fighting communism. The business man has the heavy responsibility to keep alive free enterprise and seldom is given credit he richly deserves.

The business man needs the support of every wage earner. In addition to being weighted down, and as you said, "regulated, taxed and red taped to death" he must constantly fight the socialistic propaganda in printed matter, school and college textbooks, radio and television.

I am enclosing an editorial you may have space to include with this letter. It appeared in The Ledger, Montrose, California. Reading it may wake up the apathetic person to the dangers we face, if and when the business man loses his battle against communism. He needs the support and understanding of every GOD fearing, patriotic man and woman in America.

Sincerely,
Fred W. Bender

WHAT WILL YOU TELL YOUR CHILDREN?

Oftentimes, for the sake of argument, one must stipulate to certain points as facts. Let's hope that our friends who see no danger in the communist program will agree for the time being, that there is such a danger and that the danger may suddenly overcome America, just as it did Czechoslovakia. What will you tell your children?

Let's say, for the sake of argument, that the Reds assume control, they are in control of communications, they are in control of public utilities, they have slaughtered or imprisoned the police, they have clobbered resistance, and America lies prone, awaiting the blood purges that must certainly follow, enduring the terrifying period of vacuum before the calked heel of Godless communist tyranny comes smashing down.

What will you tell those youngsters clustered at your knee? How will you tell them that their nation, strong, dynamic, compassionate a few years ago, is now gone? How will you tell them that you cannot go to the store and buy food for them because the store is locked against its owners and that your money is no longer any good? How will you tell them that the policeman on the corner is no longer a friend--he has been replaced by a tyrant from the steppes of Asia or from the jungles of Africa? How will you tell them that the America your fathers gave to you has been lost?

What will you say when your little son, who feels you are a Marshall Dillon or a Hopalong Cassidy, asks you why you don't take a gun and go out to set things straight? What will you say when your teenager asks you what you have done to prevent this takeover? Will you tell him you played golf or went fishing or learned to waterski or worked in the garden or learned to make ceramics or hiked in the hills or a million other things, while your nation went down the drain?

What will yoy say when these children, whose lives have already been blueprinted for them, ask what they should do? How will you advise them when they ask if they should resist? What will you say if they ask you if they should continue to adore God, despite the ultimatum of the New Order? What will you do when the order comes to gather your children and ship them into State Camps where they can become robots of the State?

Communist writings openly predict that they will seize control centers, and that the great mass of population will lie prostrate. Records show that the lawless of a nation will take this opportunity to swoop down on the helpless, motivated in part by the same drive that causes looting after floods have driven people from their homes. Can you be sure that this will not happen -- especially after you read of the riots on Memorial Day in Griffith Park? There certainly was no motivation to justify attacks upon citizens and police, and the destruction of private property. How would these same people react if all law were suddenly eliminated?

Or, suppose you lived through the blood baths, and 15 years from now, your youngsters ask about the America that was. Will you tell them of the freedoms you had, the freedom to go where you wished, to do what you wished, to say what you wished? Will you tell them of the fun you had and the happiness you had? What will you say when they ask how these things happened to slip away?

Will you admit that you dismissed all efforts to halt the drift towards communism as "McCarthyism," that you helped smear everyone who tried to point out the danger?

It may seem a flight of fancy to ponder what could happen to America, but remember -- the Pentagon, charged with protecting you and yours from all dangers, foreign and domestic, has already made a study as to the best time to surrender! Ponder that:

If you are a father or mother, look at your children. If they are asleep, walk in and look at them -- peaceful, contented, trusting. Are you doing anything to prevent just such a terrifying picture as we have painted? Do you bother to inform yourself on the drift towards tyranny? Or do you plan to collaborate with the enemy, to "make friends" with the new order?

If America is to be spared this terror, it must be because her people have forbidden it. If the people will not stem the tide, then each American must face the terror that has already been visited upon Czechoslavakia, Poland, Yugoslavia, East Germany, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Manchuria, and many, many other lands.

And, Mister, what will you tell your children?

-- The Ledger, Montrose, California.

BEEF AND BACON ROLL-UPS are rolled up with just a slice of bacon rather than the usual carrot and dill pickle. The colorful, just-right sauce is made with convenient, canned tomato sauce, beef bouillon and herbs. Prepare this dish one day, serve the next with hot noodles or rice, green beans, gelatin salad, dark rye bread and fresh fruit for dessert.

Beef, Bacon Roll-Ups Are Easy to Prepare

There are several reasons for the ever-enthusiastic fan club which "Beef and Bacon Roll-Ups" enjoys. Most important it's a delicious meat and so easy to prepare. Also, the cost is modest. Round steak is so often "on sale" in your meat market.

The cook finds them an interesting dish to prepare. Many variations are possible, especially in the stuffing and saucing. One of the simplest preparations -- and one of the best in taste -- is the "Beef and Bacon Roll-Ups" here, made without the usual pickle filling, and sauced with tomato sauce, herbs and bouillon. As with the classic dish this specialty is oven-baked 2 hours.

The hurried homemaker will note this entree can be prepared a day ahead of time and baked the next day. While the roll-ups are cooking, there is plenty of time to prepare the rest of the menu--hot buttered noodles or rice, green beans, gelatin salad, dark rye bread and butter. And for dessert--coffee and fresh fruit.

BEEF AND BACON

ROLL-UPS

2 lbs. thinly sliced round steak
6 slices bacon
2 Tablesp. pure vegetable oil
1 onion, chopped
1 beef bouillon cube
1 cup hot water
3/4 Teasp. salt
2 (8-oz.) cans tomato sauce
2 Tablesp. minced parsley
1/2 Teasp. thyme
Buttered noodles or rice

Cut meat the length and width of bacon slices. Lay 1 bacon slice on each strip of meat. Roll up tight and tie with string. Brown on all sides in oil in skillet. Remove meat from skillet and place in shallow baking dish. Cook onion lightly in skillet; stir in beef bouillon cube which has been dissolved in hot water, salt, tomato sauce, parsley and thyme. Pour over meat. Cover and bake at 375 degrees for 1 hour. Remove cover and bake an additional hour. Serve with noodles or rice. Makes 6 servings.

Word comes via the grapevine - and it's true according to USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service -- that California's grape crop is likely to be about 16 per cent larger than average.

That's good news to homemakers. It probably means attractive prices, and plenty of grapes for the inspired meal planner to use in many glamorous ways.

With their colorful array of shades and tones, grapes are picturesque in fruit compotes, fresh fruit salads, and table decorations. As a handy bunch of quick energy, grapes are convenient in lunch boxes and at snack time. For their delightful, refreshing flavor, this fruit is delicious in cooling drinks and fancy desserts.

To assure selection of the best grapes, C&MS's fruit experts suggest you look for plump, firm ones. If the grapes are for table use, make sure that they do not drop off the stems as soon as you touch them. Also, avoid grapes that are moldy and wet. High color for the variety generally indicates a well-developed sugar content and flavor.

Right now you'll find Thompson Seedless- the greenish white variety -- and the large oval red Tokay grapes in especially good supply.

Armed Forces

GRAFENWOHR, GERMANY (AHTNC) - Army Private First Class Isaiah Mack, 21, son of Mrs. Alethie Mack, 512 W. Ada, Charleston, Mo., participated in a three-week field training exercise conducted by the 4th Armored Division in Grafenwohr, Germany.

During the exercise, which ended Aug. 27, he took part in weapons firing and tactical maneuvers as part of an Army program to maintain the combat proficiency of his unit.

Mack is a driver in Company B, Third Battalion, of the division's 51st Infantry near Erlangen, Germany.

Tiger Ride Home

BRICK TOWNSHIP, N. J. AP -- A typical Brick Township school child finishes his last class in the afternoon, then grabs a tiger home from school.

The child really takes a bus, but in order for him to identify the correct bus to take, pictures of animals have been placed in the windows of the vehicles.

"We don't want any mistakes if we can help it," School Supt. Henry E. Dux said after the opening of school Monday. "We tell the children what number their bus is but we also tell them to ride home in the rabbit bus. It works."

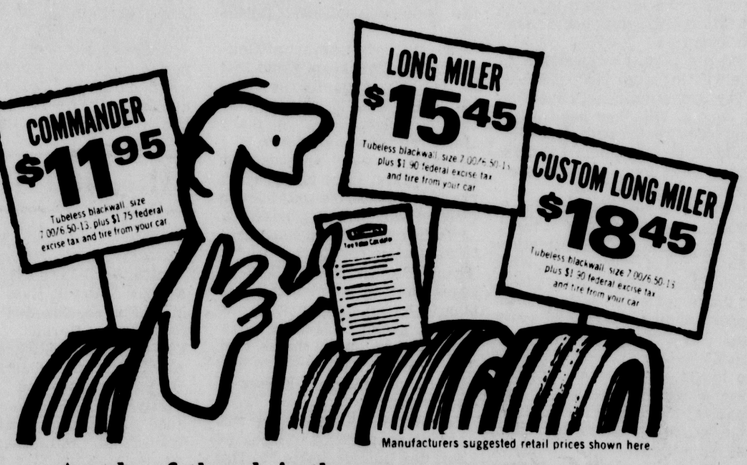
Our seven little questions answer your big one about which tire to buy.



Manufacturers suggested retail prices shown here

A rule of thumb is the more you pay for a tire, the more you get from it. More wear, mileage, rubber, that sort of thing.

But how can you tell if you're buying more tire than you really need? Or worse, not getting enough?

Use our Tire Value Calculator. This handy little cardboard device asks seven easy questions about the way you drive. You answer the questions and the Calculator tells you which of our tires suits you best. And that will be the least expensive BFG tire we'd recommend for your driving needs.

It may not be our lowest-priced tire. But if you buy the BFG tire that's right for you, you'll still drive a good bargain.

Today In U. S. History

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 14, the 257th day of 1966. There are 108 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1901, President William McKinley died from wounds he received from an assassin's revolver on Sept. 6.

On this date:

In 1628, Salem, the second settlement in Massachusetts, was chartered by John Endecott.

In 1778, Benjamin Franklin was sent to France as American minister plenipotentiary.

In 1923, Jack Dempsey knocked out Luis Angelo Firpo in two rounds of a heavyweight championship fight in New York City.

In 1940, Congress passed the Selective Service and Training Act.

In 1943, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced that American and Australia forces had captured the air-naval base of Salamaua, New Guinea.

Ten years ago — Egypt took over full operation of the Suez Canal after more than 90 foreign pilots and some 400 other non-Egyptian employes quit their posts on the waterway.

Five years ago—The Western Big Four foreign ministers met in Washington to discuss the Berlin crisis.

One year ago—Pope Paul VI told the opening of the fourth and final session of the Vatican Ecumenical Council that he plans to establish a synod of Catholic bishops who would consult with him in the governing of the church.

Doctors Seek To Rejoin Boy's Severed Leg

BOSTON (AP) — Doctors at Boston City Hospital have rejoined the severed left leg of an 18-year-old boy and are watching to see if the heroic effort will succeed.

To date, no attempt to rejoin a severed leg is known to have fully succeeded. It is believed that the first successful reattachment of a human limb occurred in 1962 at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston when surgeons rejoined the right arm of 12-year-old Everett (Red) Knowles.

The battle to save the leg of Jan Dangora began Sept. 1 when his left leg was cut off eight inches below the knee in a motorcycle - automobile collision. Only a small portion of skin connected the two parts of Jan's leg.

It's still to early to know if the replant will work—and that means not only healing but restoration of function and feel to some useful degree.

It was learned, however, that blood circulation has been fully restored.

His condition remains delicate and the fight for his recovery can be said to be only beginning, with the risk of secondary complications not yet out of the picture.

Details of the surgery and a progress report are expected to be presented later this week.

The complex surgery requires a nearly perfect application of known traumatic surgical techniques and refined blood vessel, bone and muscle rejoining as well as delicate attention to nerves.

PLUSH FABRIC—Cottor velour in a brilliant fuchsia color sparks the daytime frock for fall. Cut on classic shift lines, the dress is softened by a gathered yoke and long cuffed sleeves. A Porter House design.

John Dempsey Dies Last Night

John J. Dempsey, 77, 1407 East Gladys, a retired federal employe, died at his home Tuesday night at 11:25 p.m., after an illness of four years.

He was born in St. Louis, Nov. 6, 1888, son of Frank and Catherine Dempsey.

He had lived in Sikeston 19 years and served in the navy in World War I.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Callie Hibbs Dempsey; three stepdaughters, Mrs. Myrtle Green, Mrs. Stella Slayton, Walnut Ridge, Ark., Mrs. Ina Mason, Fenton; one stepson, Everett Decker, Gobler; five nieces and nephews, all of St. Louis.

A prayer service will be held in the Nunnelee Funeral Chapel tonight at 8 p.m. Services will be in the St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church, Thursday at 10 a.m., with the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Walter McGrane, officiating.

Burial will be in the Armer cemetery, near Bertrand.

Elza Martin Rites Thursday

EAST PRAIRIE -- Services for Elza Lee Martin, 50, will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at Shelby Funeral Home with the Rev. Delbert Freeman officiating. Burial will be in Anniston cemetery.

Martin died Sunday at Charleston.

Mrs. Lenon's Brother Dies in California

Mrs. Otto Lenon received word Monday of the death of her brother, Joe Roper, in Long Beach, Calif., at 12:30 p.m. Monday after a long illness.

Burial will be in the Evergreen cemetery in New Madrid.

GEMINI

Minutes later, Conrad reported: "We're in the spun-up station-keeping right now."

"I'm down to 10 feet from the end," Conrad had said while reporting difficulty pulling out the tether.

"I hit it very lightly but it really upset the Agena. It's hung up on the right hand hold."

A few minutes later he reported the cord was completely free and the two spacecraft were spinning like a cartwheel through space in a formation-flying test.

"I'm having a hard time station-keeping with it," he added.

"We're on top of the world!" Conrad shouted as Gemini 11 rode the power of the Agena engine to an altitude of 850 miles above the earth over eastern Australia early today. The old mark was 476 miles by Gemini 10.

"Utterly fantastic. The world is round," Conrad said.

After twice reaching the record height, they again fired the Agena to lower the spacecraft to its original orbit, ranging from 180 to 190 miles high.

Gordon then opened his hatch and poked the upper half of his body into space to photograph the stars in a scientific experiment.

It was an easy, slow-moving task, allowing the astronauts plenty of rest during Gordon's two hours eight minutes outside.

"We both took a cat nap—dozed off a few minutes," Conrad reported.

"That's a space first—sleeping in a vacuum," mission control center told him.

Counting his shortened 44-minute space walk Tuesday, Gordon racked up a record for most time outside or partly outside a space craft—two hours and 52 minutes.

At 12:32 p.m., EDT the astronauts began the unique tether experiment with the Agena, expected to last more than three hours.

Conrad undocked from the Agena and slowly backed away until the 100-foot line finally was pulled taut between the two vehicles. Gordon had hooked up the two-inch thick nylon line during his space walk—one of the work assignments that caused him to become overexerted, forcing an early end to the stroll.

The astronauts want to learn if this is an effective means of flying formation with a satellite with little or no use of fuel.

Such capability might be required in the future on space rescue or repair missions in which a manned spacecraft might have to hover for long periods near another satellite.

It also might be a means of towing or tugging a satellite from one place to another in space.

When the astronauts first separated and started pulling the line out of the Agena, Conrad reported "the tether is not flapping at all. It's behaving very nicely.

"We kind of upset the Agena a little bit when we pulled out the tether," he added. "It's hung up in the bag. I've got about 50 feet out. I'm jerking it a little bit. It's hung up on the right hand hold. We've got it coming out the rest of the way."

He said later that the skip-rope effect was settling down.

"We're spinning after a fashion," he said. "We've got it spun up at about 45 degrees out of the orbital plane."

Later he said: "The tether is maintaining tension at all times. I'm impressed.

"By golly, we are oscillating. There was a great deal of slack in the tether when we started. But the tether seems to have constant tension in it."

Getting Your Money Back

David Lawrence

BILLIONS OF DOLLARS are deducted from payrolls or collected from other income-tax payments every year by the Federal Government. What happens to the money in terms of direct benefit to one's community or city or State? How much of it goes to help pay for facilities or projects in other States? And how long can the States raise enough money through local taxes to pay for the many projects that are necessary to meet the needs of a growing population?

These questions have in large part gone unanswered. But at last there is a growing realization that federal revenues should be distributed so as to supplement State and city funds.

This is not a problem which can be solved by political partisanship. Both parties should recognize their obligation to propose a formula which would bring about an equitable distribution of public funds to promote the social welfare of America.

The Republican Party, in a search for better ways to meet the increasing demands of present-day life, has now offered a program that might well be called "constructive federalism." But the plan might also have been suggested by the Democratic Party. It is to be hoped that eventually the two parties will join together to accept the principles of a new federalism.

The Republican Coordinating Committee, which has just adopted a comprehensive plan that shows what can be done to develop a better financial relationship between the federal, State and city governments, is composed of many men who have distinguished themselves in the field of public service. The Committee includes prominent members of Congress, Governors of several States, mayors of cities, former President Eisenhower and recent nominees of the Republican Party for the presidency -- Messrs. Landon, Dewey, Nixon and Goldwater. The Chairman of the Task Force that drafted the plan is Robert Taft, Jr., a former member of the House of Representatives and a son of the late Senator Taft. The principal recommendation says:

"We therefore propose a system to share the personal and corporate income taxes collected by the national government with the States. Under this plan, one-half of each State's share would be computed on the basis of returning income tax collections to the State in which they originated. The other half of each State's share would be computed in a way which will provide some measure of fiscal equalization.

"We recognize that some States are wealthy, while others are in serious need. Equalization cannot altogther alleviate fiscal inequities among the States but no plan of revenue sharing is feasible unless some degree of equalization is included. The equalizing formula should be simple and could be based upon population and per capita income levels.

"Equalization grants should be made only to the States which themselves contribute a fair proportion of their per capita incomes to the costs of their own State and local services. This fair proportion should be defined in the statute. Grants to any State should be reduced proportionately if the State and its local units do not apply an adequate amount of State and local tax revenue."

The plan calls for refunds to the State in a gradually increasing percentage every year. The program favors a minimum of supervisory controls by the Federal Government so as to free the State and local governments from "the maze of regulations, paperwork, red tape, and restrictions which hamper them in their efforts to serve their citizens."

It is urged that the Governors be consulted before Congress passes any measure affecting their States. They would be given a voice but not a veto.

The present system of federal grants to States is criticized as follows:

"Reliance on specific grant in aid programs controlled from Washington is not the answer. At the worst, the States will continue to sink into a morass of financial inadequacy and eventual bankruptcy. At best, they will become mere administrative appendages of the national government."

The new plan can be expected to develop a greater sense of responsibility among the States and local units. The future estimated in "staggering" sums by the Committee.

America must strengthen State and local governments and not let them be swallowed up in a vast federal bureaucracy.

More than ever in coming years there will be need for refunds of tax money to the States to take care of problems involving mental health, education, water-pollution control, highways and other projects that can mean much to the life of the nation.

When these reforms are put into effect, we may be able to enjoy the benefits of a truly great society, paid for by the earnings of its citizens and their creative enterprises. The time indeed has come for a constructive federalism.

ler stated that although the proposed plan may cause some inconvenience to businesses and individuals, while in construction, it will help them after completion.

"The expansion is necessary to the planned progress of the city," Miller stated.

Miller urged approval of the proposed plan and added that the city could meet with interested citizens later and make recommendations on specific design features.

Information recorded at today's hearing will be forwarded to Jefferson City and presented after study to the State Highway Commission.

If the commission okays the plan to widen, a field survey will begin. The survey is estimated to take a year to complete. All measurements regarding the location of buildings, utility lines and other physical characteristics of the land involved are included in the field survey, Carney explained.

Once the field survey is completed, the final plan can be formulated and construction can start, Carney said.

Sheppard Seeks Venue Change

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) - Attorneys for Samuel H. Sheppard filed a motion today asking that his second murder trial, scheduled to begin here Oct. 18, be moved out of Cleveland.

Judge Roy F. McMahon said he would decide later whether to hold an oral hearing on the change of venue motion or to receive briefs and rule after studying them.

Sheppard has pleaded innocent to the second-degree murder charge in the bludgeon death of his first wife, Marilyn, on July 4, 1954, at their home in suburban Bay Village.

A jury of seven men and five women convicted him Dec. 21, 1954 after a nine-week trial here, and he served nearly 10 years of a life sentence in Ohio Penitentiary.

The 42-year-old former osteopath was freed July 16, 1964, by U.S. District Judge Carl A. Weinman of Dayton, Ohio on a habeas corpus action on grounds Sheppard's constitutional right to a fair trial had been denied.

William Henry Harrison was the only son of a signer of the Declaration of Independence to become president.

William Howard Taft was secretary of war in President Theodore Roosevelt's cabinet from 1904-08 before becoming President in 1909.

BOOTHEEL VISTA worker Martin Blank, right, presented a petition signed by 1,500 poverty stricken residents of Southeast Missouri requesting that the DAEOC be allowed to continue without becoming a political issue. James Dement of Holcomb, looks on.

this country is light-colored, mild - flavored sweetclover, clover or alfalfa honey.

Blends of flavors are numerous.

Distinctively flavored honeys from citrus trees, wild sage, buckwheat and other blossoms also are available. Buckwheat is considered probably the darkest table variety.

This ready-to-use sweetener is available in different forms, too. Most honey marketed in the U.S. is extracted-removed from the comb and offered in a liquid or spreadable form. But in-the-comb honey is popular as well.

Try honey to accent or enhance the flavor of many other foods. Remember to use mild-flavored honey for bland dishes; stronger, darker honey for more highly flavored dishes.

HONEY "DEW" RECIPES

HONEY FRENCH DRESSING

1 10-1/2 ounce can tomato soup
1/2 cup honey
3/4 cup vinegar
1/4 cup water
2 cups salad oil
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon black pepper
1/2 teaspoon paprika

Thoroughly combine ingredients in order given, using an electric mixer, or a blender. Refrigerate and allow flavors to blend at least 24 hours before serving. Keep refrigerated! Excellent as a topper for head lettuce, halves of avocado, raw and cooked salad vegetables. (Tasty with blue cheese crumbles added.) Makes 1 quart.

HONEY CUBES

1/2 c. honey,
2 c. hot water
2 tblsp. lemon juice

Pour hot water into honey, stirring to blend. Add lemon juice. Pour into ice cube trays, and allow to cool slightly before placing in the freezer. Serve in cube form or crushed by adding to chilled tea or fruit punch.

FROZEN LEMON CREAM PIE

3 egg yolks
1 tblsp. grated lemon rind
1/4 c. lemon juice
1/4 c. honey
3 egg whites
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 c. honey
1 c. whipping cream
1/4 tsp. vanilla extract
2/3 c. vanilla wafer crumbs

In saucepan, combine egg yolks, lemon rind and 1/4 cup honey. Gradually add lemon juice, stirring until smooth. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened (about 5 minutes). Beat egg whites with salt until they hold their shape. Continue beating and slowly drizzle in 1/4 cup honey. Beat meringue until stiff, adding vanilla extract. Fold whipped cream into cooked mixture. Sprinkle half the cookie crumbs over bottom of pie shell. Add filling. Cover top with remaining crumbs. Freeze until firm. Cut into squares or wedges for serving. Makes 1 8-inch pie (6 servings.)

"JUST PLUM GOOD"

The well-appreciated plum has passed into American slang as something "satisfying" or a "job in recognition for good service." Many foods are described as "just plum good," or "he got a plum for working thirty years."

Along with apples, oranges, and peaches, plums are one of the more important fruits in America. The growing areas use various blendings of native, Chinese, Japanese or European.

In season, generally late May to mid-September, plums are one of the more eye-catching fruits on the market. California and Michigan are the principal producers. Idaho, Oregon, and Washington are commercial producers of "purple plums" also called fresh prunes. Shipments are widely distributed and they are generally available to consumers in all parts of the country.

Plums of good quality are fresh in appearance, full colored for the variety, and soft sure. Softening at the tip of the plum is a good sign of maturity. Immature fruit is hard.

Plums are excellent eaten out of hand. They have a refreshing tart sweetness, and are excellent in pies, stewed dishes, preserves, jellies, and jam. They're also tasty in ice cream, puddings, Bavarian creams, cakes and tarts.

Try adding a delightful note to your menu suggests the U.S. Department of Agriculture, by putting plums high on your marketing list.

RECIPES

FRESH PLUM FRITTERS

14 fresh plums
1 1/3 c. sifted flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1/4 tsp. salt
1 tblsp. sugar
1 c. evaporated milk
1 egg
Vegetable oil for frying

Wash and drain plums. Cut into halves and remove pits. Pour vegetable oil into electric frypan to a depth of 1 inch and preheat to 360 degrees F. Meanwhile, sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together into a small mixing bowl. Mix evaporated milk and egg thoroughly using a whisk or fork. Add to flour mixture, mixing only until dry ingredients become moistened. Dip each plum half into batter so that it is well coated, then fry in hot fat until golden brown, about 3 to 5 minutes on each side. Remove from pan and drain on paper toweling. Serve hot with syrup or dust with confectioners sugar, if desired. Makes 28 fritters.

FRESH PLUM PUDDING

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/2 cup milk
3 tablespoons shortening melted
2 cups sliced fresh plums
1 cup sugar
1 cup boiling water

Sift the flour, 1/2 c. sugar, salt and baking powder into a mixing bowl. Add milk and melted shortening. Beat until well blended. Turn into a greased 8x8x2 inch baking pan. Cover with the sliced plums and sprinkle with 1 cup sugar. Pour boiling water over all. Bake in a preheated moderate oven at 375 degrees F. 45 minutes or until well done. Serve warm, with cream, if desired. Yield: 6 servings.

SPUD - TACULAR RECIPES

HASH BROWNED - - Add chopped cooked potatoes to a little fat in a frying pan. Season with salt and pepper. Moisten with water -- about 1/4 cup for 4 cups potatoes. Cook over low heat until brown on the bottom -- don't stir. Serve folded in half. Serves Six.

SOUFFLE - for leftovers- To two cups of seasoned mashed potatoes add 1 tablesppon each of minced parsley and green onion and about 1-3 cup grated cheese. Beat in 4 well - beaten egg yolks, and then fold in 4 stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a 1 1/2 quart casserole and bake at 350 degrees F. for 30 to 35 minutes. Serve piping hot as accompanied to seafood and broiled fish platter.

POTATO CANDY -- Sieve 1 cup of mashed potatoes, combine with 3 cups sifted powdered sugar. Add 8 ounces shredded coconut with 1/4 teaspoon salt. Mix thoroughly. Shape into tiny balls and dip into melted semi - sweet chocolate. Chill on waxed paper.

Sprinkle each layer with salt and pepper. Pour remaining sauce over all. Cover with cornflakes. Dot with butter. Bake in moderate oven until potatoes are tender.

Miss Shirley Bowden Is Wed to Charles R. Brown

ST. LOUIS -- On Aug. 20, at 3 p.m. Miss Shirley Jean Bowden, daughter of former Charlestonians Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Bowden, now of St. Louis, was married to Charles Robert Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glover Brown, Jefferson City.

The wedding, a double ring ceremony, was held at the Cote Brilliante Presbyterian church, with the Rev. William Gillespie officiating.

The church was decorated with seven - tiered candelabra, two altar baskets of white and yellow roses, ferns, and an altar of assorted flowers.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white silk peau de soie gown with a scoop neckline and short sleeves. It featured a high-rise bodice of Alencon lace with pearl trim. The full - length detachable train was designed with appliqued Alencon lace and pearl trim at the end. The finger- tip veil was of lace and petal clustered three tier nylon tulle. She carried a cascade of orchids, stephanotis, and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Beverly Lewis of Anderson, Ind., served as matron of honor. Her gown of deep gold peau de soie in a full - length empire style was trimmed in Alencon lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of deep yellow carnations and roses. Her veil was deep peau de soie and illusion.

Her bridesmaids were Miss Jacqueline Wright and Miss Yvonne Willis of St. Louis, Miss Betty Hill of Kansas City, Mrs. Gwendolyn Reed and Mrs. Barbara Roland of St. Louis, and Mrs. Joyce Webb of Jefferson City.

The bridesmaids gowns of full - length empire design were of bright golden peau de soie trimmed in white Alencon lace. Headpieces were yellow peau de soie roses held by a pale yellow illusion veil.

The bridesmaids carried cascade bouquets of yellow and white mums and carnations.

The flower girl was little Miss Giselle Pickett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Pickett, who wore a white floor-length lace-trimmed silk organza gown and veil identical to those of the bridesmaids. She scattered daisy petals from a decorated basket.

Brown chose his brother, Arthur Brown, as his best man. The groomsmen were Raymond Thorpe, Helton Reed, Wilbur Thomas, and Lloyd Conley, Ronald Coleman and Frank Days of Jefferson City.

The ushers were Johnny Roland, Robert Lay and John Brooks, and Russell Davis, cousin of the bride, of Anniston, Ind.

Mrs. Bowden, mother of the bride, wore an ensemble of beige lace, with a small feathered hat and beige peau de soie accessories. The groom's mother wore a dress of beige lace with brown accessories. Both mothers wore orchid corsages.

The organist was Mrs. Harriet Lee and Miss Gladys Buck was soloist. She sang "Ava Maria" and "The Lord's Prayer," the latter used as the benediction.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Downtown Motor Inn, hosted by relatives and close friends of the bride and groom.

Before the wedding Miss Bowden was the guest of honor at several luncheons and showers. Her rehearsal supper was held at the home of Mrs. Lola Edwards, 5893 Kennerly Aye.

Charleston relatives and friends attending the wedding were William H. Bowden, grandfather of the bride, and Mrs. Willie Pettigrew, aunt of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Barrett, Mrs. Mary Lawrence, Mrs. Addie Hamilton, Mrs. Myrene Moss and Willie Davis.

For her wedding trip to the Lake of the Ozarks, the bride wore a yellow suit of raw silk with matching accessories. Her white orchid corsage was from her bouquet.

After the wedding trip the couple will live in Columbia, where Mrs. Brown is an elementary school teacher in the public school system and Brown, a senior at the University of Missouri, is a member of the varsity football team.

Honey - Dew From The Stars

"Dew distilled from the stars and the rainbow," that's how the ancient Greek philosopher Aristotle referred to honey.

Today, honey offers all the same fine qualities which made it such an idolized sweetener in ancient times.

Choose, for example, from the wide variety of flavors, aromas and colors of honey on the market. These characteristics vary with the kind of flowers from which the nectar was gathered.

As a rule, the lightest colored honeys are the mildest, explains the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service. And well over half the honey produced in 20-MINUTE SOUTH seas fillets are fish fillets--unbelievably good in a spicy, sweet-sour sauce made with tomato sauce, brown sugar, soy, ginger and other ingredients. Actually the flavor is exotic but the ingredients are familiar in every kitchen. Serve with chive-buttered rice, buttered peas, papaya salad and hot tea.

20-Minute South Seas Fillets Have Exotic Flavor

Fish cooked with a tart-sweet sauce is no stranger to the people of the Orient and South Seas. American kitchens might appreciate this exciting flavor more if they served these "20 Minute South Seas Fillets" occasionally.

This interesting recipe will inject new life into your menus, too. Serve it with halibut fillets one week; swordfish the next. It makes a delectable sauce with scallops, shrimp, crab or lobster.

Be sure to follow the recipe directions explicitly as to cooking time; fish should never be overcooked. It's "done" when you can flake it with the tines of a fork. Also, the green peppers should be only crisp-done, not limp. Convenient, canned tomato sauce furnishes lively taste as well as rich color.

The rest of the menu is not difficult and can be prepared as the fish simmers: chive-buttered rice, buttered peas, papaya salad, hot tea and cookies.

20-MINUTE SOUTH SEAS FILLETS

1 lb. fish fillets
Salt
2 Tablesp. pure vegetable oil
1 onion, chopped
1 green pepper, sliced
½ cup blanched slivered almonds
1 (13-½-oz.) can pineapple tidbits, undrained
2 (8-oz.) cans tomato sauce
1 Tablesp. brown sugar
1 Tablesp. Worcestershire sauce
1 Tablesp. soy sauce
2 teasp. cornstarch
1 teasp. ginger

Sprinkle fish with salt; lightly brown on both sides in oil in skillet. Add onion, green pepper and almonds and saute lightly. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over fillets. Cover and simmer 20 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

COFFEE CORNER by Cherie

Isn't it delightful---at last all the new T.V. shows are starting and we can quit staring glassy-eyed at re-runs---and new re-runs at that. I never could figure out why they repeated the shows that have just finished playing that winter, all summer again, I mean T. V. has been around for quite a few years now, and I wouldn't mind looking at some of the shows of several years ago, would you? But oh no, what do we see---the same dern things we were looking at just about two months ago, and still just as rotten as they were then. Remember the detective series Martin Kane? We use to watch that before the reception was very good in this area, and I guess I'll go through life frustrated by all the endings on those who-dunits I never did get to see, cause a plane would go over or somebody would be shaving and the picture as well as the sound would just disappear into limbo. Or, didn't you just love Playhouse 90, Father Knows Best, and a whole raft of others that for some reason seemed much fresher than todays material. Anyway, I sat down and begin to view what T.V. land had in store for us this year, and actually what I've seen hasn't been quite as bad as usual. I plopped my two down in front of Tarzan, and this will really kill you, got so carried away with it I never did get in and get the dishes done. To be perfectly honest, I'm not sure if it was the series itself, or that yummy Ron Ely, that stars as Tarzan, (what I'd give to be a plain Jane). One thing I know for sure, the kids of today don't know what they've got! Here I wasted the best years of my life losing at Johnney Weismueller and look at what this younger generation is getting! After admiring Ron a while, I immediately decided to put Charles on a strict starvation diet, oh what a lovely waistline that lad has, (I'm sure you know which lad I mean). Then, I was glad to see all the cute childrens shows that are going to be on, and if my kids will only shut up and let me watch them I know they'll be greatly enjoyed! Actually, T. V. leaves an awful lot to be desired, but I've decided so does an evening of conversation with my family, so I'll just flip the dial, turn up the sound, and settle down to a long winter alternating between children screaming, animals roaring, guns blazing, and children screaming, (with me there seems to be that sound perpetually in the background of all shows, T V or otherwise), and ladies don't forget Tuesday nights. Just look at your husband and laugh! I think this is great, I'm so tired of hearing men spout about all these lush ladies with the lovely figures that flip on and off our screens these days in scant attire, now we can turn the tables and drool over the nice trim waistlines and massive pectoral muscles that some men are in possession of as they swing from branch to branch.

Hey, now that fall is arriving I think you need a good pumpkin pie receipe, and this one is the BEST!! Also, it's guaranteed to ruin your husband's waist line, so don't give him any---make it and ship it direct to Ron Ely, Hollywood, California.

BEST PUMPKIN PIE

Mix together:
2 cups of heated pumpkin
1/4 cup of melted butter
1/2 cup of milk
1/4 cup of heavy cream

Add two beaten eggs and then mix together with the dry ingredients which have been sifted together.

1 TBS. flour
1/2 tsp. of cinnamon
1 tsp. of nutmeg
1/2 tsp. of cloves
1/2 tsp. of salt
1 cup of brown sugar firmly packed to make that cup. Mix well and pour into a 10-inch pie shell, (unbaked), and bake at 425 degrees, for 45-60 minutes. Cool and top with whipped cream. Hint: when baking pie shells for any length of time, always cover the edge crust with strips of foil paper until the pie is almost done, then remove the strips and allow the edges to brown. This only takes a minute to do and keeps the crust from burning around the sides.

NATURE'S PEARFECTION

Whoever said "Beauty is only skin deep" certainly wasn't referring to the Bartlett pear! This golden beauty tastes as luscious inside as it looks on the outside.

Beneath its smooth silky-skinned coat, which ranges from green to a rich yellow in color, you'll find a creamy white, fine-textured meat-guaranteed to be delicious. Endowed by Nature with plenty of vitamins A, B1, and C and a generous portion of minerals, this bell-shaped fruit is "PEARfect" for summer meal enchantment.

However, don't be swayed into believing that color is a reliable guide to ripeness. Since pears are picked before they ripen, it is often necessary to allow the 'butter fruit' to ripen at home. Allow them to stand at ordinary room temperature until a simple touch test proves them fully ripe. If the pear responds to gentle hand pressure, just as a ripe peach does, it is ready for eating.

But warmth is required to bring these pears to full-flavored goodness, so don't hold them in the refrigerator until they pass the test.

If the expected crop of Bartlett pears from three Pacific Coast States is realized, it will exceed last year's yield by 80 per cent, says USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service.

So for nutrition's sake as well as taste appeal, buy some firm, juicy Bartletts today -- they're just PEARfect!

Manufacture of snuff requires 18 months and involves grinding the tobacco and subjecting it to repeated fermentations, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

A CALL FOR COURAGE IN HANDLING UNREST

A speech in the House of Representatives denouncing rioting and violence won a standing ovation from Republicans and Democrats alike for veteran legislator Howard W. Smith.

Mr. Smith, the 83-year-old Virginian who has served continuously in the House since 1931, was narrowly defeated in a Democratic primary in July. On July 25, Mr. Smith, the chairman of the House Rules Committee for 11 years, had this to say in the debate on the civil-rights bill ---

"I was deeply distressed to hear the speech of my old friend from New York, the chairman of the Judiciary Committee, Emanuel Celler (Dem.), of New York, when he argued with the House that, instead of standing up and voting for what we believe in and doing what our oath of office requires us to do, we tremble in our seats and yield to the fear of the Negro revolution."

IF FEAR IS TO RULE ---

"If that is the kind of spirit that has come to this country, and we are going to operate in the Congress on the theory of fear, on the theory of violence, on the theory of mobs and so forth, then this is not the place to which I was first elected.

"I was distressed to hear all this talk about operating not on the righteousness of causes, but operating on the fear of this revolution that has been encouraged from high places, until it has reached the point that unless somebody shows some courage, in this Congress and elsewhere, we are going to have a situation where we operate under the threat of political reprisals and revolutionary emotions.

"I was distressed when I saw the President address a joint session of this Congress, and I heard him adopt the war cry of a Negro revolution - 'We shall overcome; we shall overcome' -- repeated time and again, when we were about to consider a civil-rights law.

"And I was deeply distressed to see members of the Supreme Court sitting on those front seats, hearing discussed and advocated a piece of legislation the constitutionality of which they would soon be called upon to pass upon, applauding -- applauding the revolutionary call that 'we shall overcome.'

"I was distressed a few days ago to see in the press, and not refuted, the statement by the Vice President of the United States that if he lived in a tenement, in the ghettos of the cities, on the second floor, he would have the spirit to 'lead a revolt.'

"What are we going to have next? . . . .

"My friends, the political fates have decreed that when this Congress adjourns I will leave you. I have few personal regrets about that, but I do hate to leave you with the spirit that seems to prevail and about which you are exhorted daily -- 'Do this or the Communists will get mad at you. Send millions of dollars to other countries or somebody is going to get mad at you. Give away your substance. Forget the American people's needs and wants and the treat tax burden that is upon them and give to this and give to that and give to the other.' Out of fear; a tribute, if you please, to other areas of the world in order to placate them, in order to try to purchase their friendship."

"NO WORD OF COURAGE."

"Now we come here with mobs in the streets, with further mob violence threatened, and no word is spoken of courage to defend the American way of government."

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Is Newfoundland an independent British colony?

A—No. In 1949, Newfoundland became the tenth province of Canada.

Q—For what purpose was the Liberty Bell originally ordered?

A—It was ordered to commemorate a declaration called the William Penn Charter of Privileges, issued in 1701. The bell was to be used to celebrate the 50th anniversary of that charter in 1751.

PEANUT BUTTER-TRIPLE THREAT IN THE KICHEN

Creative cooks find peanut butter is one of the most versatile, nourishing and economical foods in their kitchens.

There are numerous ways to use this protein-packed spread, besides in sandwich filling.

As a spread for crackers, it's compatible with a variety of jams, jellies, cheese, some meats, various fruits and even a few vegetables.

As a dip for chips, it gives increased interest to sour cream [illegible] specialties. [illegible]

As a flavoring agent, there are few limits to this flexible favorite. As a sauce for many meats, fish and poulty dishes, atop a baked potato or ice cream, on biscuits, muffins and in cookies and cakes, peanut butter adds its own texture and appeal.

Beyond its versatility, peanut butter also is extremely nourishing. It's rich in protein, high in food energy, and has some important vitamins --- especially the B vitamins.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service reports a plentiful supply of this "triple-threat" favorite on the market right now, which usually means you're likely to find attractive prices. Take advantage by putting peanut butter at the top of your next shopping list. It's bound to please the whole family.

"GOOBER"RECIPES

PEANUT BUTTER BROWNIES

1/2 cups sifted flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup crunchy style peanut butter
1/4 cut butter or margarine
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 eggs, unbeaten
1 cup chopped peanuts

Stir in peanuts. Spoon into greased 8-inch square cake pan. Spread evenly. Bake at 350* F., 30 to 35 minutes, or until center is firm. Cool in pan 5 minutes. Cut into squares.

JIFFY PEANUT BUTTER ICE CREAM

1/2 cup crunchy-style peanut butter
1/3 cup chopped peanuts
2 pints vanilla ice cream

Blend peanut butter and peanuts into slightly softened ice cream. Place in refrigerator trays, cover with foil. Freeze until firm.

STUFFED SWEET POTATOES -PEANUT BUTTER

4 medium-sized baked sweet potatoes
2/3 cup milk
1/2 cup peanut butter
1/4 teaspoon salt
Pepper
1/3 cup chopped salted peanuts

Cut hot baked sweet potatoes in half and remove potato from shells. Mash thoroughly. Add milk, peanut butter and seasonings. Beat until fluffy and refill shells. Sprinkle chopped peanuts on top. Brown on baking sheet in 425 degree oven.

EXHIBITS FROM 15 STATES TO BE AT MID-SOUTH FAIR

Fifteen states are now represented in exhibitors for the 1966 Mid-South Fair.

Varied exhibits from shoe polish to the latest inventions in the field of electronics will be on display in five exhibit buildings and numerous outside spaces Sept. 23 - Oct. 1.

Fair officials stated that nowhere else in the Mid-South can business firms promote their products and services to so many persons in such a short time. For this reason exhibitors from all over the United States come in to take advantage of the opportunity of promotion through the Mid-South Fair.

States represented are Alabama, Arkansas, Idaho, Illinois, Kansas, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Missouri, New York, Ohio, Tennessee, Texas, Washington, D.C., and Wisconsin.

Cabbage Rolls--From An Italian Family

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The Italians who settled in California added greatly to that state's reputation for good eating. Among them was the DeDomenico family, who began as produce and poultry storekeepers and later became experts in pasta making.

It was Lois DeDomenico, however, who thought up the idea of combining thin vermicelli with rice (another California product) and packaging it as a mix. Here's her suggestion for using it in cabbage rolls.

DeDOMENICO CABBAGE ROLLS
(Makes 6 to 8 servings)

1 package (8 ounces) beef flavor vermicelli and rice mix
1 pound ground chuck steak
1 onion, chopped
1 carrot, coarsely grated
1 large head green cabbage
2 cups tomato puree (two 8-oz. cans)
2 cups chicken broth, canned or made with chicken bouillon cubes

Prepare vermicelli and rice mix according to package directions. Cool. In a deep saucepan or in the bottom section of a Dutch oven, saute beef, onion and carrot in a little butter or margarine until beef is brown and crumbly. Drain off any excess fat from the beef. Stir in cooked vermicelli and rice.

Remove core from cabbage and carefully pull off about 12 leaves, keeping them whole. Pour boiling water over leaves and allow to stand until cabbage leaves are wilted. Use vermicelli-rice mixture to fill cabbage leaves (more leaves may be needed, depending on their size). Roll up leaves, tucking in ends and fastening with a food pick.

Pour tomato puree into the saucepan or Dutch oven in which meat mixture was cooked. Put in cabbage rolls. Shred two cups of the remaining cabbage and sprinkle over rolls. Add chicken broth. Cover tightly and simmer, stirring occasionally, about one hour, or until cabbage is tender. Add more chicken broth, if necessary, to keep rolls from sticking.

A New Way To Fry Chicken

Chicken is one of the best buys in meat. Certainly there is no more popular dish than fried chicken. Why not give it a different twist and try frying it the Oriental way? It is ever so light and delicate. Use corn starch for coating the chicken pieces, after a quick dip in a mixture of egg and water. Fry in corn oil for the most delicate browning and flavor.

Oriental Fried Chicken

2 eggs
1 tablespoon water
1 cup corn starch
1 teaspoon salt
1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut up
Corn oil for frying

Beat eggs well; mix in water. Combine corn starch and salt. Dip chicken pieces into egg mixture, then into corn starch and salt, then into egg mixture, coating chicken well with each. Pour corn oil into skillet to depth of 1 inch. Heat over medium heat to 375 degrees F., or until 1 inch cube of bread turns brown in 40 seconds. Carefully put chicken into hot oil. Fry, turning once, until light golden brown and tender, about 15 minutes. Makes 2 to 4 servings.

Corned Beef In Oriental Dish

Any cook—be hostess who serves Corned Beef with Celery Cabbage! A dish in the style of the Far East, this one, like many other oriental meals with vegetable dishes, is easy to put together and quick in the cooking, with a wealth of flavor and unusual attractiveness. In addition, the meat is ready for instant use the moment the can is opened, so preparation time is cut to the nub.

Canned corned beef needs no special preparation — no precooking, no fussy, high-heat cooking that characterizes many Chinese dishes, no dicing or cutting up. Flaking with a fork (and this can be done right in the skillet) is all that's required to separate it into pieces just the right size for even distribution throughout the dish. Having been cooked to doneness during processing, it only has to heat through to blend its goodness with the hot cabbage and sauce.

This is an interesting way to use celery cabbage, one of the less familiar but no less delicious vegetables on the market. If celery cabbage is not available, the familiar green cabbage can be used.

Corned Beef and Celery Cabbage

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 medium onion, sliced
1 head celery cabbage, cut in 1-inch thick slices
Water
1 beef bouillon cube
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1½ teaspoons soy sauce
1 can (12 oz.) corned beef, unchilled
1 pimiento, slivered
Crisp fried noodles (optional)

In hot butter in large skillet, cook onion just until tender. Add washed and drained cabbage, 1 cup water and bouillon cube. Cover and simmer, stirring occasionally, about 7 minutes or until celery cabbage is almost tender. Combine cornstarch with 2 tablespoons water and soy sauce; stir smooth. Stir into cabbage; cook stirring, until thickened. Add corned beef and flake coarsely; add pimiento; cover and simmer until beef is heated through, about 5 minutes. Serve at once, over crisp fried noodles if you wish.

Makes 6 servings.

Keep Cooky Jar Well Supplied With Crispies

School time is also cooky time if there are youngsters in your home. They do double or even triple duty if they go into lunch boxes and then serve as after school and bedtime snacks.

This large quantity, refrigerator type cooky has wonderful flavor because of its lard, brown sugar and oatmeal mixture, advises Reba Staggs, home economist. If the cooky rolls are kept wrapped in the refrigerator, they can be baked on quick notice.

Oatmeal Crispies

1½ cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
¾ cup lard
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup granulated sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 cups quick-cooking rolled oats
½ cup chopped nuts

Sift together flour, salt, and soda. Thoroughly cream together lard and sugars. Add eggs and vanilla. Beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients and mix well. Add rolled oats and nuts. Mix. Form into rolls 1½ inches in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper. Chill thoroughly. Cut into ¼ inch slices. Place on ungreased baking sheet and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 10 minutes or until lightly browned. Yield: 8 dozen.

Cube Flavorful Variety Meat For Dinner Menu

There's flavor a-plenty in a variety meat called heart. When prepared Italienne-style to be served over cooked spaghetti, it will also provide that touch of novelty which every menu needs.

Heart rates highly for protein content in the class known as variety meats. In addition, it has generous amounts of the minerals needed by the body, advises Reba Staggs, meat authority.

Though very flavorful, heart classifies as a less-tender cut which must be cooked in liquid or be braised to tenderness. Some time can be cut in cooking procedure when the meat is cubed.

Heart Italienne

2 pounds beef or veal heart
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
½ cup onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
1 can (1 pound, 13 ounces) tomatoes
1 package (7 ounces) spaghetti, cooked
½ cup grated Cheddar cheese, if desired

Wash heart thoroughly, removing veins and hard parts. Cut meat in 1-inch cubes. Brown meat, onion, and garlic in lard or drippings. Add salt, pepper, pimiento, tomato paste, and tomatoes. Cook slowly 2 hours, or until meat is tender and mixture thickened. Serve over spaghetti and top with grated cheese, if desired. 6 to 8 servings.

Flank Steak Goes Fancy With Rice, Spinach Stuffing

Flank steaks are often served broiled, carved diagonally into thin slices and served as "London Broil." There is, however, another way to prepare them which makes them elegant food for guests. That's by stuffing and braising them.

Beef flank steak is a boneless cut and one steak comes from each side of beef, points out Reba Staggs, meat expert. They're small, usually weighing three-fourths to one pound each.

Stuffing for these flank steaks is both colorful and delicious. It's a well-seasoned mixture made mainly of rice, mushrooms and spinach. After the latter is cooked, make certain it's well drained.

Fancy Stuffed Flank Steak

2 beef flank steaks (about 1 pound each)
1 can (4 ounces) mushrooms
1 package (10 ounces) frozen, chopped spinach, cooked and well drained
1 tablespoon chopped onion
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup cooked rice
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed mushroom soup
¼ cup water

Pound or lightly score flank steak on both sides. Drain and chop mushrooms, reserving mushroom liquid. Combine mushrooms, spinach, onion, salt and rice. Spread half the mixture (about 1 cup) on each flank steak and roll as a jelly roll. Tie steaks with string and brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Combine mushroom soup, mushroom liquid and water. Pour over steaks. Cover tightly and cook slowly 1½ hours or until tender. 6 to 8 servings.

Cranberries Make This Meat Ring Sweet, Saucy

A ruby-topped meat ring is an invitation to dining that's hard to resist. When it's as good looking as this, most folks will figure it's good to eat, too!

Certainly, it's true, also, that Sweet Saucy Meat Ring is good to eat with its unusual combination of ground beef and ham topped with whole cranberry sauce, says Reba Staggs, meat authority. Serve a buttered green vegetable in the center and surround the base of the platter with oven-browned or baked potatoes.

Sweet Saucy Meat Ring

1½ pounds ground beef
½ pound ground smoked ham
¾ cup dry bread crumbs
⅔ cup milk
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons minced onion
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup drained whole cranberry sauce

Combine beef, ham, bread crumbs, milk, eggs, onion, salt and pepper and add ½ cup cranberry sauce. Mix thoroughly. Pack firmly into a 2-quart, greased ring mold. Combine brown sugar, mustard, remaining cranberry sauce. Heat pineapple mixture over medium heat or in a slow oven (325° F.) 15 minutes. Heat remaining cranberry sauce mixture slowly until hot throughout. Spoon over meat ring to serve. 6 to 8 servings.

Many Varieties of Comedy Offered in New TV Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — It isn't always what they are doing but how they are doing it that makes the difference. They were playing comedy in all sorts of ways in the television shows making their debuts Monday night.

Nine new shows were unveiled, of which this viewer saw six, all half-hour programs.

"Family Affair" on CBS is pegged to what is hardly a novel idea — a happy bachelor and his man servant who are unexpectedly saddled with some children. But if the mood and tempo of the first program can be maintained, this promises to be a warm and charming comedy.

Brian Keith plays the uncomfortable foster parent with great sensitivity and Sebastian Cabot is a perfect British gentleman's gentleman appalled at the prospect of child care.

Jean Arthur, a lady with a skillful way with a comedy line came back to show business in a CBS series that, at first look, seemed unworthy of her talents. Miss Arthur in "The Jean Arthur Show" plays a very successful woman lawyer in partnership with her son. But in the rather feeble episode Monday night they had her running furiously around in rather misguided efforts to help a fellow with gambling fever beat a murder rap.

"Felony Squad" on ABC, was simple police action. The principal characters are almost cliches now - the older plainclothes lieutenant, played with grim intensity by Howard Duff, and his young partner whose father is an older uniformed man. The first show revolved around a crooked lawyer trying to frame the young cop.

Two early evening entries, "The Monkees" on NBC and "Run, Buddy, Run" on CBS were broad comedies apparently intended to delight the young audience.

"The Monkees," a rock 'n' roll group complete with long hair, were involved in a story about a beautiful princess and her wicked uncle who was trying to kill her. The nonsense was further funnied up by effects like an electric light going on when the villain had an idea and all sorts of non sequiturs.

"Run, Buddy, Run" had a fellow fleeing a sinister criminal syndicate bent on murdering him, but depended on its humor in such side excursions as a wild motorcycle ride through a busy supermarket. Decision should probably be reserved on this one since the first show had to get Buddy, played by Jack Sheldon, started on his flight and comic adventures.

"The Roger Miller Show" on NBC was a pleasant enough, low - key variety half - hour, particularly when Miller was singing his own songs in his off - hand way and had Bill Cosby at his side making small talk.

YO HO HO!

When your young pirate raids the icebox this summer, make sure he finds a golden booty -- fresh Bartlett pears!

You'll have no difficulty keeping him supplied with this nourishing, delicious loot. USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports this year's harvest will exceed last year's by 80% with a record - breaking 520,500 tons.

Now, that's a lot of pears, but there are so many ways to use them in addition to out-of-hand eating. For example, use them to prepare salads, pies, and for attractive garnishes. And don't overlook this snack-time treat guaranteed to delight those hungry buccaneers:

It's pears on a stick. To prepare, melt caramel candies in top of a double boiler over boiling water. Insert a flat wooden skewer into the stem end of washed fresh pears and then slowly swirl the pear in the caramel sauce, spreading it with a knife to make sure the pear is entirely 'hidden.' Set pears upright in waxed paper-lined baking pan and refrigerate until caramel is firm.

Remember that these Bartlett gems, when purchased green, should be allowed to mellow at room temperature until they yellow and yield to slight pressure.

So serve pears to your family often -- they're a real treasure-pleasure!

Nutritional Gold Mine

Milk could well be called a nutritional gold mine. It is a source of many essential nutrients, but particularly calcium, riboflavin and proteins -- three which people often are short of.

While other frequently eaten foods are good sources of proteins, it is difficult to get enough calcium and riboflavin without drinking or "eating" milk, explain U.S. Department of Agriculture nutritionists. Milk provides three-fourths of all the calcium, nearly half the riboflavin and perhaps one-fourth of the protein for Americans.

Calcium is a mineral needed throughout life for healthy bones. Riboflavin, a B vitamin, is one of the essential nutrients for healthy skin and nerves. Protein, of course, is the main material needed for building and repairing all body tissues.

All milk products provide some of the nutrients of whole milk, although none quite duplicate the nutritional value. Thus, a dish of ice cream is an excellent dessert for children -- but is by no means a substitute for a glass of milk.

Furthermore, milk and dairy products "pay their way" by contributing these needed nutrients at the "price" of a very moderate number of calories.

Americans are using 60 per cent more plumbed - in appliances than they did 10 years ago, according to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. It's predicted that their use will double in the next five years.

FOUR CENTURIES OF FINE EATING

Any meal that includes corn-on-the-cob could stimulate thoughts of this favorite vegetable's heritage, and corn has a heritage all its own.

Corn dates back to the era of the Indian and remained unknown to others until the first settlers came to this country.

The settlers were dependent on corn for most of their diet and through help from the Indians they found many different uses for it. That makes corn not only American, but patriotic as well because it sustained the first inhabitants and thus prepared the country for civilization.

Today, the American palate remains relatively unchanged, for fresh corn still ranks as one of our favorite vegetables.

Delicious piping hot corn-on-the-cob, of course, is popular any time and can be prepared in many different ways -- roasted, steamed, grilled or broiled.

For swift, simple cooking, just drop the ears (husked and de-silked) into boiling salted water. In less than '0 minutes they'll be done.

You'll find plenty of fresh, green corn in the produce department of your grocer. Be sure your family gets its share of this "patriotic" food.

Congress Spinning Wheels After Reversing Last Year's Pace

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This year Congress had a creepy feeling, and it's still creeping.

It was different last year. That was the up-and-at-'em year.

The Democrats, fresh from their election triumphs in November 1964, ran the show in 1965 with their overwhelming majorities in both House and Senate. President Johnson called Congress' performance last year fabulous.

What it did was bound to change the social, economic and political life of the nation. It turned out legislation in a torrent, passing 86 major administration bills, including medicare, voting rights, aid to education.

Johnson's Great Society programs were off to a stunning start. Last year's was probably the most productive single session of Congress in history.

After such a deluge it was natural that Johnson this year wouldn't drown Congress in quite as big a flood of proposals as in 1965. And he hasn't.

But it would also seem natural that such a peppy Congress would still work with a rush, particularly since this is another election year with all 435 House seats and 35 Senate seats at stake. But it hasn't.

It has dawdled all year, so much so that there's a good chance now it will have to quit temporarily in mid-October, so members can go home and politick for the November elections, and then come back for a lame-duck session.

(That session, since it would still be the present Congress, would include men defeated in November but none of the newly elected who can't take their seats until next year.)

But a lot of the members — starting perhaps last June — weren't waiting for mid-October to go home and try to round up votes. It's happening right now.

Monday in the House on a roll-call vote only 250 of the 435 members showed up. This concern about getting re-elected, and the work it involves, explains in part the slow pace of the present Congress. But not all of it.

Johnson has lost much of his magic control over Congress, the kind he had in 1965 after his huge victory over Sen. Barry Goldwater in 1964 had carried a lot of Democrats to victory with him.

At a time when Johnson's own popularity with the public is slipping, according to the polls, it has slipped in Congress, too, at least to the extent that the members are no longer so eager to say "yes, sir," when Johnson speaks.

One veteran observer of the House remarked: "A lot of these guys this year are not so anxious to have their vote, yes or no, on a piece of legislation because that only means that much more explaining to the folks back home."

At the same time Johnson's leadership hasn't been so concentrated as it was in 1965. He has to spend a lot more time with the war in Viet Nam. And he dawdled about doing something to head off inflation.

Last year the badly outnumbered Republicans, shattered and bewildered by their disaster in the 1964 elections and practically tongue-tied as a result of it, were so limp and mentally denuded that they actually quizzed outsiders for ideas use against Johnson.

This year they gathered themselves together and are sniping, if not sharpshooting, at him.

That by itself spoils some of the smooth sailing Johnson had in 1965. Some major bills and appropriations measures still are awaiting action. One of Johnson's pet projects, the civil rights bill, seems all but dead.

When this session finally ends, Johnson may praise it but he will never be able to call it fabulous.

Vorster Succeeds Verwoerd

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) - Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster was chosen today to become South Africa's seventh prime minister. He succeeds Hendrik Verwoerd, who was stabbed to death by an assassin a week ago.

Vorster was elected unanimously as leader of the ruling Nationalist party at a party caucus. His only real contender, Transport Minister Ben Schoeman, withdrew. As Nationalist leader, Vorster automatically becomes prime minister.

"I promise you that as far as it is humanly possible, I will strive for the security of South Africa," Vorster told a crowd outside Parliament after his election. "As far as it pleases God Almighty to allow man to work out his own future and decide on his own destiny, the destiny of South Africa will be decided by ourselves."

The party's unanimous choice, obviating a vote between contending candidates, was seen as indication of their resolve to choose a strongman leader, resolute in pursuing its apartheid (race) segregation policies without deviating from Verwoerd's race line.

Schoeman told the meeting that after serious consideration he had decided not to accept nomination as party leader.

As the only other candidate, Vorster was unanimously elected, thus preserving a facade of party unity and strength.

Vorster will now be called on by state President Charles Swart to form a government, which is expected to make its first appearance before Parliament Wednesday.

Vorster, 50, now regards the 13th as his lucky number. He was elected to the premiership on the 13th of September. He was born December 13, 1915. He is the 13th child in his family. This is his 13th year in Parliament and as justice minister he was 13th in the Cabinet seniority.

He holds the portfolios of justice, police and prisons, and as the nation's top policeman has sharply curtailed activities of about 500 left-wing and liberal critics under the suppression of communism laws.

Vorster was interned for nearly two years during World War II for pro-German sympathies and is often pictured in newspaper cartoons wearing Nazi-style jackboots.

What Do You Mean, "Milk"?

What do you mean when going to the store for milk?

Not only are there nearly a dozen different types of "milks" -- evaporated, nonfat dry, buttermilk, etc. -- but even fluid, whole milk is offered with variations. So the consumer may well find it worthwhile to know what the labels mean, suggests the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service.

For example, the words "graded" and "pasteurized" usually are marked together and are on nearly all milk available in stores. This indicates that the milk has been graded for quality and heat-treated for a safeguard against bacteria.

Cream will not rise to the top of "homogenized" milk. The milk fat, which is broken up into small particles, remains equally distributed to the last drop.

VITAMIN D on a milk label means that more of this vitamin has been added to increase the natural content. This vitamin is particularly important during growing years for proper development of bones and teeth. Vitamin D milk sometimes is priced slightly higher.

FORTIFIED on the label generally indicates that vitamins and minerals have been added to the milk. "Modified" usually means that extra milk solids have been added or that the milk has been changed somewhat so as to be more easily digested by infants and invalids. Any such additions should be shown on the label.

MISS CARLA HOUGH of Charleston prepares to serve pecan kisses.

Miss Carla Hough Has Been Cooking Since Early Teens

Editor's note: This is the fourth in a series of articles about the home life of area families.

By Ruth Dillender

CHARLESTON -- Miss Carla Hough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hough, 1413 East Cypress St., says that cooking and collecting recipes are among her favorite pastimes.

Miss Hough is a graduate of the University of Missouri in Columbia with a bachelor of arts degree and is now working on her master's degree in social work at the university.

Miss Hough has been cooking meals for her family since her early teens.

Recipes that Miss Hough suggests are:

PECAN KISSES

3 egg whites beaten very stiff. Gradually add 1 scant cup sugar, one teaspoon vanilla and one teaspoon vinegar. Continue beating until no graininess. Fold in one cup broken nuts. Bake approximately 45 minutes in 250 degree oven on wax papered cookie sheet -- can put very close as cookies, don't spread. Makes three dozen.

Miss Hough says that these light cookies are good to serve with a heavy meal.

SPICED ROAST BEEF

3 or 4 pounds of veal, bottom, round of beef or chuck roast
2 Tablespoons flour
2-3 tablespoons Spanish olive oil
1 large onion sliced
2 cloves garlic crushed
2 whole cloves
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 bay leaf or 1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon catsup
2 cups water
1/2 ounces bitter chocolate, grated

Dust meat with flour which has been mixed with 1/2 teaspoon salt. Brown meat in hot olive oil in casserole or dutch oven that can be moved to top of stove. Remove the meat and add onion and garlic. Cook until yellow. Replace meat and add the rest of the ingredients except chocolate. Cover tightly and simmer 2 1/2 to 3 hours until tender. Remove meat. Add more liquid if necessary for two cups sauce. Add chocolate and cook sauce until thick.

Mrs. Ruth Wigdor gave this recipe for spiced roast beef to Miss Hough.

FUDGE CAKE (BROWNIES)

1/4 pound or 1/2 cup butter
2 squares bitter chocolate
Put in pan and melt.
2 eggs
Pinch salt
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup nuts
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup flour

Beat eggs, sugar and vanilla. Add butter and chocolate mixture. Then add flour. Bake 1/2 hour in moderate oven. Serves 8.

Your Dental Health

10 -- Thumbsucking and Pacifiers.

PRECEDE: The following is one of a series of articles being presented by The Daily Standard in cooperation with The Scott County Dental Society.

Will thumbsucking cause a child to have crooked teeth?

Dental authorities now generally agree that it won't -- provided the habit ends before the child reaches age five. In those early years, any irregularity in tooth position caused by sucking habits probably will correct itself.

But by age five, the permanent teeth begin to erupt, and these CAN BE seriously affected by the thumbsucking, fingersucking, lip biting, tongue thrusting and similar habits.

Sucking is one of the earliest habits a baby develops, and is related to his need to obtain his food from breast or bottle. Psychologists believe that sucking also gives a baby a feeling of comfort and pleasure, and is a natural and normal habit which should be allowed.

Sucking may increase when a baby is tired, bored or frustrated, but, from a dental viewpoint, there's not likely to be any harm from it during the early years.

Some babies prefer a pacifier to the thumb, and a rubber pacifier in the years before five will not injure the teeth either. In fact, some dentists think it preferable, since it is softer and exerts less pressure on the dental arches and teeth than does the thumb.

At age five, however, persistant thumbsucking may permanently affect both jaw shape and tooth position -- narrowing the dental arches and forcing the teeth out of position.

Persistent thumbsucking should be brought to the attention of both the physician and the dentist for corrective action.

Above all, don't substitute the lollipop for the thumb. It's a formidable ally of tooth decay.

Missouri Press Report

by Senator

Edward V. Long

The House and Senate are now expected to agree on the new Child Nutrition Act which includes a four - year extention of the special school milk program.

Included in the new Act is a two year program to provide school breakfasts to students from underprivileged families.

The bill calls for milk purchases by the U. S. Department of Agriculture totaling $465 million over the next four years. Missouri dairy farmers provide a major portion of the milk for our nation's school children.

The Senate has just voted to strengthen our national program of protecting endangered species of fish and wildlife. Our bill urges Federal assistance to State and local agencies attempting to protect American wildlife now being threatened with extinction.

Conservation and wildlife refuges are urgently needed, and nation - wide action is essential if we are going to preserve species of birds, animals, and fish which are rapidly disappearing.

The Kansas City Region has just gained final Congressional consent to create a 7-county Mass Transportation Authority.

Missouri countries to be served by the new Authority are: Cass, Clay, Jackson, and Platte.

Final approval came when the Senate agreed to an amendment granting public access to information about the Authority.

Now available from my office: a 50 page catalogue of Federal programs for rural areas. It covers everything from flood control, job opportunities, improved schools, to Farmers Home Administration programs. The title, "Federal Programs for Individual and Community Advancement." In Washington, the Commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps held a brief ceremony to award posthumous decorations won by Major Donald J. Reilly, the most highly decorated Marine for actions in Viet Nam. Major Reilly's home was Manchester, Missouri. Attending the ceremony from Manchester were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence M. Reilly.

The Voice Of Freedom

By DAVID LAWRENCE

It's easy enough to assume from the headlines that Red China and the Soviet Union are at loggerheads and that this somehow means that America should either get closer to Moscow or begin to be less hostile to Peiping.

But it is more important to consider policies on a long-range rather than a short-range basis. For the fundamental fact which cannot be ignored is that the future of the Chinese people is really at stake.

The United States has always been friendly to the Chinese people, and it is necessary in the development of American foreign policy not to be misled into thinking that cozying up to the existing regime in Peiping is good either for this country or for the people who are today enslaved by an autocratic government on the mainland of China.

What is most disturbing is the calm indifference of so many so-called "experts" on China to the fate of the Republic of China on Formosa. They are ready to discard the very nucleus that gives promise of some day restoring liberty to all the Chinese people.

In the conflicts of the last half-century, the United States has been on the side of freedom for nations, large and small. The principle of self-determination has been championed but this doesn't mean approval of the phony elections that autocracy may impose. For the people alone have a right to choose their government and to change it at will. Those critics who are tired of the democratic idea and talk of "realism" are merely surrendering their ideals for the sake of a doubtful expediency. To them the end justifies the means, and the assumption is that permanent peace can be bought in this way.

It has become obvious that safety for all can be achieved only by applying the Woodrow Wilson doctrine that "the world must be made safe for democracy." Dictatorships must neither be coddled nor rationalized as a necessary evil. Nothing is to be gained by compromising. For to do so is to bolster the autocracies. This eventually could bring on the big war, in which America would surely be involved.

An enlightened policy by the American Government, on the other hand, would demand that Formosa's progress be adopted as a symbol of future policy. For what has been accomplished on that island in recent years by the Nationalist Chinese, in economic and educational fields as well as in the operation of a free government, should stand out as a living example of what all Chinese could enjoy if relieved from bondage.

Peace, of course, is not to be achieved in a single decade. Wars are always being threatened by thoughtless and irresponsible men. The old saying that "Rome wasn't built in a day" applies to peace-making.

Nor is the mainland of China the only danger spot. The Russian people, while living under a Communist autocracy, are not making the progress they are capable of making. The quarrel between Moscow and Peiping is a controversy between two rival autocracies. It is not relevant just which of the two rides on top today or even in the next few years. What is relevant is how deeply American concepts and the moral support of the free world are penetrating both countries. Communication facilities are not too good, but the people of the Soviet Union are beginning to be informed at last that a family today can live better in this country or in Britain or in any of the other free countries than in Russia and its satellites.

The real struggle is between slavery and freedom. There is evidence that inside the Soviet Union the people are restless and disturbed. They are not satisfied with their government, but feel helpless for the present to change it by force. There is definitely a public opinion which reveals a potential power to affect policy. The basis of the discontent is largely economic, and concerns the life of the individual and his desire for a decent standard of living.

What's happening inside Russia will in due time begin to be paralleled inside Red China. Patience is essential, and it is even more necessary now to do everything we can in America to tell these two peoples that their future welfare is dependent on a partnership with the democracies of the world.

A major war can be averted only if the United States remains firm and isn't misled by the Peiping-Moscow bickering. The aim of both autocracies is to conquer. Their quarrel with each other is over which of the two shall be at the helm and derive the biggest material benefits through subversion of governments everywhere in the world.

It is ominous that the Peiping Government today is developing nuclear weapons. We have a vital interest in influencing the trend toward the kind of government which will be able to restrain the hand that could pull the trigger.

Only in a world of freedom can we survive. Our salvation can come when humanity heeds the Voice of Freedom. Its unceasing appeal is epitomized by the song "America" in these words: "From every mountainside let freedom ring."

It has been estimated that the cattle population of the United States is over 100 million head.

Seed Planted to Promote Missouri's Cotton Crop

By Leo Schade

PORTAGEVILLE -- Two hundred fifty cotton raisers and agricultural leaders gathered at the University of Missouri Delta Center last night to learn how to further promote the $90 million cotton industry in Missouri.

The meeting was called by a 15-man committee, which has studied the industry in cooperation with the University of Missouri agriculture college.

Chairman of the committee and master of ceremonies was E. B. Gee Jr., Blytheville, Ark., who outlined the committee proposals, following a barbeque chicken dinner. Speakers were Dean Elmer Kiehl, college of agriculture, University of Missouri, and Dr. C. B. Ratchford, college of agriculture, both from Columbia.

Bootheel state legislators and the staff of the University of Missouir Delta center attended.

Gee said that major needs of the industry were to employ an agricultural engineer, provide factual information, and have farm labor available.

The industry must have improved drainage, land leveling, land and soil research, land grading, weed and insect control by chemicals, a study of irrigation, improving the quality of cotton, and how to have effective defoliation," Gee said.

"The committee stressed the importance of cotton harvesting improvements, ginning and marketing. There must be more efficient ways, and we may come to the point where we must find more labor. It will take the cooperation of every agency connected with the industry, including financial institutions and our state legislature.

"The time is short, and the needs are immediate to expand our present $90 million industry.

Dean Elmer Kiehl said;

"I am familiar with the work conducted by this committee, which entails a total of 128 persons. We are committed to this area's growth, and are spending time and money to assist you in your problems.

"We believe cotton has a future. Your group has requested a lot of work from us but you failed to add the dollar signs to your report. You have asked for an agriculture engineer and you will get one.

"Let me remind you that in 1961 the place where you were sitting was just an open field, and today it has one of the finest research centers in the country. We are putting effort on irrigation and drainage and will add more full time personnel to further the study."

Ratchford said;

"I am aware of the value of cotton to your area, and you must have a good crop to get in the swing of things. Cotton must be your swing industry, and we must have more top yields, instead of the one and two bales per acre, compared to yields, which are much greater in western states.

"We needed a feedback on what you need, and you have given it to us, but we must spend less time arguing different opinions. On Oct. 12 there will be an agricultural specialist come here to follow your guidance, and we are going to try to meet all of your demands. We started something in the Bootheel when we crossed over county lines in trying to solve your problems. The one thing that scares me is the reluctance of your farmers to make a farm practice change, because in most cases we find it takes them seven years. This practice must change greatly in the future."

Fair to Open on Monday

DEXTER - Agricultural and home economics contests, a parade and the Miss Stoddard County contest will highlight the Stoddard County Fair which begins Monday.

The midway will open Monday at 7 p.m. followed at 9 p.m. by the Future Farmers of America pig scramble at the arena. Tuesday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. home economics and 4-H entries will be accepted.

At 8:30 a.m. Wednesday field crop entries will be accepted and home economics exhibits will be judged. From 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. entries for prepared fresh flowers will be made.

Thursday at 9 a.m. 4-H and home economics exhibits will be open to the public; 10 a.m., closing time for field crop entries; 2 p.m., special matinee for children; 5 p.m., grand parade on Stoddard street, and 6 p.m., deadline for livestock entries.

Float prizes are $50 first place, $25 second and $15 third.

At 8 p.m. Thursday Miss Stoddard County will be crowned at the fairgrounds.

At 7 p.m. Friday swine will be judged; 8:30 p.m., beef cattle judging, and 9 p.m., 4-H pig scramble at the arena.

At the Dexter Homecoming Day Saturday exhibits will open at 9 a.m.

Fair officers are Dr. E. G. Bailey Jr., chairman; Jim Russell, vice chairman, and W. L. Arnold, secretary.

Strike Hits MU Campus

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) - Maintenance workers at the University of Missouri went on strike today but at mid-morning a circuit judge issued a temporary restraining order directing them to stop picketing.

The Public Service Employes Local 45 called the walkout in its efforts to get recognition as a bargaining unit for various campus employes.

Circuit Judge John M. Cave granted the university petition for a temporary restraining order against the local.

It directed the union to stop picketing and to stop interfering with university operations.

The union's pickets had prevented members of some other crafts from going to their jobs on the campus, where preparations are being made for a record enrollment this fall.

The university's Medical Center and teaching Hospital was exempted by the union from the strike.

The union, affiliated with the Laborers' International Union of North America, has been seeking recognition as a bargaining unit. University officials contend state laws prohibit the university from granting such recognition.

Jaycees Plan Projects to Offset Loss

After suffering a financial loss on the annual Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo this year, determined Junior Chamber of Commerce members have undertaken to make it up.

Exact amount of the loss has not been determined. Bad weather caused poor attendance.

The group is sponsoring a jackpot horse show Sunday at 1 p.m. on the rodeo grounds. In addition, the club will have two stands at the Cotton Carnival and is preparing for a white elephant sale. A fat calf sale is planned during October.

James Cox, chairman of the white elephant sale, said today that his 22-member committee has contacted 250 merchants asking for donations of merchandise to be sold in the event.

Date of the sale is at 1:30 p.m., Oct. 16 at the armory. Only a handful of merchants have responded to the call so far. More contributions are expected soon, Cox said.

A white elephant float is being prepared. It will be in the Cotton Carnival parade, Sept. 24.

Gemini Records Pile up

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Gemini 11 astronauts today soared higher and faster than ma has ever flown, amazingly cat napped while Richard F. Gordon Jr. hung halfway outside the orbiting ship and then spun through space tied to an Agena satellite by a 100-foot cord.

"This is really weird," Gordon commented as the astronauts disconnected from the Agena and began unreeling the cord between the two vehicles.

"Man this is wild," he added later.

Command pilot Charles Conrad Jr. had difficulty at first pulling the coiled tether out of a bag located on the Agena.

"It looks like we're skipping rope with the Agena," Conrad said as he attempted to pull the line taut between the two satellites.

"That will take somebody a while to figure out. We got a weird phenomena here. The tether's got a bow in it."

Rolvaag Scores Primary Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Minnesota Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag, rejected for renomination by his own Democratic-Farmer-Labor party, won the chance on his own Tuesday to seek a second term in the Nov. 8 general election.

In another of Tuesday's 11 primary elections, Edward J. McCormack, a long-time challenger to the Kennedy clan, captured the Democratic nomination for governor of Massachusetts. He defeated Kenneth P. O'Donnell, a top aide to President John F. Kennedy.

Former House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, 81, was upset by a 35-year-old housewife and lawyer, Margaret M. Heckler, in his bid for Republican nomination to a 22nd term in another speaker during the 80th and 83rd Congresses and was Republican leader for 16 years before being toppled by Rep. Charles A. Halleck, R-Ind.

Some other races indicated popular support of President Johnson's Viet Nam policies and an apparent white blacklash to open housing, the most controversial section in the administration's civil rights bill. But national issues generally were scarce in the campaigns.

Besides Minnesota and Massachusetts, other primaries were held in Arizona, Colorado, Maryland, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont and Wisconsin. Voters chose nominees for six governorships, nine Senate seats and 74 House seats.

Rolvaag, 53, stormed past his handpicked lieutenant governor, A. M. (Sandy) Keith, 37, who bucked Rolvaag in June to win the party's convention endorsement. The governor also seemed to be carrying his state in three key races against Keith supporters.

Rolvaag will face Republican Harold LeVander, 55, a South St. Paul lawyer, who swept past nominal opposition in the GOP primary.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, a former Minnesota senator, took no active part in the primary campaign, although he backed Keith after the party nominated the lieutenant governor on the 20th ballot. He called early today for party unity in support of Rolvaag and predicted his re - election.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, took no side publicly in the Bay State Democratic primary, but promised to support Tuesday's victor in November.

This means Kennedy will be working for McCormack, whom he defeated in a bitter battle for the Senate nomination in 1962, in his general election campaign against GOP incumbent John A. Volpe, who was unopposed. McCormack is the nephew of House Speaker John W. McCormack.

Former Massachusetts Gov. Endicott Peabody, trying for a political comeback, defeated Boston Mayor John F. Collins in the Democratic race for Senate nomination.

Hunter Phillips

Tax Official To Crown Miss Sikeston

Hunter Phillips, chairman of the State tax commission in Jefferson City, will be in Sikeston Sept. 23 during the Cotton Carnival to crown Miss Sikeston.

The crowning will take place following the Sikeston-Charleston football game. The carnival begins Monday and will continue through Sept. 24.

Each senior home room in the high school has submitted two candidates for the title. There are 11 senior home rooms so 22 candidates will compete.

Sfc. A. B. Ledbetter is chairman of the contest.

Phillips, a resident of Kansas City, was county judge of Jackson county in 1954-64. He was appointed chairman of the state tax commission in February of 1965.

Aged Graniteville Man Steps into Car's Path , Dies

Archie Sylvester Blankenship, 67, Graniteville, was killed yesterday at 6:30 p.m. in the city limits of Graniteville on highway 21, when he stepped in the path of a 1958 Chevrolet, driven by Doyle Cowin, 18, Van Buren.

The body of Blankenship was taken to the White Funeral Home in Ironton.

Roger Dale Neeley, 19, Malden, was arrested for careless and reckless driving, according to the highway patrol, when he entered a service station with his 1965 Honda Monday at 3:10 p.m. in Malden, at a high rate of speed and slid into a 1963 Chevrolet, parked near the station.

Neeley's vehicle went under the car, causing the youth to receive a possible broken foot. He was taken to the Doctor's Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Bill Sherwood, 67, Holland, was given a summons by the patrol for failure to yield right-of-way, in an accident yesterday at 1:20 p.m. on highway 61 at the state line.

He was driving a 1961 Ford, when he pulled in front of a 1966 Rambler, driven by Joseph Hayden, 60, Caruthersville.

Sherwood was treated by a Blytheville physician for injuries to his left arm.

A 16-year old juvenile girl of Poplar Bluff, driving a 1963 Chevrolet, sideswiped a 1963 White tractor trailer, driven by Rodney Nick, 25, Cape Girardeau.

The accident occurred last night at 8:30 p.m. in the east city limits of Poplar Bluff on route 60.

The juvenile was treated at the Lucy Lee Hospital, Poplar Bluff, for cuts on her face.

Voice Objections At Highway Meet

Only two persons objected to the proposed plan to widen Highway 61 from the intersection with business route 61 south to the Greer st. intersection at a public hearing at 10 a.m. today at the Security National Bank.

The principal objections to the State Highway Department plan to widen the two mile stretch of Highway 60 from the intersection of business route 61 south to Greet St. were not aimed at the improvement itself. They were against the prospect of having to close some businesses during the construction.

The highway plan covered in the Sikeston Area Transportation study calls for the widening of the present 20 feet, two lane pavement to a width of 52 feet with four lanes. A four foot median is also included in the plan. It will be flush for most of the distance and raised at business district intersections between Tanner and Greer to provide for left or right turns. The plan is projected to meet the needs of the city in 1985.

Earl Jarvis, manager of the El Capri Motel, objected to the State Highway department proposal, because of the effect closing of his business entrances could have.

Sherman Grant, Grant Oil Co., voiced his objection to closing of entrances. He said, it was not that he objected to inconvenience caused by the progress, but that it was a dollars and cents proposition and that by cutting off access to his business, it could mean the death of the business.

Sherman suggested that the State Highway Department make some provision to allow customers to continue to enter businesses along the proposed improvement, while construction is being conducted.

Charles Matthews, 1 Cotton Trace, was the first to raise a question at the hearing. Matthews addressed his first question to the proposed four feet wide flush median, which is included in the proposal to be constructed from the business route 61 intersection to Tanner.

"What is the purpose of the median?" Matthews asked.

W. Dale Carney, 10 District Highway engineer, who conducted the hearing, explained that the median was planned, as a safety factor and to give additional width. No restrictions on turning right or left will be imposed concerning the flush median, Carney added.

Matthews also asked if the traffic flow study indicated the need to go north with the extension, rather than south. Matthews was particularly concerned with the area from Wakefield north to the business route intersection. This stretch is proposed to be a limited access area with certain planned points of entry. The points will be settled with the individual property owners if the plan materializes, Carney said.

The point Matthews emphasized, was that it seemed more important to build four lanes south from Greer, or south from Tanner to the intersection of Highway 60. This would serve more of the developed and presently congested business area, he noted.

William Vandivort, 8 Bel Air, questioned the drainage problem and asked who was responsible for the drainage. Carney noted that the city will have the responsibility to provide the necessary drainage from the railroad crossing back to Anderson to the open drainage ditch.

Jarvis asked how long it would be before construction began if all plans went through and were approved. Carney assured Jarvis that construction would not be started in 1967. He stated that depending on financing the construction probably would not be started for three to four years.

Jarvis also asked about the rerouting of traffic, and was told that there would be periods of rerouting depending on the phase and progress of the construction.

Ernest R. Inman, representing the board of public works, asked who would be responsible for paying the cost of moving the white way, if and when the construction is done.

Carney stated that the expense would have to be borne by the city or the board of public works.

Edward C. Matthews, Jr., 824 North Ranney, also asked about the limited access area, on the north section of the proposed improvement, suggesting that an expansion to the south seemed more logical.

First Bale of Cotton Ginned in Sikeston Area

The first bale of cotton in the Sikeston area was ginned this week, the employment service reports.

Cotton picking, for all practical purposes will not begin until the last week in September. There are no out - of - area labor needs for harvest. No labor is available for out-of-area movement. There is a shortage of qualified, year-round farm hands.

The farm labor information station and rest camp, route two, served 307 migrants last week. All were returning to Texas.

Demand for seasonal farm workers in the Cape Girardeau area has increased. Apple pickers and hay hands for immediate employment are needed. Apple picking will continue for six weeks. There is no labor available for out-of-area employment.

Cool dry weather prevailed over the Caruthersville area this week. Scattered cotton picking started during the week. No great demand for hand pickers is expected. Most farmers are planning on picking from 85 to 90 per cent of their crops with machines.

There is little farming activity in the Poplar Bluff area. Fifteen tractor drivers were referred to Wisconsin this week. Cotton picking is not likely to start until around Oct. 1.

Expansion of Occupation Program Asked by School

A report on application for expansion of the multi - occupational program, latest enrollment figure and plans for educational conferences were discussed at the September school board meeting Tuesday afternoon at the superintendent's office.

The latest enrollment figures at the public schools show 3,884 attending, Lynn Twitty, school superintendent said.

The figure does not include 117 students in the area trade technical program from neighboring schools, he added.

Harold Vogel, assistant administrator, reported to the board that application has been filed with the federal government for approval of a new multi - occupational program for 342 trainees for institutional training. Approval is hoped for by Nov. 1, he said.

The application calls for the continuation of nine existing manpower development training act programs and inclusion of five new programs. The new areas of training would be general clerical, building trades, sales and related fields, small appliance repair, and small gas engine and outboard motor repair.

The nine programs existing are: automobile mechanics, body and fender repair, agriculture mechanics, food service, nursing aides, welding, building and ground maintenance, heating and refrigeration and licensed practical nursing.

Four persons from Sikeston will attend a governor's conference on education in Missouri set for Sept. 30 - Oct. 1 in Jefferson City.

Attending from Sikeston will be Mrs. Manuel Drumm, Bernard Rice, Harold Kiehne, director of secondary education, and Twitty.

Six Sikeston residents plan to attend the Missouri School Board association meeting Nov. 13-15 in Columbia. They are Bruce Lewis, Lee Austin Bowman, Clem Beal, Robert Mitchell, Dr. A. D. Martin, and Twitty.

The board voted approval of payment of $15,613 in monthly bills. The bills covered normal operations including transportation, supplies and incidentals.

In addition $2,078.09 was spent from the building fund for business machines, lawn mowers, and kitchen equipment.

Courses Will Be Offered

MALDEN - An organizational meeting for Southeast Missouri State college extension courses will be held at the science and mathematics building at 7 p.m. Friday.

Courses tentatively listed as available by the college for extension credit will be offered only if a minimum of 15 students enroll in each of the courses. Other courses than those listed may be offered if as many as 15 students make the request.

Courses will meet one evening each week.

Courses tentatively offered include English composition, American history, western civilization, fundamentals of speech, phonetics 2820; elementary accounting and intermediate algebra.

Seed Planted to Promote Missouri's Cotton Crop

By Leo Schade

PORTAGEVILLE -- Two hundred fifty cotton raisers and agricultural leaders gathered at the University of Missouri Delta Center last night to learn how to further promote the $90 million cotton industry in Missouri.

The meeting was called by a 15-man committee, which has studied the industry in cooperation with the University of Missouri agriculture college.

Chairman of the committee and master of ceremonies was E. B. Gee Jr., Blytheville, Ark., who outlined the committee proposals, following a barbeque chicken dinner. Speakers were Dean Elmer Kiehl, college of agriculture, University of Missouri, and Dr. C. B. Ratchford, college of agriculture, both from Columbia.

Bootheel state legislators and the staff of the University of Missouir Delta center attended.

Gee said that major needs of the industry were to employ an agricultural engineer, provide factual information, and have farm labor available.

The industry must have improved drainage, land leveling, land and soil research, land grading, weed and insect control by chemicals, a study of irrigation, improving the quality of cotton, and how to have effective defoliation," Gee said.

"The committee stressed the importance of cotton harvesting improvements, ginning and marketing. There must be more efficient ways, and we may come to the point where we must find more labor. It will take the cooperation of every agency connected with the industry, including financial institutions and our state legislature.

"The time is short, and the needs are immediate to expand our present $90 million industry.

Dean Elmer Kiehl said:

"I am familiar with the work conducted by this committee, which entails a total of 128 persons. We are committed to this area's growth, and are spending time and money to assist you in your problems.

"We believe cotton has a future. Your group has requested a lot of work from us but you failed to add the dollar signs to your report. You have asked for an agriculture engineer and you will get one.

"Let me remind you that in 1961 the place where you were sitting was just an open field, and today it has one of the finest research centers in the country. We are putting effort on irrigation and drainage and will add more full time personnel to further the study."

Ratchford said:

"I am aware of the value of cotton to your area, and you must have a good crop to get in the swing of things. Cotton must be your swing industry, and we must have more top yields, instead of the one and two bales per acre, compared to yields, which are much greater in western states.

"We needed a feedback on what you need, and you have given it to us, but we must spend less time arguing different opinions. On Oct. 12 there will be an agricultural specialist come here to follow your guidance, and we are going to try to meet all of your demands. We started something in the Bootheel when we crossed over county lines in trying to solve your problems. The one thing that scares me is the reluctance of your farmers to make a farm practice change, because in most cases we find it takes them seven years. This practice must change greatly in the future."

Fair to Open on Monday

DEXTER - Agricultural and home economics contests, a parade and the Miss Stoddard County contest will highlight the Stoddard County Fair which begins Monday.

The midway will open Monday at 7 p.m. followed at 9 p.m. by the Future Farmers of America pig scramble at the arena. Tuesday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. home economics and 4-H entries will be accepted.

At 8:30 a.m. Wednesday field crop entries will be accepted and home economics exhibits will be judged. From 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. entries for prepared fresh flowers will be made.

Thursday at 9 a.m. 4-H and home economics exhibits will be open to the public; 10 a.m., closing time for field crop entries; 2 p.m., special matinee for children; 5 p.m., grand parade on Stoddard street, and 6 p.m., deadline for livestock entries.

Float prizes are $50 first place, $25 second and $15 third.

At 8 p.m. Thursday Miss Stoddard County will be crowned at the fairgrounds.

At 7 p.m. Friday swine will be judged; 8:30 p.m., beef cattle judging, and 9 p.m., 4-H pig scramble at the arena.

At the Dexter Homecoming Day Saturday exhibits will open at 9 a.m.

Fair officers are Dr. E. G. Bailey Jr., chairman; Jim Russell, vice chairman, and W. L. Arnold, secretary.

Jaycees Plan Projects to Offset Loss

After suffering a financial loss on the annual Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo this year, determined Junior Chamber of Commerce members have undertaken to make it up.

Exact amount of the loss has not been determined. Bad weather caused poor attendance.

The group is sponsoring a jackpot horse show Sunday at 1 p.m. on the rodeo grounds. In addition, the club will have two stands at the Cotton Carnival and is preparing for a white elephant sale. A fat calf sale is planned during October.

James Cox, chairman of the white elephant sale, said today that his 22-member committee has contacted 250 merchants asking for donations of merchandise to be sold in the event.

Date of the sale is at 1:30 p.m., Oct. 16 at the armory. Only a handful of merchants have responded to the call so far. More contributions are expected soon, Cox said.

A white elephant float is being prepared. It will be in the Cotton Carnival parade, Sept. 24.

Gemini Records Pile up

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Gemini 11 astronauts today soared higher and faster than ma has ever flown, amazingly cat napped while Richard F. Gordon Jr. hung halfway outside the orbiting ship and then spun through space tied to an Agena satellite by a 100-foot cord.

"This is really weird," Gordon commented as the astronauts disconnected from the Agena and began unreeling the cord between the two vehicles.

"Man this is wild," he added later.

Command pilot Charles Conrad Jr. had difficulty at first pulling the coiled tether out of a bag located on the Agena.

"It looks like we're skipping rope with the Agena," Conrad said as he attempted to pull the line taut between the two satellites.

"That will take somebody a while to figure out. We got a weird phenomena here. The tether's got a bow in it."

Hunter Phillips

Tax Official To Crown Miss Sikeston

Hunter Phillips, chairman of the State tax commission in Jefferson City, will be in Sikeston Sept. 23 during the Cotton Carnival to crown Miss Sikeston.

The crowning will take place following the Sikeston-Charleston football game. The carnival begins Monday and will continue through Sept. 24.

Each senior home room in the high school has submitted two candidates for the title. There are 11 senior home rooms so 22 candidates will compete.

Sfc. A. B. Ledbetter is chairman of the contest.

Phillips, a resident of Kansas City, was county judge of Jackson county in 1954-64. He was appointed chairman of the state tax commission in February of 1965.

Voice Objections At Highway Meet

Only two persons objected to the proposed plan to widen Highway 61 from the intersection with business route 61 south to the Greer st. intersection at a public hearing at 10 a.m. today at the Security National Bank.

The principal objections to the State Highway Department plan to widen the two mile stretch of Highway 60 from the intersection of business route 61 south to Greet St. were not aimed at the improvement itself. They were against the prospect of having to close some businesses during the construction.

The highway plan covered in the Sikeston Area Transportation study calls for the widening of the present 20 feet, two lane pavement to a width of 52 feet with four lanes. A four foot median is also included in the plan. It will be flush for most of the distance and raised at business district intersections between Tanner and Greer to provide for left or right turns. The plan is projected to meet the needs of the city in 1985.

Earl Jarvis, manager of the El Capri Motel, objected to the State Highway department proposal, because of the effect closing of his business entrances could have.

Sherman Grant, Grant Oil Co., voiced his objection to closing of entrances. He said, it was not that he objected to inconvenience caused by the progress, but that it was a dollars and cents proposition and that by cutting off access to his business, it could mean the death of the business.

Sherman suggested that the State Highway Department make some provision to allow customers to continue to enter businesses along the proposed improvement, while construction is being conducted.

Charles Matthews, 1 Cotton Trace, was the first to raise a question at the hearing. Matthews addressed his first question to the proposed four feet wide flush median, which is included in the proposal to be constructed from the business route 61 intersection to Tanner.

"What is the purpose of the median?" Matthews asked.

W. Dale Carney, 10 District Highway engineer, who conducted the hearing, explained that the median was planned, as a safety factor and to give additional width. No restrictions on turning right or left will be imposed concerning the flush median, Carney added.

Matthews also asked if the traffic flow study indicated the need to go north with the extension, rather than south. Matthews was particularly concerned with the area from Wakefield north to the business route intersection. This stretch is proposed to be a limited access area with certain planned points of entry. The points will be settled with the individual property owners if the plan materializes, Carney said.

The point Matthews emphasized, was that it seemed more important to build four lanes south from Greer, or south from Tanner to the intersection of Highway 60. This would serve more of the developed and presently congested business area, he noted.

William Vandivort, 8 Bel Air, questioned the drainage problem and asked who was responsible for the drainage. Carney noted that the city will have the responsibility to provide the necessary drainage from the railroad crossing back to Anderson to the open drainage ditch.

Jarvis asked how long it would be before construction began if all plans went through and were approved. Carney assured Jarvis that construction would not be started in 1967. He stated that depending on financing the construction probably would not be started for three to four years.

Jarvis also asked about the rerouting of traffic, and was told that there would be periods of rerouting depending on the phase and progress of the construction.

Ernest R. Inman, representing the board of public works, asked who would be responsible for paying the cost of moving the white way, if and when the construction is done.

Carney stated that the expense would have to be borne by the city or the board of public works.

Edward C. Matthews, Jr., 824 North Ranney, also asked about the limited access area, on the north section of the proposed improvement, suggesting that an expansion to the south seemed more logical.

Rolvaag Scores Primary Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Minnesota Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag, rejected for renomination by his own Democratic-Farmer-Labor party, won the chance on his own Tuesday to seek a second term in the Nov. 8 general election.

In another of Tuesday's 11 primary elections, Edward J. McCormack, a long-time challenger to the Kennedy clan, captured the Democratic nomination for governor of Massachusetts. He defeated Kenneth P. O'Donnell, a top aide to President John F. Kennedy.

Former House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, 81, was upset by a 35-year-old housewife and lawyer, Margaret M. Heckler, in his bid for Republican nomination to a 22nd term in another speaker during the 80th and 83rd Congresses and was Republican leader for 16 years before being toppled by Rep. Charles A. Halleck, R-Ind.

Some other races indicated popular support of President Johnson's Viet Nam policies and an apparent white blacklash to open housing, the most controversial section in the administration's civil rights bill. But national issues generally were scarce in the campaigns.

Besides Minnesota and Massachusetts, other primaries were held in Arizona, Colorado, Maryland, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont and Wisconsin. Voters chose nominees for six governorships, nine Senate seats and 74 House seats.

Rolvaag, 53, stormed past his handpicked lieutenant governor, A. M. (Sandy) Keith, 37, who bucked Rolvaag in June to win the party's convention endorsement. The governor also seemed to be carrying his state in three key races against Keith supporters.

Rolvaag will face Republican Harold LeVander, 55, a South St. Paul lawyer, who swept past nominal opposition in the GOP primary.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, a former Minnesota senator, took no active part in the primary campaign, although he backed Keith after the party nominated the lieutenant governor on the 20th ballot. He called early today for party unity in support of Rolvaag and predicted his re-election.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, took no side publicly in the Bay State Democratic primary, but promised to support Tuesday's victor in November.

This means Kennedy will be working for McCormack, whom he defeated in a bitter battle for the Senate nomination in 1962, in his general election campaign against GOP incumbent John A. Volpe, who was unopposed. McCormack is the nephew of House Speaker John W. McCormack.

Former Massachusetts Gov. Endicott Peabody, trying for a political comeback, defeated Boston Mayor John F. Collins in the Democratic race for Senate nomination.

Strike Hits MU Campus

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) - Maintenance workers at the University of Missouri went on strike today but at mid-morning a circuit judge issued a temporary restraining order directing them to stop picketing.

The Public Service Employes Local 45 called the walkout in its efforts to get recognition as a bargaining unit for various campus employes.

Circuit Judge John M. Cave granted the university petition for a temporary restraining order against the local.

It directed the union to stop picketing and to stop interfering with university operations.

The union's pickets had prevented members of some other crafts from going to their jobs on the campus, where preparations are being made for a record enrollment this fall. The university's Medical Center and teaching Hospital was exempted by the union from the strike.

The union, affiliated with the Laborers' International Union of North America, has been seeking recognition as a bargaining unit. University officials contend state laws prohibit the university from granting such recognition.

Aged Graniteville Man Steps into Car's Path, Dies

Archie Sylvester Blankenship, 67, Graniteville, was killed yesterday at 6:30 p.m. in the city limits of Graniteville on highway 21, when he stepped in the path of a 1958 Chevrolet, driven by Doyle Cowin, 18, Van Buren.

The body of Blankenship was taken to the White Funeral Home in Ironton.

Roger Dale Neeley, 19, Malden, was arrested for careless and reckless driving, according to the highway patrol, when he entered a service station with his 1965 Honda Monday at 3:10 p.m. in Malden, at a high rate of speed and slid into a 1963 Chevrolet, parked near the station.

Neeley's vehicle went under the car, causing the youth to receive a possible broken foot. He was taken to the Doctor's Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Bill Sherwood, 67, Holland, was given a summons by the patrol for failure to yield right-of-way, in an accident yesterday at 1:20 p.m. on highway 61 at the state line.

He was driving a 1961 Ford, when he pulled in front of a 1966 Rambler, driven by Joseph Hayden, 60, Caruthersville.

Sherwood was treated by a Blytheville physician for injuries to his left arm.

A 16-year old juvenile girl of Poplar Bluff, driving a 1963 Chevrolet, sideswiped a 1963 White tractor trailer, driven by Rodney Nick, 25, Cape Girardeau.

The accident occurred last night at 8:30 p.m. in the east city limits of Poplar Bluff on route 60.

The juvenile was treated at the Lucy Lee Hospital, Poplar Bluff, for cuts on her face.

First Bale of Cotton Ginned in Sikeston Area

The first bale of cotton in the Sikeston area was ginned this week, the employment service reports.

Cotton picking, for all practical purposes will not begin until the last week in September. There are no out - of - area labor needs for harvest. No labor is available for out-of-area movement. There is a shortage of qualified, year-round farm hands.

The farm labor information station and rest camp, route two, served 307 migrants last week. All were returning to Texas.

Demand for seasonal farm workers in the Cape Girardeau area has increased. Apple pickers and hay hands for immediate employment are needed. Apple picking will continue for six weeks. There is no labor available for out-of-area employment.

Cool dry weather prevailed over the Caruthersville area this week. Scattered cotton picking started during the week. No great demand for hand pickers is expected. Most farmers are planning on picking from 85 to 90 per cent of their crops with machines.

There is little farming activity in the Poplar Bluff area. Fifteen tractor drivers were referred to Wisconsin this week. Cotton picking is not likely to start until around Oct. 1.

Expansion of Occupation Program Asked by School

The fight to save nature's beauty continues in this country as the amount of unpopulated land shrinks.

As the population increases and more and more people live in cities the importance of wilderness areas and parks grows.

In frontier days wildernesses were in surplus. That is no longer true.

President Lyndon B. Johnson has nothing more urgent before him than to prod Congress into passing emergency legislation to save the northern California redwood forests.

The redwoods are arrayed in a controversy with conservationists taking the position that they should not be destroyed and lumber interests and county officials opposing them. The county officials are concerned because taxable lands disappear when forests become part of state and national parks.

The nation cannot afford to lose the inspirational value of the giant redwoods. It's not just a loss for California.

Congress failed to act this year on legislation to establish Redwood National Park.

Virgin trees are being cut up for lumber.

President Johnson has asked Congress to enact emergency legislation to stop it until the controversy is settled. A lumber company has refused to accept compensation for quitting its cutting operations.

Congress must act quickly on the emergency legislation and it should create the proposed Redwood National Park next session without fail.

It could go one step further and save the trees in Redwood Creek Valley as well.

The increase in tourist travel to northern California will through the years offset any immediate loss of revenue to communities in the region.

The lumber industry can be compensated for the loss.

Only about 300,000 redwoods are left from approximately two million acres of the forested acres. Few of these are now in state parks.

The majesty of these trees, providing shade, magnificent scenery, opportunities for inspiration and meditation will be needed more in the years ahead as city dwellers seek to get away from the noise and clamor of the centers of population.

Tomorrow's heritage of natural beauty is more important than today's greed.

LOWER AIR FARES?

When it comes to conflict of interest and half - a - loaf compromise, an international disarmament conference can't hold a candle to a meeting of international air carriers. Money as well as national pride is at stake. Both will be very much in evidence when the International Air Transport Association meets in Honolulu, Monday, Sept. 12, to establish fare rates for the two years beginning April 1, 1967.

The U. S. Civil Aeronautics Board recently stated that fare reductions were "warranted and required in the public interest" on the North Atlantic, North and Central Pacific, and United States-Mexico routes. With regard to the heavily traveled North Atlantic route, C.A.B. called for "substantial cuts" in economy - class fares, extension of excursion rates to weekends, and lower fares for Europeans traveling to this country.

The C.A.B. no doubt will get considerably less than it is asking for. Airline industry officials expect that group flight fares may be trimmed somewhat, and that baggage restrictions may be eased, but they foresee no across - the - board fare slash. Although C.A.B. has the power to veto any fare agreement signed by American members of I.A.T.A., it probably would think twice before doing so. The 43-day airline strike, which ended Aug. 19, left a hole in the carriers' pockets that will take time to mend.

ANTI-TRUST DISCRIMINATION

It is a well-known fact that exemption of labor unions from the anti-trust laws results in flagrant partiality in the application of these laws by the Department of Justice during strikes and labor - management disputes. Congress should remove the exemption and the bias in the law.

The shut down of New York City newspapers and the demise of the Herald Tribune offer a good case study of the inequities.

If the three publishers of the Journal American, the World-Telegram and the Herald Tribune had gotten together last Spring and announced they were going to shut down all three newspapers on April 25 for four months so they could work out the details of their merger, negotiate some new and more favorable labor contracts with their 10 unions, those publishers would have been brought before the bar of justice for conspiracy in restraint of trade.

Instead, when the publishers merged to continue morning, evening and Sunday newspapers the Guild said it was going to strike and it wouldn't let these publishers produce any papers after April 25 until its demands were met satisfactorily. The heads of nine other unions went along with this and the papers were shut down. But when the Guild's demands were met then the head of another union said "now it is our turn," and so on and on until the tenth -- the pressmen -- the final holdout.

The unions participated in deliberate acts of restraint of trade for which their employers would have been fined and imprisoned and competition has been stifled instead of fostered.

THE BALLAD OF THE GREEN BERET

The Hit Parade has long been a barometer of the musical tastes and sentiments of our nation's young people.

A few weeks ago, a song called "The Ballad of the Green Berets" was #3 on the Hit Parade. The fact that a patriotic song, reflecting pride in our fighting men, has made a good showing on the popularity poll indicates in our young people an admirable interest and enthusiasm for those men who defend our freedom. How much better the proud praise of our freedom's defenders than the depressing warnings of doom and destruction popular in songs a few months ago!

The "Green Berets" are the Army's Special Forces--an elite group of specially trained young men skilled in guerilla warfare, survival techniques, communications and languages. Educational and physical requirements are high, the training is tough and demanding and only the most dedicated and resolute men are equal to it.

The "Green Berets" forerunners were World War II's Rangers, the first regiment which suffered casualties of about 9 out of 10 of its 2000 men. Their World War II counterpart in the Pacific was the Marine Raiders who hit beach after beach on island after island, wriging an illustrious new page in this country's history of heroic men who fight their country's battles.

Today the Green Berets deserve recognition and gratitude from all segments of the citizenry, but it is especially gratifying that our youth so accord it in their own way.

As the Ballad says, these young fighting men are "America's best," their personal sacrifices are many, and it speaks well for our country's future that its youth take such pride in the men of the Special Forces who serve it nobly and with honor. HLH

Finland's Socialist Prime Minister Explains Why Socialists Junk Socialism For More Profitable Capitalism

Helsinki, Finland: -- Where machine guns don't vote there is no Socialism.

Even here in Finland, where the common border with the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics runs from darkened Lapland down to the Baltic, free enterprise, despite a Socialist coalition government, is "in."

Nationalization of industry is as "out" as a short haircut in a European youth club.

Every "Socialist" premier in Northern Europe will tell you that -- just as they told me all along the line.

This was especially true after a few minutes' conversation with a newspaperman who really made good -- Prime Minister Rafael Paasio. The Helsinki sun and his laughter wove a good-humored pattern through the high-ceilinged office atop the Council of State Building as I asked him about Socialist governments and nationalization of industry.

"Socialization is not the Pearly Gates," said the mild mannered Premier, who manages daily to keep his government on the thin line between the unspoken pressures of the USSR and the old friendships with the U.S.

Socialization or nationalization are not solutions to problems. We don't think states should nationalize property for the sake of nationalizing or government ownership.

"We are interested in raising the standard of living of our people," the Prime Minister asserted during our hour long talk.

I reminded him, as I had other Social Democratic Premiers in the past few weeks, that he is a veteran Socialist, running a Socialist Party. And I asked what of the old Socialist preachings of Kautsky, Vandervelde and Scandinavian Socialist prime ministers of old.

Mr. Paasio looked past me onto the Square of the Senate -- which architecturally is the best preserved of all old Empire style structures (with a statue of Russian Czar Alexander II in the center).

"Dead men should not lead," said he, quoting an old Finnish political writer.

His attitude is a reflection of the new times. Virtually all the major and powerful Socialist parties of Europe have abandoned their principles of collectivization. They don't confuse the welfare state, as it is known back home, with Socialism. They know that only an efficient and free business community can make their country prosper.

Furthermore, here the government encourages competition. The Prime Minister and his aides, in office since last May, explained that only a handful of businesses are run by the government. Some are in the wood working and processing field -- such as pulp and lumber. Some in iron ore. But in each case the government went in because private capital was either inefficient or insufficient. In some cases the government and private industry are partners. In many instances, the government and private plants compete in the same field.

"We do very little thinking about nationalization," said the premier, who had once edited a small town newspaper. "There is some thought of taking over some insurance business and production of pharmaceuticals."

Apparently neither the three Communists in his cabinet, nor the Finnish Communists who have 41 seats in the 200-man Parliament, attempt to pressure the coalition government into socialization of Finland's commerce and industry. Such policies obviously have failed across the Soviet border. They have failed in Eastern Europe. They are being abandoned everywhere for capitalist pursuits. This is simplification. But any other analysis is falsification.

Everywhere, the Communists are trying to go "mod." Everywhere, and here, too, the younger radicals are weary of the outmoded Socialist slogans and interminable dialectic mouthings of Moscow's inflexible leaders.

They push their elders for new faces. They snicker at them. They laughed here when Gus Hall came recently and talked of an American Communist party and terminology long considered old hat in Finland.

I asked the prime minister whether the Kremlin pressures the freedom-loving Finns -- philosophically, militarily, or morally.

"They do not," he retorted. "We sleep well at night."

And then, as have all the other prime ministers, he spoke of his affection for the U.S. -- BUT expressed, in soft terms, his opposition to our policy in Viet Nam. He thought we should get out. But he knew not how.

"It's a matter of prestige," said he as we pirouetted around the issue of Southeast Asia.

After I left, I asked an aide if I could talk with the powerful Centrist Finnish president Urho Kekkonen. "Oh, he has gone hunting near Sotchi with Premier Kosygin," was the reply.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's Note: The brass ring good for one free ride on the Washington Merry - Go-Round today goes to President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines.)

WASHINGTON -- A lot of presidents, prime ministers, and potentates have visited the White House this year, but none more important than Ferdinand Marcos, President of the Philippines, first modern republic to emerge in Asia, a showcase of American democracy.

Here are the reasons for the importance of his visit:

1. The ties between the Philippines have begun to wear thin. No longer do Filipinos like being called a show - case of American democracy.

2. The Philippines have done a great job of education and reconstruction in various Asian countries, could do more. They can be of especial help in South Viet Nam.

3. The Philippines have become an important stabilizer for peace and against Communism in troubled Southeast Asia. With support and encouragement, they can do more.

MARCOS THE MAN

The man who will sit down President Johnson to discuss these matters is a handsome war hero whose family has been fighting Philippine battles for the past 75 years, and who himself once murdered the political enemy of his father.

His grandfather joined the anti - American Guerillas immediately after the Spanish-American war to try to upset American rule and was one of those who nearly killed my father - in - law, then a young lieutenant in the American army trying to subdue the jungles of the Philippines in the way we are now fighting in the jungles of Viet Nam. The American army never did succeed until General Aguinaldo, leader of the Guerillas, surrendered.

President Marcos has seen more than his share of fighting. He was wounded in Bataan, after Gen. Mac Arthur retreated there; captured by the Japanese, forced to join the Bataan death march; escaped twice and recaptured twice, severely tortured. Toward the end of the war he helped organize the Guerillas in Southern Luzon which made the landing of American forces there much easier. During the closing days of the war, he helped capture the Japanese commander, Gen. Yamishita, in the bitter battle of Besang Pass. Today, he holds 27 medals, the most decorated Filipino soldier of World War II.

In his previous civilian attack on his father's political rival, Nalundasa, Marcos was convicted of murder, appealed his case; and by studying law in prison, won his release from the supreme court.

Perhaps because he understands war, Marcos, when campaigning for President, was against Philippine participation in Viet Nam, even though his country is a member of the SEATO Alliance.

But after becoming President, Marcos switched, has now sent a 2,000-man engineering battalion to South Viet Nam to rebuild and improve villages.

It was the civil action program in Philippine villages under Gen. Edward Lansdale which did so much to cut the ground out from under the HUK Communist movement. Lansdale has tried to duplicate this in Viet Nam.

UNREST IN PHILIPPINES

President Marcos' shift of policy has caused a lot of criticism in the Philippines. He put it very frankly in a private letter to President Johnson, Aug. 9, in which he accepted LBJ's invitation to come to Washington.

"There has been a noticeable resurgence of subversive activities since the Philippine government decided to send to Viet Nam a Philippine civic action group with security troops," President Marcos wrote Johnson.

"My administration has instituted a massive campaign of land reform directed at the heartland of subversion, designed to convert big feudalistic landed estates into small landholdings for the benefit of tenants and small farmers."

Few countries are better qualified to help bring peaceful democracy to Asia. Some years ago, while in Afghanistan, I visited a civil aviation school conducted by Filipinos under an American aid program to teach Afghans modern airport management. Because of color prejudice, Filipinos were able to do a much better job than white Americans.

This is also true in South Viet Nam.

President Marcos is fully aware of the fact that his country has a long way to go in eradicating poverty, improving its schools, and stamping out graft. Corruption is just as rampant as in South Viet Nam. And with over 7,000 islands in the Philippines, it is relatively easy for smugglers to unload anything from cigarettes to automobiles without paying duty. Half of the government's revenue is lost in this way.

President Marcos has begun to crack down on this, is determined to wipe out bribe-taking by government officials and legislators. He also has some arguments to settle with Johnson regarding the 500,000 acres of military property held by the United States under a 99-year lease.

But, compared with the first time I visited the Philippines, in 1922 when it was an American Colony under the stern command of Gen. Leonard Wood, the Republic of the Philippines has become a proud, vigorous, and successful example of self - government in an area where self - government is precarious indeed.

NEW TEAM FOR STATE DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON -- After a great deal of searching, President Johnson has now found the no. 2 man for the state department, Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, former sugar refining executive who turned diplomat 15 years ago and has established a remarkable career in diplomacy ever since.

The post he will fill, Undersecretary of State, is one of the most important in government, partly because it has been so well filled by George Ball, retiring Undersecretary, partly because the job of backstopping the Secretary of State in the present complicated state of world affairs has become almost as important as that of secretary.

For the no. 3 post in the state department, Deputy Undersecretary for Economic Affairs, Johnson has tentatively selected Lucius Battle, longtime able state department official whose latest post has been Ambassador to the United Arab Republic.

Ambassador Bunker's latest job has been that of unsnarling the complicated Dominican Republic mess, one of the most difficult in the Western Hemisphere, which required consummate skill and tact and which he finally succeeded in doing.

There has been some hesitancy about picking Bunker for the exhausting job of Undersecretary of State because he is 72 years old. However, the manner in which he worked night and day to solve the Dominican crisis convinced the President that he could outwork a much younger man.

YALE AND DIPLOMACY

Bunker first came upon the diplomatic scene through the happenstance of having attended Yale, one class behind Dean Acheson, (1916) who when he became Secretary of State picked Bunker in 1951 to be Ambassador to Argentina, at that time giving trouble because of the anti - American policies of Dictator Peron.

Bunker went from Buenos Aires to Rome. And when the Eisenhower administration took over, was picked by Ike to head the American Red Cross. Bunker has spent his life in private business, having started in sugar refining in 1927, and worked his way up to be chairman of the National Sugar Refining Company.

It is unusual for a Republican administration to recognize the abilities of a political ambassador, and Bunker was clearly stamped as a Truman appointee. However, other diplomats were impressed with Bunker's ability and recommended to John Foster Dulles that he be made Ambassador to India, where he did a suberb job for five difficult years. He was then given an even more difficult job --- mediator of the new Guinea dispute between Indonesia and the Netherlands.

By this time Bunker was considered the most valuable trouble - shooter in the state department, and he was appointed Ambassador to the Organization of American States, an assignment which took him to the Dominican Republic.

Bunker is a native New Yorker, has also served as a director of the Curtis Publishing Company, the Lambert International Corporation, and several insurance companies.

BATTLE'S CAREER

Lucius Battle was born in Dawson, Ga. in 1918, educated at the University of Florida, 1939, became a resident of Virginia where he served on the commission for the restoration of Williamsburg, and as one of the Virginia campaign managers for the late John F. Kennedy in the 1960 election.

Battle had come to know Kennedy in the navy in World War II, and, after his election, Kennedy appointed him Assistant Secretary of State in charge of education and cultural affairs. Battle had served in the state department previously as a career diplomat, having acquired experience in NATO, at the American Embassies in Paris and Copenhagen, and a special assistant to secretaries Acheson and Rusk.

Johnson appointed Battle Ambassador to Cairo in 1964. He is 48 years old.

The fight to save nature's beauty continues in this country as the amount of unpopulated land shrinks.

As the population increases and more and more people live in cities the importance of wilderness areas and parks grows.

In frontier days wildernesses were in surplus. That is no longer true.

President Lyndon B. Johnson has nothing more urgent before him than to prod Congress into passing emergency legislation to save the northern California redwood forests.

The redwoods are arrayed in a controversy with conservationists taking the position that they should not be destroyed and lumber interests and county officials opposing them. The county officials are concerned because taxable lands disappear when forests become part of state and national parks.

The nation cannot afford to lose the inspirational value of the giant redwoods. It's not just a loss for California.

Congress failed to act this year on legislation to establish Redwood National Park.

Virgin trees are being cut up for lumber.

President Johnson has asked Congress to enact emergency legislation to stop it until the controversy is settled. A lumber company has refused to accept compensation for quitting its cutting operations.

Congress must act quickly on the emergency legislation and it should create the proposed Redwood National Park next session without fail.

It could go one step further and save the trees in Redwood Creek Valley as well.

The increase in tourist travel to northern California will through the years offset any immediate loss of revenue to communities in the region.

The lumber industry can be compensated for the loss.

Only about 300,000 redwoods are left from approximately two million acres of the forested acres. Few of these are now in state parks.

The majesty of these trees, providing shade, magnificent scenery, opportunities for inspiration and meditation will be needed more in the years ahead as city dwellers seek to get away from the noise and clamor of the centers of population.

Tomorrow's heritage of natural beauty is more important than today's greed.

LOWER AIR FARES?

When it comes to conflict of interest and half - a - loaf compromise, an international disarmament conference can't hold a candle to a meeting of international air carriers. Money as well as national pride is at stake. Both will be very much in evidence when the International Air Transport Association meets in Honolulu, Monday, Sept. 12, to establish fare rates for the two years beginning April 1, 1967.

The U. S. Civil Aeronautics Board recently stated that fare reductions were "warranted and required in the public interest" on the North Atlantic, North and Central Pacific, and United States-Mexico routes. With regard to the heavily traveled North Atlantic route, C.A.B. called for "substantial cuts" in economy - class fares, extension of excursion rates to weekends, and lower fares for Europeans traveling to this country.

The C.A.B. no doubt will get considerably less than it is asking for. Airline industry officials expect that group flight fares may be trimmed somewhat, and that baggage restrictions may be eased, but they foresee no across - the - board fare slash. Although C.A.B. has the power to veto any fare agreement signed by American members of I.A.T.A., it probably would think twice before doing so. The 43-day airline strike, which ended Aug. 19, left a hole in the carriers' pockets that will take time to mend.

Nationalization of industry is as "out" as a short haircut in a European youth club.

Every "Socialist" premier in Northern Europe will tell you that -- just as they told me all along the line.

This was especially true after a few minutes' conversation with a newspaperman who really made good -- Prime Minister Rafael Paasio. The Helsinki sun and his laughter wove a good-humored pattern through the high-ceilinged office atop the Council of State Building as I asked him about Socialist governments and nationalization of industry.

"Socialization is not the Pearly Gates," said the mild mannered Premier, who manages daily to keep his government on the thin line between the unspoken pressures of the USSR and the old friendships with the U.S.

Socialization or nationalization are not solutions to problems. We don't think states should nationalize property for the sake of nationalizing or government ownership.

"We are interested in raising the standard of living of our people," the Prime Minister asserted during our hour long talk.

I reminded him, as I had other Social Democratic Premiers in the past few weeks, that he is a veteran Socialist, running a Socialist Party. And I asked what of the old Socialist preachings of Kautsky, Vandervelde and Scandinavian Socialist prime ministers of old.

Mr. Paasio looked past me onto the Square of the Senate -- which architecturally is the best preserved of all old Empire style structures (with a statue of Russian Czar Alexander II in the center).

"Dead men should not lead," said he, quoting an old Finnish political writer.

His attitude is a reflection of the new times. Virtually all the major and powerful Socialist parties of Europe have abandoned their principles of collectivization. They don't confuse the welfare state, as it is known back home, with Socialism. They know that only an efficient and free business community can make their country prosper.

Furthermore, here the government encourages competition. The Prime Minister and his aides, in office since last May, explained that only a handful of businesses are run by the government. Some are in the wood working and processing field -- such as pulp and lumber. Some in iron ore. But in each case the government went in because private capital was either inefficient or insufficient. In some cases the government and private industry are partners. In many instances, the government and private plants compete in the same field.

"We do very little thinking about nationalization," said the premier, who had once edited a small town newspaper. "There is some thought of taking over some insurance business and production of pharmaceuticals."

Apparently neither the three Communists in his cabinet, nor the Finnish Communists who have 41 seats in the 200-man Parliament, attempt to pressure the coalition government into socialization of Finland's commerce and industry. Such policies obviously have failed across the Soviet border. They have failed in Eastern Europe. They are being abandoned everywhere for capitalist pursuits. This is simplification. But any other analysis is falsification.

Everywhere, the Communists are trying to go "mod." Everywhere, and here, too, the younger radicals are weary of the outmoded Socialist slogans and interminable dialectic mouthings of Moscow's inflexible leaders.

They push their elders for new faces. They snicker at them. They laughed here when Gus Hall came recently and talked of an American Communist party and terminology long considered old hat in Finland.

I asked the prime minister whether the Kremlin pressures the freedom-loving Finns -- philosophically, militarily, or morally.

"They do not," he retorted. "We sleep well at night."

And then, as have all the other prime ministers, he spoke of his affection for the U.S. -- BUT expressed, in soft terms, his opposition to our policy in Viet Nam. He thought we should get out. But he knew not how.

"It's a matter of prestige," said he as we pirouetted around the issue of Southeast Asia.

After I left, I asked an aide if I could talk with the powerful Centrist Finnish president Urho Kekkonen. "Oh, he has gone hunting near Sotchi with Premier Kosygin," was the reply.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's Note: The brass ring good for one free ride on the Washington Merry - Go-Round today goes to President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines.)

WASHINGTON -- A lot of presidents, prime ministers, and potentates have visited the White House this year, but none more important than Ferdinand Marcos, President of the Philippines, first modern republic to emerge in Asia, a showcase of American democracy.

Here are the reasons for the importance of his visit:

1. The ties between the Philippines have begun to wear thin. No longer do Filipinos like being called a show - case of American democracy.

2. The Philippines have done a great job of education and reconstruction in various Asian countries, could do more. They can be of especial help in South Viet Nam.

3. The Philippines have become an important stabilizer for peace and against Communism in troubled Southeast Asia. With support and encouragement, they can do more.

MARCOS THE MAN

The man who will sit down President Johnson to discuss these matters is a handsome war hero whose family has been fighting Philippine battles for the past 75 years, and who himself once murdered the political enemy of his father.

His grandfather joined the anti - American Guerillas immediately after the Spanish-American war to try to upset American rule and was one of those who nearly killed my father - in - law, then a young lieutenant in the American army trying to subdue the jungles of the Philippines in the way we are now fighting in the jungles of Viet Nam. The American army never did succeed until General Aguinaldo, leader of the Guerillas, surrendered.

President Marcos has seen more than his share of fighting. He was wounded in Bataan, after Gen. Mac Arthur retreated there; captured by the Japanese, forced to join the Bataan death march; escaped twice and recaptured twice, severely tortured. Toward the end of the war he helped organize the Guerillas in Southern Luzon which made the landing of American forces there much easier. During the closing days of the war, he helped capture the Japanese commander, Gen. Yamishita, in the bitter battle of Besang Pass. Today, he holds 27 medals, the most decorated Filipino soldier of World War II.

In his previous civilian attack on his father's political rival, Nalundasa, Marcos was convicted of murder, appealed his case; and by studying law in prison, won his release from the supreme court.

Perhaps because he understands war, Marcos, when campaigning for President, was against Philippine participation in Viet Nam, even though his country is a member of the SEATO Alliance.

But after becoming President, Marcos switched, has now sent a 2,000-man engineering battalion to South Viet Nam to rebuild and improve villages.

It was the civil action program in Philippine villages under Gen. Edward Lansdale which did so much to cut the ground out from under the HUK Communist movement. Lansdale has tried to duplicate this in Viet Nam.

UNREST IN PHILIPPINES

President Marcos' shift of policy has caused a lot of criticism n the Philippines. He put it very frankly in a private letter to President Johnson, Aug. 9, in which he accepted LBJ's invitation to come to Washington.

"There has been a noticeable resurgence of subversive activities since the Philippine government decided to send to Viet Nam a Philippine civic action group with security troops," President Marcos wrote Johnson.

"My administration has instituted a massive campaign of land reform directed at the heartland of subversion, designed to convert big feudalistic landed estates into small landholdings for the benefit of tenants and small farmers."

Few countries are better qualified to help bring peaceful democracy to Asia. Some years ago, while in Afghanistan, I visited a civil aviation school conducted by Filipinos under an American aid program to teach Afghans modern airport management. Because of color prejudice, Filipinos were able to do a much better job than white Americans.

This is also true in South Viet Nam.

President Marcos is fully aware of the fact that his country has a long way to go in eradicating poverty, improving its schools, and stamping out graft. Corruption is just as rampant as in South Viet Nam. And with over 7,000 islands in the Philippines, it is relatively easy for smugglers to unload anything from cigarettes to automobiles without paying duty. Half of the government's revenue is lost in this way.

President Marcos has begun to crack down on this, is determined to wipe out bribetaking by government officials and legislators. He also has some arguments to settle with Johnson regarding the 500,000 acres of military property held by the United States under a 99-year lease.

But, compared with the first time I visited the Philippines, in 1922 when it was an American Colony under the stern command of Gen. Leonard Wood, the Republic of the Philippines has become a proud, vigorous, and successful example of self - government in an area where self - government is precarious indeed.

NEW TEAM FOR STATE DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON -- After a great deal of searching, President Johnson has now found the no. 2 man for the state department, Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, former sugar refining executive who turned diplomat 15 years ago and has established a remarkable career in diplomacy ever since.

The post he will fill, Undersecretary of State, is one of the most important in government, partly because it has been so well filled by George Ball, retiring Undersecretary, partly because the job of backstopping the Secretary of State in the present complicated state of world affairs has become almost as important as that of secretary.

For the no. 3 post in the state department, Deputy Undersecretary for Economic Affairs, Johnson has tentatively selected Lucius Battle, longtime able state department official whose latest post has been Ambassador to the United Arab Republic.

Ambassador Bunker's latest job has been that of unsnarling the complicated Dominican Republic mess, one of the most difficult in the Western Hemisphere, which required consummate skill and tact and which he finally succeeded in doing.

There has been some hesitancy about picking Bunker for the exhausting job of Undersecretary of State because he is 72 years old. However, the manner in which he worked night and day to solve the Dominican crisis convinced the President that he could outwork a much younger man.

YALE AND DIPLOMACY

Bunker first came upon the diplomatic scene through the happenstance of having attended Yale, one class behind Dean Acheson, (1916) who when he became Secretary of State picked Bunker in 1951 to be Ambassador to Argentina, at that time giving trouble because of the anti - American policies of Dictator Peron.

Bunker went from Buenos Aires to Rome. And when the Eisenhower administration took over, was picked by Ike to head the American Red Cross. Bunker has spent his life in private business, having started in sugar refining in 1927, and worked his way up to be chairman of the National Sugar Refining Company.

It is unusual for a Republican administration to recognize the abilities of a political ambassador, and Bunker was clearly stamped as a Truman appointee. However, other diplomats were impressed with Bunker's ability and recommended to John Foster Dulles that he be made Ambassador to India, where he did a suberb job for five difficult years. He was then given an even more difficult job --- mediator of the new Guinea dispute between Indonesia and the Netherlands.

By this time Bunker was considered the most valuable trouble - shooter in the state department, and he was appointed Ambassador to the Organization of American States, an assignment which took him to the Dominican Republic.

Bunker is a native New Yorker, has also served as a director of the Curtis Publishing Company, the Lambert International Corporation, and several insurance companies.

BATTLE'S CAREER

Lucius Battle was born in Dawson, Ga. in 1918, educated at the University of Florida, 1939, became a resident of Virginia where he served on the commission for the restoration of Williamsburg, and as one of the Virginia campaign managers for the late John F. Kennedy in the 1960 election.

Battle had come to know Kennedy in the navy in World War II, and, after his election, Kennedy appointed him Assistant Secretary of State in charge of education and cultural affairs. Battle had served in the state department previously as a career diplomat, having acquired experience in NATO, at the American Embassies in Paris and Copenhagen, and a special assistant to secretaries Acheson and Rusk.

Johnson appointed Battle Ambassador to Cairo in 1964. He is 48 years old.

Irene Ann Bowan Says Vows With Charles Brown

LILBOURN- Miss Irene Ann Bowan and Charles Franklin Brown were married at the Methodist church Friday at 8 p.m. by the Rev. Claude Stone, Jr., pastor of the church.

Mickey Hendricks, New Madrid, was best man and Miss Rosemary Martin, Doniphan, as maid of honor. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The new Mrs. Brown is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bowan. She is a graduate of Lilbourn high school. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tinsley Brown, New Madrid.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in fellowship hall of the church, after which the couple left for a trip to points of interest in western Tennessee.

The couple will live in New Madrid where Brown is employed by a motor firm.

Keglers Korner

By Hildred Poole

Hello! Things have gotten off to a slow start this year, as far as the reports getting to me concerning the different leagues. Secretaries will have to give me the reports before I can put them in this column.

IMPERIAL ETTS

Kroger 4 -- Crown 0; Global Finance 1; A & B 3-- L & A 1; Belltones 2 -- Progressive 2.

High game was rolled by Mildred Cockrell and high series was rolled by Jessie Young. The high game was 185 and series was 486. Good shooting gals.

The only two splits that I saw picked up were; the 5-8-10 picked up by Pat Happe and the 3-9-10 picked up by Nelda Hogde.

ROYAL KEGLERS

Janie Shell really got her ball rolling and bowled high game of 236. This is 97 pins over her last year's average and that is really firing that ball. Janie I sure do need some pointers this year. How about some help? Jean Lee also rolled high series of 568. This gal never quits. She just keeps pounding that ball into the pocket and comes out on top.

League standings for this league are Liberty Super Market 7-1; Busch Bavarian 6-2; C. D. Alcorn Agency 5½-2½; Bank of Sikeston 5-5; Malone and Hyde 4 1/2 - 5 1/2; Holyfield Flying service 4-6; Mutual of Omaha 4-6; Lewis Furniture Co. 3-5; First National Bank 3-5; Ferrell Rental Equipment Co. 3-5; General Oil Co. 2-6; Wades Body Shop 1-7. This league has expanded to a 12-team league and I understand they are really enjoying the larger league.

No column would be complete at this time with out at least a brief mention of Pop Ziegenhorn. Pop was at the lanes a great deal and no one enjoyed bowling any more than he did. We'll all miss him!

Mrs. Rhein to Instruct Hat Class Oct. 13

NEW MADRID - On Oct. 13, at the community building, members of the extension clubs in New Madrid county will have the opportunity to attend a hat-making class.

Mrs. Albert Am Rhein, of Hopedale, Ill., will be the instructor. She writes:

"With the sounds of autumn in the air, milady's attention is turned toward the new trend in fall millinery. The pill box and variations are always in vogue. The 'travel and packable' is convenient as well as dynamically good looking. Off-face hats, naturally in the young look, feature such colors as purple, plum, bright green, brown, and all beiges. Velours and jewel-tone velvets are favorite fabrics, and are often accompanied with maline and velvet tubing. Of course, as always for fall, there will be all colors and designs of feathers, and sometimes hats feature veils, flowers, and various types and colors of leaves."

Ticket sales must be reported and money sent to Mrs. Paul Trout, Kewanee, by Tuesday, since the size of the class is limited, and if club members do not fill the quota, outsiders may attend. The morning session will start at 9:30 a.m. A list of items to bring is printed on the back of the tickets.

Mrs. Smith Is Honored At Shower

MOREHOUSE - The home of Mrs. Lucian Appleton was the scene of a wedding shower honoring Mrs. Gary Don Smith, Sept. 2.

The bride's colors of blue and pink were carried out.

Irene Ann Bowan Says Vows With Charles Brown

LILBOURN- Miss Irene Ann Bowan and Charles Franklin Brown were married at the Methodist church Friday at 8 p.m. by the Rev. Claude Stone, Jr., pastor of the church.

Mickey Hendricks, New Madrid, was best man and Miss Rosemary Martin, Doniphan, as maid of honor. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The new Mrs. Brown is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bowan. She is a graduate of Lilbourn high school. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tinsley Brown, New Madrid.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in fellowship hall of the church, after which the couple left for a trip to points of interest in western Tennessee.

The couple will live in New Madrid where Brown is employed by a motor firm.

Keglers Korner

By Hildred Poole

Hello! Things have gotten off to a slow start this year, as far as the reports getting to me concerning the different leagues. Secretaries will have to give me the reports before I can put them in this column.

IMPERIALETTS

Kroger 4 -- Crown 0; Global Finance 1; A & B 3-- L & A 1; Belltones 2 -- Progressive 2.

High game was rolled by Mildred Cockrell and high series was rolled by Jessie Young. The high game was 185 and series was 486. Good shooting gals.

The only two splits that I saw picked up were; the 5-8-10 picked up by Pat Happe and the 3-9-10 picked up by Nelda Hogde.

ROYAL KEGLERS

Janie Shell really got her ball rolling and bowled high game of 236. This is 97 pins over her last year's average and that is really firing that ball. Janie I sure do need some pointers this year. How about some help? Jean Lee also rolled high series of 568. This gal never quits. She just keeps pounding that ball into the pocket and comes out on top.

League standings for this league are Liberty Super Market 7-1; Busch Bavarian 6-2; C. D. Alcorn Agency 5½-2½; Bank of Sikeston 5-5; Malone and Hyde 4 1/2 - 5 1/2; Holyfield Flying service 4-6; Mutual of Omaha 4-6; Lewis Furniture Co. 3-5; First National Bank 3-5; Ferrell Rental Equipment Co. 3-5; General Oil Co. 2-6; Wades Body Shop 1-7. This league has expanded to a 12-team league and I understand they are really enjoying the larger league.

No column would be complete at this time with out at least a brief mention of Pop Ziegenhorn. Pop was at the lanes a great deal and no one enjoyed bowling any more than he did. We'll all miss him!

Mrs. Rhein to Instruct Hat Class Oct. 13

NEW MADRID - On Oct. 13, at the community building, members of the extension clubs in New Madrid county will have the opportunity to attend a hat-making class.

Mrs. Albert Am Rhein, of Hopedale, Ill., will be the instructor. She writes:

"With the sounds of autumn in the air, milady's attention is turned toward the new trend in fall millinery. The pill box and variations are always in vogue. The 'travel and packable' is convenient as well as dynamically good looking. Off-face hats, naturally in the young look, feature such colors as purple, plum, bright green, brown, and all beiges. Velours and jewel-tone velvets are favorite fabrics, and are often accompanied with maline and velvet tubing. Of course, as always for fall, there will be all colors and designs of feathers, and sometimes hats feature veils, flowers, and various types and colors of leaves."

Ticket sales must be reported and money sent to Mrs. Paul Trout, Kewanee, by Tuesday, since the size of the class is limited, and if club members do not fill the quota, outsiders may attend. The morning session will start at 9:30 a.m. A list of items to bring is printed on the back of the tickets.

Flood Collects Two RBI's In Eighth For 3-2 Cardinal Victory

Curt Flood's eighth inning double drove in two Cardinal teammates for a 3-2 St. Louis victory over Cincinnati. It was the first time St. Louis has defeated the Reds in their last eight games.

Cincinnati led twice before Flood's double settle the issue. Deron Johnson doubled in the Reds first run in the fourth and hit his 24th homer of the season in the seventh.

The Cards got their first run in the fifth on Orlando Cepeda's single, a walk and Ed Spiezio's single.

Larry Jaster won his 10th against five losses.

Roger Repoz slammed a two-run homer in the 15th inning Tuesday night to break up a 1-1 standoff between Kansas City and Cleveland and give the A's a 3-1 victory.

Kansas City's first run in the second inning at Cleveland also came off the bat of Repoz. Ed Charles doubled, moved to third on an infield out and scored on Repoz' roller to second.

The Indians tied it in the eighth on Fred Whitfield's lead-off homer.

There were a number of missed scoring opportunities as the A's stranded six men and Cleveland left nine on base. Each team got 9 hits, but they were well scattered by A's starter Paul Lindblad and the Indians Steve Hargan.

Lindblad went eight and two-thirds innings and allowed 7 hits while Hargan went 13 innings and gave up only 5 hits.

Jack Aker was the winner. He pitched the last three innings and was touched for one hit. It was his seventh victory against four losses. The loss went to Rookie Ray Culver in relief.

Kansas City has now won five straight and trails sixth place Cleveland in the American League standing by five games.

John Odom will try to extend the string to six tonight against the Indians and Sam McDowell.

Ray Washburn will start for the Cardinals tonight in Busch Memorial Stadium and Milt Pappas will be on the mound for Cincinnati.

Franks Awarded One Year Contract

SAN FRANCISCO AP - Herman Franks has signed a third one-year contract to manage the San Francisco Giants, fighting now for the National League pennant.

"We all think he has done a splendid job," announced club owner Horace Stoneham Tuesday. "There was no question he would be rehired."

Terms were not announced. But it was believed Franks, 51, will get $50,000 for leading the club in 1967.

BATTING - Lou Johnson, Dodgers, drove in four runs with two homers as Los Angeles crushed the New York Mets 8-3 and maintained their 1 1/2-game lead in the National League.

PITCHING - Juan Marichal, Giants, scattered seven hits for his 22nd victory as San Francisco downed Philadelphia 7-2.

Roland Named By AP

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Roland wasn't even a starter last Sunday when the St. Louis Cardinals played the Philadelphia Eagles. He didn't play in the first half, except to run back a punt for 11 yards.

But when Charley Winner, new Cardinal coach, cut him loose in the second half, he helped St. Louis turn a 10-3 deficit into a 16-13 victory. Johnny will start from now on.

Because of his inspired performance under pressure, The Associated Press has selected the Missouri rookie halfback as the Offensive Player of the Week in national Football League.

Roland ran for first downs three times after he entered the game. He rushed eight times for 53 yards, caught two passes for 40 yards, returned two kicksoffs for 50 yards and brought back two punts for 16 yards. For his first day one the job—even if it was a half day —he contributed 159 yards to total offense.

"I thought about starting Roland earlier in the week," Winner said. "But I decided to go with experience. I went to him in the second half because he's an opportunist. He reminds me of Paul Hornung in that he makes the most of what he has."

Roland, who played defense last year at Missouri to plug a need, has become a prime favorite with Card fans, He grabbed a deflected pass for a 37-yard gainer on a third-and-33 situation. The catch, after Joe Scarpati of Philadelphia and Sonny Randle of the Cards collided and both touched the ball, set up the go-ahead TD for a 13-10 lead, in the final period.

Jim Bakken's 27-yard field goal finally won the game in the last five seconds.

Bart Starr of Green Bay scored a touchdown on an improvised eight-yard run out of the passing pocket and mixed his plays well in a 24-3 romp over Baltimore.

Starr completed 14 of 19 for 138 yards and also ran three times for 36 yards. Jim Taylor also sparkled for Green Bay on offense by rushing 16 times for 76 yards.

Bill Brown of Minnesota took out after the running title vacated by Jim Brown when he carried 16 times for 99 yards in the Vikings' 20-20 tie with San Francisco. Fred Cox tied it with a 31-yard field goal into the wind with six seconds to go.

Homer Jones, the New York Giants' fleet spread end, scored twice at Pittsburgh on pass plays from Earl Morrall that covered 75 and 98 yards. He caught only two all day in the 34-34 tie, but they added up to 173 yards.

TONY OLIVA, left, of the Minnesota Twins has been the American League batting champion for two years in a row and he'd like to make it three. Baltimore's Frank Robinson has other ideas. The two are running neck and neck for the batting title with Robinson having a chance to win the triple crown—the batting, runs batted in and home run championships.

MIAA Football

Ivan Schottel's fourth and most experienced Maryville State team and always-tough Springfield State are ready to strongly challenge — and possibly end — Kirksville State's supremacy in MIAA football this fall.

Coach Red Wade at Kirksville calls it a rebuilding year, although he has a talented nucleus in quarterback Rick Goyzynski, end John Newcomb and fleet halfback Sharron Washington, all three first team All-MIAA last year. Washington led the league with 949 yards rushing and 96 points.

Wade's line is thin in experience and he must rebuild the defensive secondary, but the Bulldogs won't give up the title easily.

Schottel has 29 lettermen and two straight 6-3 seasons. Prior to 1964, Maryville had only one winning season in 11 years. Schottel has experience gaps in some key positions, but the potential is there.

At Springfield, Jim Mentis has Pat Hogan, all-league fullback, several good linemen, some good transfers, and Ardie McCoy, an outstanding sophomore halfback. Springfield was runner up in 1965.

Kenneth Knox at Cape Girardeau State has 24 lettermen and believes his team could be improved if it can avoid the 1965 injury troubles. Warrensburg State, under new coach, Howard Mahanes, could be a dark-horse.

Coach Dewey Allgood of the University of Missouri at Rolla is rebuilding after losing eight starters through grades or transfers.

Mike Corbett, a good passer, may become the quarterback Schottel needs for split end Bob Albanese, an all-league choice who grabbed 37 passes for 556 yards last year.

Maryville's top runner is Jim Blankenship, with 747 yards in '65.

Mahanes takes over at Warrenburg with a 68-16-2 career record at Galena (Kan.) High School and Fort Scott (Kan.) Junior College.

His 23 lettermen include passer John Repp and receiver Keith Browne.

Cape's key man could be quarterback Greg Brune. Allgood is counting heavily at Rolla on quarterback Ronnie Lewis, who threw for 1,006 yards last year, and halfback Richard Erxleben, who ran for 467.

The opening schedule Saturday has Kirksville at Western Illinois, Pittsburg State at Warrensburg, Maryville at Drake, Cape Girardeau at Northeast Louisiana, Emporia State at Springfield, and Rolla at Harding of Searcy, Ark.

To many sport fishermen, the thought of a cane pole is akin to the feeling of an opera fan when subjected to a session of "rock and roll" music.

However, when considered in terms of popularity, the cane pole probably draws as many admirers in the fishing world as the rock-and-roll crowd does among music lovers.

The cane pole deserves a better reputation than it generally receives, claim the fishing experts. Besides being the best angling tool for toddlers, this unadorned chunk of Calcutta can produce fish under the most difficult situations when wielded with a knowing hand.

The cane pole artist must, of course, exercise his talents in a radius limited to about two times the length of his pole. But within this area he can achieve perfect casting control and handle the lure with a delicacy and precision that eludes many other fishermen.

The cane poler can plop a plug or dangle a fly with unmatched accuracy. If a toss goes slightly astray it can be yanked back without touching the water and the error erased. Retrieves can be zigzaged over a wide area with a tantalizing flourish. Dappling the surface with the lure is another cane pole technique nearly impossible to duplicate with other tackle.

Cane pole fishing is far more than just boobers and worms, so give it another look, or perhaps even give it a try. You might start catching fish in those difficult places you formerly had to pass up, and that alone makes a good "case" for "cane."

Statistics Can Be Misleading

NEW YORK (AP) — Statistics can be misleading. The first crop of team figures for the National Football League emphasize the point.

The Chicago Bears are best on defense, according to the yardage tale, yielding only 208 yards in their opener. But they lost to Detroit 14-3.

Pittsburgh was No. 1 against the running game, holding New York to 32 yards. They just got out with a 34-34 tie.

San Francisco was the top performer on pass defense, allowing Minnesota only 72 yards. Still, the 49ers wound up in a 20-20 tie with the Vikings.

Look at the figures for team offense.

Los Angeles had the best over-all attack with 421 yards. They managed to sneak through against the new expansion team from Atlanta, 19-14, but they did it with four field goals.

The Vikings, shot down in the air, were the leading rushers with 226 yards in their 20-20 tie with the 49ers.

Los Angeles also showed the way in passing offense with 275 yards, but Roman Gabriel's 21 of 35 produced only one touchdown in that 19-14 victory.

Individual offensive leaders for the first week were Bill Brown of Minnesota with 99 yards on 16 carries to top the rushers and Tommy McDonald of Los Angeles with nine catches for 114 yards and No. 1 place among the receivers.

Bill Nelsen of Pittsburgh was rated first among the passers in the complicated rating system used by the NFL.

Flood Collects Two RBI's In Eighth For 3-2 Cardinal Victory

Curt Flood's eighth inning double drove in two Cardinal teammates for a 3-2 St. Louis victory over Cincinnati. It was the first time St. Louis has defeated the Reds in their last eight games.

Cincinnati led twice before Flood's double settle the issue. Deron Johnson doubled in the Reds first run in the fourth and hit his 24th homer of the season in the seventh.

The Cards got their first run in the fifth on Orlando Cepeda's single, a walk and Ed Spiezio's single.

Larry Jaster won his 10th against five losses.

Roger Repoz slammed a two-run homer in the 15th inning Tuesday night to break up a 1-1 standoff between Kansas City and Cleveland and give the A's a 3-1 victory.

Kansas City's first run in the second inning at Cleveland also came off the bat of Repoz. Ed Charles doubled, moved to third on an infield out and scored on Repoz' roller to second.

The Indians tied it in the eighth on Fred Whitfield's lead-off homer.

There were a number of missed scoring opportunities as the A's stranded six men and Cleveland left nine on base. Each team got 9-hits, but they were well scattered by A's starter Paul Lindblad and the Indians Steve Hargan.

Lindblad went eight and two-thirds innings and allowed 7-hits while Hargan went 13 innings and gave up only 5-hits.

Jack Aker was the winner. He pitched the last three innings and was touched for one hit. It was his seventh victory against four losses. The loss went to Rookie Ray Culver in relief.

Kansas City has now won five straight and trails sixth place Cleveland in the American League standing by five games.

John Odom will try to extend the string to six tonight against the Indians and Sam McDowell.

Ray Washburn will start for the Cardinals tonight in Busch Memorial Stadium and Milt Pappas will be on the mound for Cincinnati.

Franks Awarded One Year Contract

SAN FRANCISCO AP - Herman Franks has signed a third one-year contract to manage the San Francisco Giants, fighting now for the National League pennant.

"We all think he has done a splendid job," announced club owner Horace Stoneham Tuesday. "There was no question he would be rehired."

Terms were not announced. But it was believed Franks, 51, will get $50,000 for leading the club in 1967.

BATTING - Lou Johnson, Dodgers, drove in four runs with two homers as Los Angeles crushed the New York Mets 8-3 and maintained their 1 1/2-game lead in the National League.

PITCHING - Juan Marichal, Giants, scattered seven hits for his 22nd victory as San Francisco downed Philadelphia 7-2.

Roland Named By AP

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Roland wasn't even a starter last Sunday when the St. Louis Cardinals played the Philadelphia Eagles. He didn't play in the first half, except to run back a punt for 11 yards.

But when Charley Winner, new Cardinal coach, cut him loose in the second half, he helped St. Louis turn a 10-3 deficit into a 16-13 victory. Johnny will start from now on.

Because of his inspired performance under pressure, The Associated Press has selected the Missouri rookie halfback as the Offensive Player of the Week in national Football League.

Roland ran for first downs three times after he entered the game. He rushed eight times for 53 yards, caught two passes for 40 yards, returned two kicksoffs for 50 yards and brought back two punts for 16 yards. For his first day one the job—even if it League.

Roland ran for first downs three times after he entered the game. He rushed eight times for 53 yards, caught two passes for 40 yards, returned two kicksoffs for 50 yards and brought back two punts for 16 yards. For his first day one the job—even if it was a half day —he contributed 159 yards to total offense.

"I thought about starting Roland earlier in the week," Winner said. "But I decided to go with experience. I went to him in the second half because he's an opportunist. He reminds me of Paul Hornung in that he makes the most of what he has."

Roland, who played defense last year at Missouri to plug a need, has become a prime favorite with Card fans, He grabbed a deflected pass for a 37-yard gainer on a third-and-33 situation. The catch, after Joe Scarpati of Philadelphia and Sonny Randle of the Cards collided and both touched the ball, set up the go-ahead TD for a 13-10 lead, in the final period.

Jim Bakken's 27-yard field goal finally won the game in the last five seconds.

Bart Starr of Green Bay scored a touchdown on an improvised eight-yard run out of the passing pocket and mixed his plays well in a 24-3 romp over Baltimore.

Starr completed 14 of 19 for 138 yards and also ran three times for 36 yards. Jim Taylor also sparkled for Green Bay on offense by rushing 16 times for 76 yards.

Bill Brown of Minnesota took out after the running title vacated by Jim Brown when he carried 16 times for 99 yards in the Vikings' 20-20 tie with San Francisco. Fred Cox tied it with a 31-yard field goal into the wind with six seconds to go.

Homer Jones, the New York Giants' fleet spread end, scored twice at Pittsburgh on pass plays from Earl Morrall that covered 75 and 98 yards. He caught only two all day in the 34-34 tie, but they added up to 173 yards.

TONY OLIVA, left, of the Minnesota Twins has been the American League batting champion for two years in a row and he'd like to make it three. Baltimore's Frank Robinson has other ideas. The two are running neck and neck for the batting title with Robinson having a chance to win the triple crown—the batting, runs batted in and home run championships.

MIAA Football

Ivan Schottel's fourth and most experienced Maryville State team and always-tough Springfield State are ready to strongly challenge — and possibly end — Kirksville State's supremacy in MIAA football this fall.

Coach Red Wade at Kirksville calls it a rebuilding year, although he has a talented nucleus in quarterback Rick Goyzynski, end John Newcomb and fleet halfback Sharron Washington, all three first team All-MIAA last year. Washington led the league with 949 yards rushing and 96 points.

Wade's line is thin in experience and he must rebuild the defensive secondary, but the Bulldogs won't give up the title easily.

Schottel has 29 lettermen and two straight 6-3 seasons. Prior to 1964, Maryville had only one winning season in 11 years. Schottel has experience gaps in some key positions, but the potential is there.

At Springfield, Jim Mentis has Pat Hogan, all-league fullback, several good linemen, some good transfers, and Ardie McCoy, an outstanding sophomore halfback. Springfield was runner up in 1965.

Kenneth Knox at Cape Girardeau State has 24 lettermen and believes his team could be improved if it can avoid the 1965 injury troubles. Warrensburg State, under new coach, Howard Mahanes, could be a dark-horse.

Coach Dewey Allgood of the University of Missouri at Rolla is rebuilding after losing eight starters through grades or transfers.

Mike Corbett, a good passer, may become the quarterback Schottel needs for split end Bob Albanese, an all-league choice who grabbed 37 passes for 556 yards last year.

Maryville's top runner is Jim Blankenship, with 747 yards in '65.

Mahanes takes over at Warrenburg with a 68-16-2 career record at Galena (Kan.) High School and Fort Scott (Kan.) Junior College.

His 23 lettermen include passer John Repp and receiver Keith Browne.

Cape's key man could be quarterback Greg Brune. Allgood is counting heavily at Rolla on quarterback Ronnie Lewis, who threw for 1,006 yards last year, and halfback Richard Erxleben, who ran for 467.

The opening schedule Saturday has Kirksville at Western Illinois, Pittsburg State at Warrensburg, Maryville at Drake, Cape Girardeau at Northeast Louisiana, Emporia State at Springfield, and Rolla at Harding of Searcy, Ark.

Oscar Derby Heading Into Home Stretch

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This is the season when the leaves start to golden and the swallows bug out of Capistrano. It also marks the beginning of the home stretch in the Oscar derby.

It is shaping up as a lively race, one of the best in years if the prestigious autumn releases fulfill their promise.

The pace was set earlier this year by "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" which had the shock value and dramatic power to nominate itself immediately, and in all departments.

The film may produce the oddity of having all four players nominated in the four acting categories: Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton as stars and Sandy Dennis and George Segal as support. The Burtons conceivably could win history's first "his" and "hers" Oscars.

Little else that has been released earlier in the year seems to be in top contention. Alan Arkin made an impressive debut in "The Russians are Coming etc." and could be nominated. There are nomination chances in various categories for "Khartoum," "Fantastic Voyage" (effects), "Alfie," "The Blue Max" and "Harper."

The blockbusters are yet to come, and they will be jamming Los Angeles theaters in December to make the Academy deadline.

Fox has two big ones on the way. "The Bible" is likely to create a stir, both for its direction by John Huston and in various performances, although the episodic nature of the film could mitigate against the latter.

Robert Wise, a two-time winner with "West Side Story" and "Sound of Music," is rushing the completion of his $11-million "The Sand Pebbles" to make the deadline. Also from Fox: "Hombre," a Paul Newman Western.

Julie Andrews, nominated twice in a row, could make it a third with the epic "Hawaii." The United Artists film is a possibility for best picture honors, as well as for the acting of Max Von Sydow. United Artists also has hopes for Zero Mostel in "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum." And Walter Matthau in "The Fortune Cookie."

Columbia has three big ones on the way: Richard Brooks' "The Professionals" with Burt Lancaster, Lee Marvin, etc.; Fred Zinnemann's "A Man for All Seasons" with Paul Scofield; and the Peter O'Toole-Omar Sharif film, "Night of the Generals."

Other studios appear to be placing their chances on single releases. Paramount has the multistar "Is Paris Burning?"

MGM is planning a late release of the racing adventure, "Grand Prix." Universal's prestige item is "Fahrenheit 451," Francois Truffaut's first film in English.

Fischer Quints Mark Third Birthday

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP) - The Fischer quintuplets celebrate their third birthday today - but their party will be out of the public eye.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fischer, try to keep the quints away from gawkers. Residents of Aberdeen, their hometown, see them only infrequently, generally when they ride by in the family station wagon.

Friends say the quints talk a lot. Jimmy, the biggest, reportedly does the most chatting. His sisters are Cathy, Margie, Mary Ann and Maggie.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

THE PIZZA TASTE is an ever-fascinating one. It can be dressed up in many new ways such as this Pizza Rice Pie. The crust is a savory rice mixture. The topping is convenient, canned tomato sauce with cheese and many of the pizza "standards" -- oregano, basil, Mozzarella cheese, pepperoni and stuffed olives. Serve with a green salad and fresh fruit.

Pizza Rice Pie Wins Cook 'Bravos'

All the world loves the pizza flavor which is a heady blend of tomato, Italian spices, herbs and cheeses. As long as the topping keeps its same gusto, the cook can change the crust for welcome variety. Why not a rice crust?

The answer is a hearty "yeah" after you've tasted this "Pizza Rice Pie." Cooked rice, onion, eggs and butter are pressed into a regular pizza pan and partially baked. Then the convenient seasoner, canned tomato sauce with cheese, is poured right from the can over the rice crust. Herbs, cheese, meat and olives go on in quick order. Pop into the oven. In less than 30 minutes you have a main dish that will inspire "bravos."

With the rice pizza pie serve a green salad with oil and vinegar dressing, and fruit for dessert.

PIZZA RICE PIE

2-2/3 cups cooked rice
1/3 cup minced onion
2 eggs, beaten
3 Tablesp. melted butter or margarine
1 (8-oz.) can tomato sauce with cheese
1/4 teasp. oregano
1/4 teasp. basil
1 cup shredded Mozzarella cheese
1 (4-1/2 oz.) package sliced pepperoni
1/2 cup sliced stuffed olives

Mix together rice, onion, eggs and melted butter. Line a 12-inch pizza pan with rice mixture and bake 12 minutes at 50 degrees F. until set. Spread tomato sauce with cheese over rice crust. Sprinkle with oregano, basil and shredded cheese. Top with pepperoni and olives. Bake at 350 degrees F., 20 to 25 minutes before serving. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

Washington Report

FOREIGN AID AUTHORIZATION

There is increased apprehension about the size and method of handling of the Foreign Aid Program. This is combined with a steady loss of gold by this country to foreign countries as a result of our continuing unfavorable balance of payments. These apprehensions were reflected by the vote which gave Senate approval to the conference report authorizing $3.5 billion for the foreign assistance program in the fiscal year 1967, which was passed by a remarkably small majority, 33-25.

The Senate voted separate authorizations for military and economic assistance and authorized $2.06 billion for economic assistance, $792 million for the military aid program.

The House of Representatives combined them, however, and because of this, plus the fact the House obtained in conference $731 million more than had been authorized by the Senate, I voted against the bill.

There were 98 points of difference between the Senate and the House of Representatives compromised in the conference. The House and Senate having both approved, the bill is cleared for the President's signature.

CIVIL RIGHTS

Following the Labor Day recess, the Senate began what is expected to be a lengthy debate on the Civil Rights Act of 1966 as passed by the House of Representatives.

The five major titles of the bill deal respectively with: Selection of federal juries; discrimination in state jury selection; preventive court relief against threatened violations of civil rights of individuals; discrimination in the sale or rental of housing by those in the business of developing, selling or renting houses; and federal punishment for forceful interference with a person lawfully engaged in certain federally protected activities such as voting or enrolling in public schools.

PAMPHLET AVAILABLE

"How to Sell Your Products to the Defense Personnel Support Center" is the title of a new publication by the Defense Supply Agency. The pamphlet describes the types of items purchased and how they may be sold to the Center.

My office has a limited supply of the publication, and it is available upon request by writing to 229 Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C.

ZIP CODE WEEK

The week of October 15 to 20 will be observed as National Zip Code Week in 302 major cities throughout the country, according to a recent announcement by the Post Office Department. During this week, postmasters will cooperate with local business, civic and educational leaders in fitting Zip Code promotional projects into the pattern of community activities.

The Missouri cities participating in Zip Code Week include Independence, Kansas City, St. Joseph, St. Louis, and Springfield.

Zip Codes become mandatory for all second and third class volume mailers beginning January 1, 1967.

'Has-Been' Debbie Enrolls at Kansas U.

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) - "I'm just a has-been," Debbie Bryant said Monday as she enrolled at the University of Kansas.

Debbie was a year late getting enrolled. She toured the country last year as Miss America. Her reign ended Saturday night with the crowning of her successor, Jane Jayroe, Miss Oklahoma.

A transfer from Christian College in Columbia, Mo., Debbie will be a resident counselor in a freshman dormitory at Kansas, a rare post for a girl who has not attended the university before.

When the Overland Park, Kan. native arrived on campus here, a dozen boys volunteered to carry her luggage. One said it would be an honor to carry Miss America's luggage.

That prompted Debbie to say: "I'm not Miss America any more. I'm just a has-been."

LONDON (AP) - The Anglican Bishop of London, Dr. Robert Stopford, will lay the cornerstone of the Winston Churchill Chapel at Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., next month.

It was in Fulton, on March 5, 1956, that Sir Winston made his famous "Iron Curtain" speech.

The chapel will be built around the shell of the Church of St. Mary Aldermanbury, designed by the famous 17th century architect-Sir Christopher Wren-which was bombed so badly in World War II that only its walls and interior columns survived.

The shell has abeen reerected as an American tribute to Church.

Bishop Stopford and his wife will leave London Sept. 30 for a 10-day visit to the United States.

Oscar Derby Heading Into Home Stretch

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This is the season when the leaves start to golden and the swallows bug out of Capistrano. It also marks the beginning of the home stretch in the Oscar derby.

It is shaping up as a lively race, one of the best in years if the prestigious autumn releases fulfill their promise.

The pace was set earlier this year by "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" which had the shock value and dramatic power to nominate itself immediately, and in all departments.

The film may produce the oddity of having all four players nominated in the four acting categories: Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton as stars and Sandy Dennis and George Segal as support. The Burtons conceivably could win history's first "his" and "hers" Oscars.

Little else that has been released earlier in the year seems to be in top contention. Alan Arkin made an impressive debut in "The Russians are Coming etc." and could be nominated. There are nomination chances in various categories for "Khartoum," "Fantastic Voyage" (effects), "Alfie," "The Blue Max" and "Harper."

The blockbusters are yet to come, and they will be jamming Los Angeles theaters in December to make the Academy deadline.

Fox has two big ones on the way. "The Bible" is likely to create a stir, both for its direction by John Huston and in various performances, although the episodic nature of the film could mitigate against the latter.

Robert Wise, a two-time winner with "West Side Story" and "Sound of Music," is rushing the completion of his $11-million "The Sand Pebbles" to make the deadline. Also from Fox: "Hombre," a Paul Newman Western.

Julie Andrews, nominated twice in a row, could make it a third with the epic "Hawaii." The United Artists film is a possibility for best picture honors, as well as for the acting of Max Von Sydow. United Artists also has hopes for Zero Mostel in "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum." And Walter Matthau in "The Fortune Cookie."

Columbia has three big ones on the way: Richard Brooks' "The Professionals" with Burt Lancaster, Lee Marvin, etc.; Fred Zinnemann's "A Man for All Seasons" with Paul Scofield; and the Peter O'Toole-Omar Sharif film, "Night of the Generals."

Other studios appear to be placing their chances on single releases. Paramount has the multistar "Is Paris Burning?"

MGM is planning a late release of the racing adventure, "Grand Prix." Universal's prestige item is "Fahrenheit 451," Francois Truffaut's first film in English.

Fischer Quints Mark Third Birthday

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP) - The Fischer quintuplets celebrate their third birthday today - but their party will be out of the public eye.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fischer, try to keep the quints away from gawkers. Residents of Aberdeen, their hometown, see them only infrequently, generally when they ride by in the family station wagon.

Friends say the quints talk a lot. Jimmy, the biggest, reportedly does the most chatting. His sisters are Cathy, Margie, Mary Ann and Maggie.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

THE PIZZA TASTE is an ever-fascinating one. It can be dressed up in many new ways such as this Pizza Rice Pie. The crust is a savory rice mixture. The topping is convenient, canned tomato sauce with cheese and many of the pizza "standards" -- oregano, basil, Mozzarella cheese, pepperoni and stuffed olives. Serve with a green salad and fresh fruit.

Pizza Rice Pie Wins Cook 'Bravos'

All the world loves the pizza flavor which is a heady blend of tomato, Italian spices, herbs and cheeses. As long as the topping keeps its same gusto, the cook can change the crust for welcome variety. Why not a rice crust?

The answer is a hearty "yeah" after you've tasted this "Pizza Rice Pie." Cooked rice, onion, eggs and butter are pressed into a regular pizza pan and partially baked. Then the convenient seasoner, canned tomato sauce with cheese, is poured right from the can over the rice crust. Herbs, cheese, meat and olives go on in quick order. Pop into the oven. In less than 30 minutes you have a main dish that will inspire "bravos."

With the rice pizza pie serve a green salad with oil and vinegar dressing, and fruit for dessert.

PIZZA RICE PIE
2-2/3 cups cooked rice
1/3 cup minced onion
2 eggs, beaten
3 Tablesp. melted butter or margarine
1 (8-oz.) can tomato sauce with cheese
1/4 teasp. oregano
1/4 teasp. basil
1 cup shredded Mozzarella cheese
1 (4-1/2 oz.) package sliced pepperoni
1/2 cup sliced stuffed olives

Mix together rice, onion, eggs and melted butter. Line a 12-inch pizza pan with rice mixture and bake 12 minutes at 50 degrees F. until set. Spread tomato sauce with cheese over rice crust. Sprinkle with oregano, basil and shredded cheese. Top with pepperoni and olives. Bake at 350 degrees F., 20 to 25 minutes before serving. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

FOREIGN AID AUTHORIZATION

There is increased apprehension about the size and method of handling of the Foreign Aid Program. This is combined with a steady loss of gold by this country to foreign countries as a result of our continuing unfavorable balance of payments. These apprehensions were reflected by the vote which gave Senate approval to the conference report authorizing $3.5 billion for the foreign assistance program in the fiscal year 1967, which was passed by a remarkably small majority, 33-25.

The Senate voted separate authorizations for military and economic assistance and authorized $2.06 billion for economic assistance, $792 million for the military aid program.

The House of Representatives combined them, however, and because of this, plus the fact the House obtained in conference $731 million more than had been authorized by the Senate, I voted against the bill.

There were 98 points of difference between the Senate and the House of Representatives compromised in the conference. The House and Senate having both approved, the bill is cleared for the President's signature.

CIVIL RIGHTS

Following the Labor Day recess, the Senate began what is expected to be a lengthy debate on the Civil Rights Act of 1966 as passed by the House of Representatives.

The five major titles of the bill deal respectively with: Selection of federal juries; discrimination in state jury selection; preventive court relief against threatened violations of civil rights of individuals; discrimination in the sale or rental of housing by those in the business of developing, selling or renting houses; and federal punishment for forceful interference with a person lawfully engaged in certain federally protected activities such as voting or enrolling in public schools.

ZIP CODE WEEK

The week of October 15 to 20 will be observed as National Zip Code Week in 302 major cities throughout the country, according to a recent announcement by the Post Office Department. During this week, postmasters will cooperate with local business, civic and educational leaders in fitting Zip Code promotional projects into the pattern of community activities.

The Missouri cities participating in Zip Code Week include Independence, Kansas City, St. Joseph, St. Louis, and Springfield.

Zip Codes become mandatory for all second and third class volume mailers beginning January 1, 1967.

'Has-Been' Debbie Enrolls at Kansas U.

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) - "I'm just a has-been," Debbie Bryant said Monday as she enrolled at the University of Kansas.

Debbie was a year late getting enrolled. She toured the country last year as Miss America. Her reign ended Saturday night with the crowning of her successor, Jane Jayroe, Miss Oklahoma.

A transfer from Christian College in Columbia, Mo., Debbie will be a resident counselor in a freshman dormitory at Kansas, a rare post for a girl who has not attended the university before.

When the Overland Park, Kan. native arrived on campus here, a dozen boys volunteered to carry her luggage. One said it would be an honor to carry Miss America's luggage.

That prompted Debbie to say: "I'm not Miss America any more. I'm just a has-been."

Stock Chief's Resignation Raises Several Eyebrows

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP)— When an executive quits a top job in his mid-50s, his health good and his future plans indefinite, his action generates rumors that imply the worst. Some for his departure lies buried.

George Keith Funston generated these rumors this week. Funston, 55 years old, 6 feet 3, and in good health despite gray hair, made plans to quit as president of the New York Stock Exchange, giving as his reason:

"The demanding nature of the presidency precludes me from pursuing many other interests which I should like to enjoy more fully in the future."

Among these interests are gardening, travel, education and church work, and corporate directorships.

So, in the privacy of his big mint-green office, where the ticking of a small clock made a quiet contrast to the boisterous trading floor below, Funston was asked the real reason.

"The possibility of a new contract not being extended to me was never a consideration in my plans to leave," he replied. "I knew it would be offered to me. I never was more in the saddle than now. The board was 100 per cent behind me."

Funston said he liked the job. "It's a whale of a good job," he said. "It's no burden."

And so why did he announce plans to leave the job on or before expiration of his present contract in September 1967?

"I've got so many other things to do. This is a night and day job, and I tend to get myself wrapped up in everything I do anyway. I think I deserve a rest.

"From the time I come in until I go home I'm with somebody. There's a lot of balls in the air all the time. Yes, I'm more tired now when I go home at night than I used to be. But now the control will be in me."

As president of the exchange, Funston is its voice, and though it has been a loud voice in bringing a bit of democracy into what has been called a private club, he has received criticism from many directions—fair and unfair—a natural hazard of the job.

Welfare Roles Total 2,074

BENTON -- The Scott County Welfare office handled 2,074 cases in August with a total payment of $158,151.70, Mrs. Cathleen Gipson, county welfare director, reported.

Of this amount the largest portion, $84,648, went for old age assistance, which had 1,251 cases or $67.66 payment per person.

For old age assistance nursing care and vendor payments 42 cases received $4,067.70 or $96.85 per person.

The 424 cases of aid to dependent children totaled 1,312 children with a total payment of $44,251, or $104.39 per case and $33.73 per child.

In general relief roles of 129 cases with 143 persons received $8,701, or $67.45 per case and $60.85 per person. Permanent and total disability accounted for 187 cases and $13,204, or $70.25 per person.

Forty - one cases were handled on the aid to the blind role, for a total of $3,280 or $80 per person.

Fifty - two children received child welfare services, including nine child welfare services, nine protective services, 20 foster home care with a total expense from state and county funds of $995.48 or an average of $49.77 per child and 14 services were given to adoptive and unmarried mothers.

Rev. Kennon Withdraws from District Race

ADVANCE -- The withdrawal of the Rev. Lawrence Kennon of Advance as Republican candidate for the 150th district is official.

Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick said Monday that a written withdrawal had been received in his office from Rev. Mr. Kennon.

The Rev. Mr. Kennon gave ill health as the reason. The letter was dated Sept. 9. The Rev. Mr. Kennon earlier had said he would withdraw for health reasons.

Selection of a new candidate to replace him is expected to be the main item of business at the Bollinger county Republican Committee meeting Wednesday. Whoever is chosen will face incumbent Democrat Frank C. Ellis of Sedgewickville in the November election.

The 150th district is composed of Bollinger and Madison counties, two townships in St. Francois county and one township in Stoddard county.

Weaver Sets MU Position On Collective Bargaining

COLUMBIA, Mo. AP -- President John C. Weaver Tuesday spelled out the University of Missouri's position on collective bargaining in a letter to all non - academic employes.

Dr. Weaver said his letter was prompted, in part, by employes concerned over a recent letter sent by Service Employes Local No. 43.

The union letter he pointed out said the union had reached the point where unless the university grants Local 45 exclusive bargaining rights for all non-academic employes, including the withholding of dues from wages and negotiations about conditions of employment by Sept. 12, 1966, the union would be forced to use "pressures."

Dr. Weaver said he had answered the union by pointing out the university cannot legally bargain or enter into a contract with it.

"The board of curators had previously told the union the same thing," he said. "I further stated that if Local 45 disagreed on the law, the university would be willing to cooperate if the union wished to seek a judgment in a court on these legal questions."

He said the university had based its position on a ruling of the Missouri Supreme Court and he added:

"The university cannot change the law."

He said one of the questions being asked by employes is whether they would be required to join a union. The answer to that question, he said, is that no employe is required to join any organization as a condition of employment.

Another question, he said, wanted to know what will happen to an employe if he refuses to report for work.

"The university expects all employes to be on the job when scheduled," he said. "Any unauthorized absence from work, if deliberate and without valid cause, will bring such consequences, which could include suspension or dismissal, as the administration and the board of curators will determine."

The letter was sent to about 3,000 employes on the four campuses of the university.

Nuisance Case Dropped

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo. AP -- The case against Mrs. Grace Phillips, former director of the Job Corps Center who was charged with operating a public nuisance, was dropped Monday.

The charge was filed July 19 after some citizens complained that some girls at the center were promiscuous, drunk and noisy.

Dave Lodwick, city attorney, said the case was dismissed because the situation at the center had improved and Mrs. Phillips had left town. He said the $75 bond she had posted would be returned to her.

Rest and Recreation Leaves Go Big With U.S. Fighting Men

MANILA (AP) —"Man, first I'm going to get me a hot shower, then a cold beer, the biggest steak I can find, a soft bed. Then I'm going to sleep for two days."

Grimy and tired, the 1st Cavalry trooper had just arrived in Manila from South Viet Nam with 35 other soldiers for five days of rest and recreation. That's R and R in soldier slang.

Other soldiers had flown to other R and R centers around Asia — Bangkok, Singapore, Hong Kong, Kuala Lumpur, Penang, and Formosa.

"Most of these guys aren't hell raisers like they used to be in the old days," said Lt. Ed Guest, a Navy veteran of 26 years who organizes Manila's R and R center.

"Saigon has got all the bars they'll ever want to see. When they come here they're just ordinary tourists. They want to rest, eat good food and see the sights. Most of all they want an air-conditioned hotel room and room service."

Guest briefs the soldiers on the delights and dangers of Manila, telling them to wear civilian clothes at all times, to pay their hotel bills in advance and to stay out of trouble.

"We've had 8,000 men through here since January and no trouble — so don't be the one to spoil the record," he tells them.

The briefing is repeated daily in the other R and R centers, where soldiers go at the rate of 1,000 a week to forget about the Viet Nam war for a few days.

They are tired but glad to be among friends in a city where there is little chance of some one exploding a plastic bomb while they are eating a bowl of noodle soup.

The R and R program — started during the Korean War and now refined and expanded — has put the United States into the travel business in a big way.

At the same time it is providing a lucrative multimillion-dollar windfall to traders, hotel keepers, restaurant owners and shady ladies.

Bangkok, the capital of Thailand and exotic city of saffron robed monks, golden temples, beautiful girls and fiery Mekong whisky — not a drop sold until two days old — is the biggest and most popular of the R and R centers.

"You've never seen suchlong faces as those on the men lined up at the airport to go back to Viet Nam," said Capt. Hans Wagner of Tallahassee, Fla., who supervises the Bangkok R and R center.

"It's like heaven. Of course, I've never been there," said Marine Lance Cpl. Mike Walker, a mortar man from Huntington, Ind., as he sipped a beer in the bar of one of the dozens of modern hotels that have sprung up in Bangkok.

For Pfc. James Cobb, a grenadier from Atlanta, Ga., R and R provides plenty of recreation but not much rest.

"I've been on the go since I got here. I wouldn't say I'm resting, just having a wonderful time," he said.

Wagner's briefing to the new arrivals covers everything from clip joints to how to bargain for Thai silk.

Pistol-Packing Girl Shoots 2 and Takes Over Taxicab

TORONTO AP — A girl ran wild with a pistol in downtown Toronto Tuesday and wounded two men before police took her into custody in a taxicab

Carol Ann Tomlinson, 22, of suburban Long Branch was arrested on two charges of attempted murder for the shots that hit Wilfred Knight, 37, and John Kwan, 31.

The shooting spree began at 1:30 a.m. as Knight left a tavern.

A witness, Bernie Wright, said:

"This girl walked up behind him, took out this gun and boom! There was one hell of a blast. Next thing I knew she was running toward me with the gun, but she must have changed her mind because she suddenly went to a cab in front of me, put the gun to the driver's head and they drove off."

Police said the woman ordered the driver, John Warren "Move or I'll kill you."

As the police told the story:

At an intersection she got out and then commandeered Kwan's cab. She pointed the pistol at him and said: "Get going!" Police gave chase in cruisers. At least one shot was fired from the cab.

Detective - Sgt. Desmond Bryan said police cars caught the cab several times, "but whenever we got close she pointed the gun behind Kwan's ear as if threatening to shoot him, so we had to drop back again."

Kwan noticed the girl had rolled down a window and was aiming at a passing motorcycle officer.

He swerved the cab to throw off her aim and reached behind to knock the gun aside. The pistol cracked and a bullet seared his temple. He was also struck in the leg.

Seconds later his cab crashed into a roadblock. Kwan was thrown against the windshield but managed to scramble into the back seat and grab the girl before she could pick up the gun, which had fallen to the floor.

Police rushed the car, which was full of smoke. The girl had fired bullets into the meter and radio in an effort to get Kwan to drive faster.

Seabee Joins Nation's List Of Heroes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The name of Marvin Glen Shields, a Seabee who enrolled Tuesday alongside those of the nation's great heroes.

Shields, from Port Townsend, Wash., was awarded the Medal of Honor posthumously for heroism in Viet Nam.

Shields' daughter, Barbara Diane, who will be 5 years old in January, was too young to understand the solemnity of the award ceremony in President Johnson's office.

She romped about in the office, dropping and picking up her small pocketbook, until Johnson picked her up, placed her on his desk, and put an arm around her.

Secretary of the Navy Paul H. Nitze read the citation before Shields' closest relatives, military brass, and members of Congress.

Those on hand included the hero's widow, Joan Elaine Shields of Seattle; his father, William Glen Shields of Martins, Calif.; his mother, Victoria Blanche Casselery of Port Townsend; and a brother, Ronald M. Shields of Camp Washington.

Another present was Lt. Charles Williams of Vance, S. C., who was awarded the Medal of Honor — the nation's highest military decoration for heroism — for the same action in which Shields lost his life.

Johnson said Shields, by his heroism in a 14-hour battle at Dong Xoai on June 10, 1965, saved the lives of many of his comrades.

Although twice wounded, the citation said, he continued to supply his fellow Americans with needed ammunition and to return the enemy fire for hours.

Johnson said Shields is the first Seabee ever to be awarded the Medal of Honor.

Plane Catches Parachutist in Recovery Effort

GEOGETOWN, Del. AP — A parachutist jumped out of a plane Tuesday and was caught, safely, with a hook apparatus by a passing plane in a demonstration of an air rescue that could be useful during wartime over enemy territory.

It was the second attempt at an air recovery. The first jump earlier in the day by Charles Alexander from about 10,000 feet was unsuccessful.

The recovery plane swooped past the 27-year-old parachutist at 120 miles an hour and caught him as he dropped at 1,100 feet a minute.

Bruce Sheaffer, project engineer for the sponsor of the demonstration, said it was an extremely cloudy day and "we were practically on instrument conditions."

Sheaffer said that "without a horizon it is difficult to tell whether you are climbing or diving a bit."

Sheaffer said that instruments could be adapted to the recovery, but this has not been done as yet.

The recovery plane, which had hooks extending from its rear to catch the parachute, actually hit the parachute twice but did not take hold, he said.

Air Force and government officials were on hand for the experiment, run by All American Engineering Co. of Washington and Pioneer Parachute Co. of Manchester, Conn.

Ft. Wood Work Resumes

FT. LEONARD WOOD, Mo. (AP) - Construction work on billets and other facilities here was resumed Tuesday after informational pickets had been removed from two of the three main gates by the sheet metal workers union.

Lloyd C. Staver, resident engineer at the post, estimated from 75 to 90 per cent of the workmen would be back on the job during the day.

Among the projects in a $16 million construction program at the post is a number of troop billets. With winter approaching, the Army is hopeful of completing the troop billets so that many soldiers can be moved from their tent quarters before cold weather sets in.

Both mother and daughter always enjoy going buy-buy.

Stock Chief's Resignation Raises Several Eyebrows

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP)— When an executive quits a top job in his mid-50s, his health and his future plans indefinite, his action generates rumors that imply the real reason for his departure lies buried.

George Keith Funston generated those rumors this week: Funston, 55 years old, 6 feet 3, and in good health despite gray hair, made plans to quit as president of the New York Stock Exchange, giving as his reason:

"The demanding nature of the presidency precludes me from pursuing many other interests which I should like to enjoy more fully in the future."

Among these interests are gardening, travel, education and church work, and corporate directorships.

So, in the privacy of his big mind-screen office, where the ticking of a small clock made a quiet contrast to the boisterous trading floor below, Funston was asked the real reason.

"The possibility of a new contract not being extended to me was never a consideration in my plans to leave," he replied. "I knew it would be offered to me. I never was more in the saddle than now. The board was 100 per cent behind me."

Funston said he liked the job. "It's a whale of a good job," he said. "It's no burden."

And so why did he announce plans to leave the job on or before expiration of his present contract in September 1967?

"I've got so many other things to do. This is a night and day job, and I tend to get myself wrapped up in everything I do anyway. I think I deserve a rest.

"From the time I come in until I go home I'm with somebody. There's a lot of talls in the air all the time. Yes, I'm more tired now when I go home at night than I used to be. But now the control will be in me."

As president of the exchange, Funston is its voice, and though it has been a loud voice in bringing a lot of democracy into what has been called a private club, he has received criticism from many directions—fair and unfair—a natural hazard of the job.

Welfare Roles Total 2,074

BENTON -- The Scott County Welfare office handled 2,074 cases in August with a total payment of $158,151.70, Mrs. Cathleen Gipson, county welfare director, reported.

Of this amount the largest portion, $84,648, went for old age assistance, which had 1,251 cases or $67.66 payment per person.

For old age assistance nursing care and vendor payments 42 cases received $4,067.70 or $96.85 per person.

The 424 cases of aid to dependent children totaled 1,312 children with a total payment of $44,251, or $104.39 per case and $33.73 per child.

On general relief roles of 129 cases with 143 persons received $8,701, or $67.45 per case and $60.85 per person. Permanent and total disability accounted for 187 cases and $13,204, or $70.25 per person.

Forty - one cases were handled on the aid to the blind role, for a total of $3,280 or $80 per person.

Fifty - two children received child welfare services, including nine child welfare services, nine protective services, 20 foster home care with a total expense from state and county funds of $995.48 or an average of $49.77 per child and 14 services were given to adoptive and unmarried mothers.

Rev. Kennon Withdraws from District Race

ADVANCE -- The withdrawal of the Rev. Lawrence Kennon of Advance as Republican candidate in the 150th district is official.

Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick said Monday that a written withdrawal had been received in his office from Rev. Mr. Kennon.

The Rev. Mr. Kennon gave ill health as the reason. The letter was dated Sept. 9. The Rev. Mr. Kennon earlier had said he would withdraw for health reasons.

Selection of a new candidate to replace him is expected to be the main item of business at the Bollinger county Republican Committee meeting Wednesday. Whoever is chosen will face incumbent Democrat Frank C. Ellis of Sedgewickville in the November election.

The 150th district is composed of Bollinger and Madison counties, two townships in St. Francois county and one township in Stoddard county.

Weaver Sets MU Position On Collective Bargaining

COLUMBIA, Mo. AP -- President John C. Weaver Tuesday spelled out the University of Missouri's position on collective bargaining in a letter to all non - academic employes.

Dr. Weaver said his letter was prompted, in part, by employees concerned over a recent letter sent by Service Employes Local No. 45.

The union letter he pointed out said the union had reached the point where unless the university grants Local 45 exclusive bargaining rights for all non-academic employes, including the withholding of dues from wages and negotiations about conditions of employment by Sept. 12, 1966, the union would be forced to use "pressures."

Dr. Weaver said he had answered the union by pointing out the university cannot legally bargain or enter into a contract with it.

"The university expects all employes to be and will be when scheduled," he said. "Any unauthorized absence from work, if deliberate and without valid cause, will bring such consequences, which could include suspension or dismissal, as the administration and the board of curators will determine."

The letter was sent to about 3,000 employes on the four campuses of the university.

Nuisance Case Dropped

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo. AP -- The case against Mrs. Grace Phillips, former director of the Job Corps Center who was charged with operating a public nuisance, was dropped Monday.

The charge was filed July 19 after some citizens complained that some girls at the center were promiscuous, drunk and noisy.

Dave Lodwick, city attorney, said the case was dismissed because the situation at the center had improved and Mrs. Phillips had left town. He said the $75 bond she had posted would be returned to her.

Rest and Recreation Leaves Go Big With U.S. Fighting Men

MANILA (AP) —"Man, first I'm going to get me a hot shower, then a cold beer, the biggest steak I can find, a soft bed. Then I'm going to sleep for two days."

Grimy and tired, the 1st Cavalry trooper had just arrived in Manila from South Viet Nam with 35 other soldiers for five days of rest and recreation. That's R and R in soldier slang.

Other soldiers had flown to other R and R centers around Asia — Bangkok, Singapore, Hong Kong, Kuala Lumpur, Penang, and Formosa.

"Most of these guys aren't hell raisers like they used to be in the old days," said Lt. Ed Guest, a Navy veteran of 26 years who organizes Manila's R and R center.

"Saigon has got all the bars they'll ever want to see. When they come here they're just ordinary tourists. They want to rest, eat good food and see the sights. Most of all they want an air-conditioned hotel room and room service."

Guest briefs the soldiers on the delights and dangers of Manila, telling them to wear civilian clothes at all times, to pay their hotel bills in advance and not wear refined and expanded — as has put the United States into the travel business in a big way.

At the same time it is providing a lucrative multimillion-dollar windfall to traders, hotel keepers, restaurant owners and shady ladies.

Bangkok, the capital of Thailand and ancient city of saffron robed monks, golden temples, beautiful girls and fiery Mekong whisky — not a drop sold until two days old — is the biggest and most popular of the R and R centers.

"You've never seen such lovely faces as those on the men lined up at the airport to go back to Viet Nam," said Capt. Hans Wagner of Tallahassee, Fla., who supervises the Bangkok R and R center.

"It's like heaven. Of course, I've never been there," said Marine Lance Cpl. Mike Walker, a mortar man from Huntington, Ind., as he sipped a beer in the bar of one of the dozens of modern hotels that have sprung up in Bangkok.

For Pfc. James Cobb, a grenadier from Atlanta, Ga., R and R provides plenty of recreation but not much rest.

"I've been on the go since I got here. I wouldn't say I'm resting, just having a wonderful time," he said.

Wagner's briefing to the new arrivals covers everything from clip joints to how to bargain for Thai silk.

Pistol-Packing Girl Shoots 2 and Takes Over Taxicab

TORONTO AP -- A girl ran wild with a pistol in downtown Toronto Tuesday and wounded two men before police took her into custody in a taxicab.

Carol Ann Tomlinson, 22, of suburban Long Branch was arrested on two charges of attempted murder for the shots that hit Wilfred Knight, 37, and John Kwan, 31.

The shooting spree began at 1:30 a.m. as Knight left a tavern.

A witness, Bernie Wright, said:

"This girl walked up behind him, took out this gun and fired from the cab.

Detective - Sgt. Desmond Bryan said police cars caught the cab several times, but whenever we got close she pointed the gun behind Kwan's ear as if threatening to shoot him, so we had to drop back again."

Kwan noticed the girl had rolled down a window and was aiming at a passing motorcycle officer.

He swerved the cab to throw off her aim and reached behind to knock the gun aside. The pistol cracked and a bullet seared his temple. He was also struck in the leg.

Seconds later his cab crashed into a roadblock. Kwan was thrown against the windshield but managed to scramble into the back seat and grab the girl before she could pick up the gun, which had fallen to the floor.

Police rushed the car, which was full of smoke. The girl had fired bullets into the meter and radio in an effort to get Kwan to drive faster.

TURKEY AND TRIMMINGS usually mean a bread stuffing for the big bird. Why not switch this time to orange-rice poultry stuffing! Equal parts rice and bread crumbs are seasoned with convenient, canned tomato sauce and orange juice for a novel new dressing. Very easy to prepare.

Orange-Rice Stuffing Is Novel New Dressing

His Majesty, King Turkey, is switching to a new stuffing. It's called "Orange-Rice Poultry Stuffing" and as the name indicates, it is different from the usual bread stuffing.

There is bread in the dressing but also an equal measure of cooked rice has been added. There's also orange juice and a surprise -- canned tomato sauce. The tomato sauce furnishes "instant" seasoning right from the can. The flavor effect has to be tasted to be appreciated. (Spanish and Mexican cuisines have long enjoyed the mingling of tomato, orange and rice flavors.)

With the turkey and rice-y dressing serve buttered Brussels sprouts, hot dinner rolls, relishes, fresh fruit and pumpkin pie with whipped cream. Happy holidays.

ORANGE-RICE

POULTRY STUFFING

1-1/2 cups finely chopped onion
1-1/2 cups finely chopped celery
1/3 cup butter
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1 (8-oz.) can tomato sauce
1-1/2 cups orange juice
1 chicken bouillon cube
1/2 cup hot water
1/4 teasp. sage
1/4 teasp. poultry seasoning
1/4 teasp. salt
2 cups packaged precooked rice
2 cups stale bread crumbs

Lightly cook onion and celery in butter in skillet. Add parsley, tomato sauce, orange juice, bouillon cube which has been dissolved in hot water, sage, poultry seasoning and salt. Bring to boil. Remove from heat, add rice, cover tightly and let stand 5 minutes. Mix in bread crumbs. Makes enough stuffing for an 8- to 10-lb. turkey.

Judging Teams Win in Columbia

COLUMBIA Twenty-five Missouri 4-H Club members were selected to represent Missouri in national and regional 4-H events at State 4-H achievement day contests Saturday at the University of Missouri.

The winning poultry judging teams consists of Martha Toalson of Columbia, Dennis Brasher of Bragg City, Steve Turner of Independence and Ronnie Hobbs of Liberty.

The team will compete in the national 4-H poultry judging contest in Chicago Nov. 26.

Among the blue ribbon winners in the achievement day contests were in livestock judging, Dan Schussler of Montrose, Neal Steward of Purdy, Don Harrell and Mike Griffin of West Plains, Charles Humphreys of Marshall, Kenneth Leimkeuhler of Napton, Paul Meier of Jackson and Brian Schnarre of Foristell.

Easy Alimony

MILWAUKEE, Wis. AP --- Milwaukee County is considering opening a drive-in window for convenient payments of alimony.

"This might be an incentive for a man to make his payments current," said Francis X. McCormack, clerk of courts, Monday.

McCormack said the idea, to be studied by a county board committee, would "help a lot of people."

An alimony payer "wouldn't have to double park, jump out of his car, run into the courthouse and stand in line to make his payment," he said.

Second Sheppard Trial Date Set

CLEVELAND (AP) - Judge Roy F. McMahon of Cuyahoga Common Pleas Court today scheduled Samuel H. Sheppard's second murder trial for Oct. 18.

He did not designate a trial judge.

Sheppard's defense attorneys said at an arraignment last Thursday that they intended to file a motion this week for a change of venue, but the motion has not yet been filed.

McMahon said he was having difficulty in selecting a trial judge because both the prosecution and defense objected to any judge who is running for re-election on the November ballot. This eliminated 12 judges.

Other judges were ruled out for various reasons - one because he participated in the prosecution at Sheppard's first trial, another because he is related to prosecutor John T. Corrigan who will prosecute the re-trial.

Sheppard is charged with second-degree murder in the bludgeon killing of his first wife, Marilyn, on July 4, 1954, at their home in Bay Village. He has pleaded innocent and is free on $10,000 bond.

Main Street Will Never Be Same

LAVERNE, Okla. AP ---Main Street in Laverne will never be the same.

Bursting with pride over the town's most distinguished citizen, city officials decided Monday to change the name of Main Street to Jayne Jayroe Boulevard in honor of the new Miss America.

Letters to the 19-year-old beauty's home, which is located on the main street, will now be addressed to Miss Jane Ann Jayroe, Jayne Anne Jayroe Boulevard, Laverne, Okla.

The beauty queen, whose name is listed as Jane Ann on her birth certificate, is known in her hometown as Jayne Anne or Jay-Jay.

Lilbourn Improvement Club to Build Float

LILBOURN -- The Civic Improvement club met Monday with Mrs. Raymond Lloyd. This was the first meeting of the year following the summer vacation.

The new president, Mrs. Paul Moore, presided. Minutes of the last regular meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Arnold Simpson, and approved. One new member, Mrs. Jean Copeland, was inducted.

A committee was appointed to supervise the building of a float for the Homecoming parade during the fall festival; the committee consists of Mrs. Jim Dambach, Mrs. Bill Jones, Mrs. Claude Stone, and Mrs. Arnold Simpson. Mrs. Bill Newton and Mrs. H. B. Mitchell were appointed to select a candidate for Miss New Madrid County. The club also voted financial assistance in the making gifts for soldiers serving in Viet Nam.

Following the business meeting a program on conservation and recreation in state parks was presented by Mrs. Herman Snellings, program leader for the evening.

The next club meeting will be Oct. 10 at the home of Mrs. Bill Ice, with Mrs. C. D. Wright, program leader. The program will be about Missouri. Hostesses for this meeting will be Mrs. Lloyd and Mrs. Bill Newton.

"IT'S A VERY GOOD YEAR"

"A good year for truck crops" -- that's an expression you're likely to hear this year to describe the abundant harvest of late summer vegetables now filling the Nation's produce counters.

"Truck crops" has long been an American synonym for vegetables. Yet, and this may surprise you, the phrase has nothing to do with trucks or how vegetables are transported to market. The same is true for "truck gardens". The fact is, both were widely used in the days of horse drawn carts and wagons.

History reveals that our word "truck" as used in the vegetable world was derived from the French word "troquer," which long ago had as one of its meanings, "to barter or exchange." Early settlers in this land, lacking cash, needed something they could use to barter or exchange for necessities they could not grow, raise or make.

For some, the soil was the best answer. Small gardens were planted and lovingly tended, for the harvest was to provide not only their needs, but oftentimes "dreams" as well. As soon as the crops were harvested, they were carted into "farmers' markets" where the bartering and exchanging took place. Perhaps these vegetables should have been called "dream crops," but generally the reference was "barter and exchange crops," or "troquer crops," And, in true American style, the French spelling was revamped and the phrase emerged as we know it today, "truck crops."

Why only the vegetables were thusly dubbed has not been determined, for in the original "farmers' markets" such items as freshly cut flowere, house plants, eggs, poultry and simple - to - fancy handiwork creations could also be found.

The bountiful yields of our 1966 harvest are the result of many advancements made in the vegetable world since the first "barter and exchange" gardens were planted. Today's shopper finds an ever-changing array of garden fresh vegetables on her favorite produce counters. Purchased "garden fresh," many have been grown miles away, harvested at the peak of flavor, carefully chilled to retain their crispy only-minutes-from-the-garden goodness, and then rapidly transported to produce centers throughout the Nation.

However, most Midwest shoppers should find plenty of locally grown vegetables at their favorite stores these days, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

For a real "truck garden" feast, try mixing several favorites together. Slice firm tomatoes, about 1/2 inch thick into a shallow dish. Add sliced cucumber, sliced raw cauliflower, green pepper rings, sliced dry onion rings, a little carrot, and possibly a few radish slices, then top with minced parsley. Drizzle your favorite dressing over this and cover tightly with foil or plastic wrap, then refrigerate for one hour. Serve on salad greens.

GOLF NOTES

Skill as putting was justly rewarded in Tuesday's golf session for the women. Mrs. John Sikes, Miss Louise Marshall, Mrs. Howard Johnson and Mrs. Jack Miller were the winners.

Mrs. Sikes takes the honors for the finest game Tuesday. To go along with her 12 putts, she birdied one hole, bogied two and had six pars for a one over par score of 38.

The first round of the match play tournament has been completed with the following results:

Cox defeated Dawson. Emerson won over Joyner by default. Atchison defeated Estes. Medley defaulted to Stepp. Warf defeated Armstrong. Marshall defeated Bush. Tope defeated Mitchell. Campbell defeated Stamp. Lee defeated Miller. Dempster defeated Ralph and Graff defeated Moll.

The second round of play must be completed before Tuesday.

There are only two more Tuesday sessions of golf for the season. Tuesday prizes will be awarded for low net scores. Sept. 27 will be a consolation tournament. Only the non - winners of the year will be eligible for prizes. The others play for fun.

The awards luncheon will be Oct. 4.

A Priceless Asset

By Senator Strom Thurmond, South Carolina

The Mayflower Compact, written in November of 1620, begins with a prayer, "In the name of God" and goes on to state: "We  having undertaken, for the glory of God,  Do by these presents solemnly and mutually in the presence of God, and of one another, covenant and combine ourselves together into a civil body politic."

Thus our Nation began founded on prayer.

The kneeling figure of George Washington through that bitter winter in Valley Forge is a part of this country that should never be forgotten.

Prayer played a large part in the winning of our independence.

The Constitutional Convention in June of 1787 had been meeting for weeks without agreement, when Benjamin Franklin rose to his feet and addressed George Washington:

"Mr. President: The small progress we have made after 4 or 5 weeks close attention and continual reasonings with each other is a melancholy proof of the imperfection of the human understanding. We have gone back to ancient history for models of government that now no longer exist. And we have viewed modern states but find none of their constitutions suitable to our circumstances. How has it happened, Sir, that we of humbly applying to the Father of Light to illuminate our understandings?

"In the beginning of the contest with Britain, when we were sensible of danger, we had daily prayers in this room for divine protection.

"Our prayers, Sir, were heard; and they were generously answered. . I therefore beg leave to move:--

"That henceforth, prayers imploring the assistance of Heaven and its blessings on our deliberations be held in this assembly every morning before we proceed to business."

So what is history's verdict on our Constitution after almost a 190-year trial?

A country with only 6 per cent of the world's population has 57 per cent of the world's automobiles, 51 per cent of the world's telephones, 41 per cent of the world's radios and 47 per cent of its television sets. Our Nation has more college opportunities than any other country in the world.

These, of course, are only material evidence of God's blessings on this country. Our spiritual heritage is far greater and deeper.

Great events in our Nation's history have turned in our favor in answer to prayer.

When the British Army at New Orleans sent message to Andrew Jackson that "Tomorrow morning at this time we will eat our breakfast on your campground because we have several lords with us and General Packingham," Jackson sent back the message: "Come right on for I have on my side the Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord God Almighty, and Andrew Jackson."

Samuel B. Morse, inventor of the telgraph, said "Whenever I could not see my way clearly, I knelt down and prayed for light and understanding."

During those dark days of our Nation's history, when brother fought against brother, President Lincoln from time to time would proclaim days of "public prayer, humiliation, and fasting." He is quoted as saying, "I have been driven many times to my knees by the overwhelming conviction that I had nowhere else to go: my own wisdom and that of all around me seemed insufficient for the day."

The old body servant of General Stonewall Jackson said that he could always tell when a battle was near at hand by seeing the General get up many times at night to pray.

Prayer is never outmoded or out of place. Here is a prayer, recorded by Astronaut Gordon Cooper while orbiting the earth:

"Father, thank You, especially for letting me fly this flight. Thank You for the privilege of being able to be in this position to be up in this wondrous place, seeing all these many startling, wonderful things that You have crated."

George Washington, Father of our country prayed:

"Almighty God: We make our earnest prayer that Thou wilt keep the United States in Thy holy protection: that Thou wilt incline the hearts of the citizens to cultivate a spirit of subordination and obedience to government; to entertain a brotherly affection and love for one another and for their fellow citizens of the United States at large.

"And finally, that Thou wilt most graciously be pleased to dispose us all to do justice, to love mercy and to demean ourselves with that charity, humility and pacific tempor of mind which were the characteristics of the Divine Author of our blessed religion, and without a humble imitation of whose example in these things we can never hope to be a happy nation. Grant our supplication, we beseech Thee, through Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen."

In this day when so many families are abandoning grace before meals; when the Supreme Court has removed prayer and Bible reading from our public schools; when a spokesman for the National Council of Churches has publicly said that "the loss of the traditional Sunday would not be catastrophic and might be healthy"; when bishops are proclaiming that Jesus Christ is not divine and other theologians announce that "God is dead"; it is time for the people of this country to awake.

Play your part in encouraging our people to pray more; to examine the religious heritage in our country and to see the benefit of seeking God's blessing.

Prayer is the only way in which the finite can communicate with the infinite; in which the known can communicate with the unknown, in which the visible may be in touch with the invisible.

You may easily see, if you but examine the history of our Nation, that prayer and communication with God is the very cornerstone of our Society.

If you allow it to be abandoned now, you will be casting away the greatest asset this Nation, or any other nation, has ever known.

Unless our Nation is awakened to its dangerous trend toward materialism and away from the spiritual heritage of our forefathers, then I fear for the future.

Challenge our people, [illegible], to recall those words of Holy Writ which so aptly describe our country; "Blessed is that people whose God is the Lord."

RETIRING MISS BLOOMFIELD, Bonnie Blue, crowns the new queen, Miss Brenda Graham, at the Bloomfield homecoming Tuesday night.

A Priceless Asset

By Senator Strom Thurmond, South Carolina

The Mayflower Compact, written in November of 1620, begins with a prayer, "In the name of God" and goes on to state: "We  having undertaken, for the glory of God,  Do by these presents solemnly and mutually in the presence of God, and of one another, covenant and combine ourselves together into a civil body politic."

Thus our Nation began founded on prayer.

The kneeling figure of George Washington through that bitter winter in Valley Forge is a part of this country that should never be forgotten.

Prayer played a large part in the winning of our independence.

The Constitutional Convention in June of 1787 had been meeting for weeks without agreement, when Benjamin Franklin rose to his feet and addressed George Washington:

"Mr. President: The small progress we have made after 4 or 5 weeks close attention and continual reasonings with each other is a melancholy proof of the imperfection of the human understanding. We have gone back to ancient history for models of government that now no longer exist. And we have viewed modern states but find none of their constitutions suitable to our circumstances. How has it happened, Sir, that we of humbly applying to the Father of Light to illuminate our understandings?

"In the beginning of the contest with Britain, when we were sensible of danger, we had daily prayers in this room for divine protection.

"Our prayers, Sir, were heard; and they were generously answered. . I therefore beg leave to move:--

"That henceforth, prayers imploring the assistance of Heaven and its blessings on our deliberations be held in this assembly every morning before we proceed to business."

So what is history's verdict on our Constitution after almost a 190-year trial?

A country with only 6 per cent of the world's population has 57 per cent of the world's automobiles, 51 per cent of the world's telephones, 41 per cent of the world's radios and 47 per cent of its television sets. Our Nation has more college opportunities than any other country in the world.

These, of course, are only material evidence of God's blessings on this country. Our spiritual heritage is far greater and deeper.

Great events in our Nation's history have turned in our favor in answer to prayer.

When the British Army at New Orleans sent message to Andrew Jackson that "Tomorrow morning at this time we will eat our breakfast on your campground because we have several lords with us and General Packingham," Jackson sent back the message: "Come right on for I have on my side the Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord God Almighty, and Andrew Jackson."

Samuel B. Morse, inventor of the telgraph, said "Whenever I could not see my way clearly, I knelt down and prayed for light and understanding."

During those dark days of our Nation's history, when brother fought against brother, President Lincoln from time to time would proclaim days of "public prayer, humiliation, and fasting." He is quoted as saying, "I have been driven many times to my knees by the overwhelming conviction that I had nowhere else to go: my own wisdom and that of all around me seemed insufficient for the day."

The old body servant of General Stonewall Jackson said that he could always tell when a battle was near at hand by seeing the General get up many times at night to pray.

Prayer is never outmoded or out of place. Here is a prayer, recorded by Astronaut Gordon Cooper while orbiting the earth:

"Father, thank You, especially for letting me fly this flight. Thank You for the privilege of being able to be in this position to be up in this wondrous place, seeing all these many startling, wonderful things that You have crated."

George Washington, Father of our country prayed:

"Almighty God; We make our earnest prayer that Thou wilt keep the United States in Thy holy protection: that Thou wilt incline the hearts of the citizens to cultivate a spirit of subordination and obedience to government; to entertain a brotherly affection and love for one another and for their fellow citizens of the United States at large.

"And finally, that Thou wilt most graciously be pleased to dispose us all to do justice, to love mercy and to demean ourselves with that charity, humility and pacific tempor of mind which were the characteristics of the Divine Author of our blessed religion, and without a humble imitation of whose example in these things we can never hope to be a happy nation. Grant our supplication, we beseech Thee, through Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen."

In this day when so many families are abandoning grace before meals; when the Supreme Court has removed prayer and Bible reading from our public schools; when a spokesman for the National Council of Churches has publicly said that "the loss of the traditional Sunday would not be catastrophic and might be healthy"; when bishops are proclaiming that Jesus Christ is not divine and other theologians announce that "God is dead"; it is time for the people of this country to awake.

Play your part in encouraging our people to pray more; to examine the religious heritage in our country and to see the benefit of seeking God's blessing.

Prayer is the only way in which the finite can communicate with the infinite; in which the known can communicate with the unknown, in which the visible may be in touch with the invisible.

You may easily see, if you but examine the history of our Nation, that prayer and communication with God is the very cornerstone of our Society.

If you allow it to be abandoned now, you will be casting away the greatest asset this Nation, or any other nation, has ever known.

Unless our Nation is awakened to its dangerous trend toward materialism and away from the spiritual heritage of our forefathers, then I fear for the future.

Challenge our people, now, to recall those words of Holy Writ which so aptly describe our country; "Blessed is that people whose God is the Lord."

Mrs. Margaret Fox of Charleston has been admitted to St. Mary's hospital.

Rickie Barber, Mrs. Allie B. Summers, Mrs. Ruby Holmes, Mrs. Sue Christian and Mrs. Sarah Frame, all of Dexter, have been admitted to Doctors hospital in Poplar Bluff.

William Clay and Miss Deborah Woodruff, both of Dexter, have been admitted to Poplar Bluff hospital.

Miss Kathy L. Renfro of Dexter has been admitted to Lucy Lee hospital in Poplar Bluff.

GOLF NOTES

Skill as putting was justly rewarded in Tuesday's golf session for the women. Mrs. John Sikes, Miss Louise Marshall, Mrs. Howard Johnson and Mrs. Jack Miller were the winners.

Mrs. Sikes takes the honors for the finest game Tuesday. To go along with her 12 putts, she birdied one hole, bogied two and had six pars for a one over par score of 38.

The first round of the match play tournament has been completed with the following results:

Cox defeated Dawson. Emerson won over Joyner by default. Atchison defeated Estes. Medley defaulted to Stepp. Warf defeated Armstrong. Marshall defeated Bush. Tope defeated Mitchell. Campbell defeated Stamp. Lee defeated Miller. Dempster defeated Ralph and Graff defeated Moll.

The second round of play must be completed before Tuesday.

There are only two more Tuesday sessions of golf for the season. Tuesday prizes will be awarded for low net scores. Sept. 27 will be a consolation tournament. Only the non - winners of the year will be eligible for prizes. The others play for fun.

The awards luncheon will be Oct. 4.

The Prayer

For Today

From the Upper Room

There is nothing love cannot face; there is no limit to its faith, its hope, and its endurance. (I Corinthians 13:7, NEB)

PRAYER: Our Father, teach us that those who dwell in love in Thee. That we may dwell in Thee, help us to love others despite their shortcomings and sins; in the spirit of Christ. Amen.

Ann Landers
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: YOU have a problem. It is called exaggeration. When "Los Angeles Heartache" complained about her daughter - in - law's dirty house you replied, "If all the women who wrote to me on this subject were lined up they would reach from Anchorage to Amarillo."

The distance from Anchorage to Amarillo is approximately 2,450 miles. If you allowed six feet of space for each complaining woman 2,376,000 women could fit into that space very nicely.

Will you take twenty lashes with your old typewriter ribbon -- or do I gargle my garters? -- D. D. OF MILES CITY

Dear D. D.: I just put in a new typewriter ribbon so I'm going to try my darndest to weasel out of the punishment. (If there's anything I hate it's ink on my back.)

I figure that for every woman who writes about a problem there are about a thousand who have it but DON'T write. Since you are apparently much better with figures than I am, please let me know if this gets me off the hook -- somewhat.

P. S. If I am guilty of overstating the case YOU are equally guilty of understating it. I just learned that the distance between Anchorage and Amarillo is 3,496 miles!!!! So go ahead and gargle your garters, Bub.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl, 18, brought up by cultured parents who have high morals and good taste. I have been exposed to extensive travel, fine art, music and literature. My father is one of the city's most prominent civic leaders.

You would think that I'd be interested in young men of similar backgrounds and interests, but I'm not. For some strange reason, I am drawn to crude rough-necks -- boys with backgrounds very different from mine.

I am in college now and have been dating three fellows. I would be ashamed to have my parents meet any one of them. They'd think I had flipped. Maybe I have. Why am I attracted to the unpolished types -- fellows who are poor marriage material? Straighten me out -- PLEASE!! -- CONCERNED ABOUT THE FUTURE

Dear Concerned: When a girl is attracted to young men she'd be ashamed to introduce to her parents, it strongly suggests she is rebelling like a pouting child. This is probably a phase that will pass. (Soon, I hope.)

You write like a girl whose thinking is fairly solid -- on the conscious level, that is. Keep your wits about you, Toots, and don't go off your rocket and marry one of these birds.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married for six years. We have no children. I went to a very fine doctor last week and he told me I'd have to have surgery if I want to have a family.

My husband says I should go to another doctor and not tell him about my first doctor's diagnosis. Would this be ethical? I don't want to make an enemy of the first doctor if the word should get back to him. What is your advice? -- MONTEREY

Dear Monterey: Most physicians have no objections if a patient seeks the opinion of another physician. By all means go to one or even two others. This is not unethical behavior. It is prudent.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting -- And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Dear Mr. Blanton:

Your editorial in the Sikeston Standard, recently, under a headline 'Freedom Salesmen Needed--Reds to Destroy Business Man and You' is, I believe, one of the best and most informative editorials I've read in some time. It merits the praise and thanks of every person who loves his Country, who strongly believes in the system of free enterprise. I agree that too often many who do not operate a business, who do not know of the battle he fights for survival, are prone to 'let george do it' in fighting communism. The business man has the heavy responsibility to keep alive free enterprise and seldom is given credit he richly deserves.

The business man needs the support of every wage earner. In addition to being weighted down, and as you said, "regulated, taxed and red taped to death" he must constantly fight the socialistic propaganda in printed matter, school and college textbooks, radio and television.

I am enclosing an editorial you may have space to include with this letter. It appeared in The Ledger, Montrose, California. Reading it may wake up the apathetic person to the dangers we face, if and when the business man loses his battle against communism. He needs the support and understanding of every GOD fearing, patriotic man and woman in America.

Sincerely,
Fred W. Bender

WHAT WILL YOU TELL YOUR CHILDREN?

Oftentimes, for the sake of argument, one must stipulate to certain points as facts. Let's hope that our friends who see no danger in the communist program will agree for the time being, that there is such a danger and that the danger may suddenly overcome America, just as it did Czechoslovakia. What will you tell your children?

Let's say, for the sake of argument, that the Reds assume control, they are in control of communications, they are in control of public utilities, they have slaughtered or imprisoned the police, they have clobbered resistance, and America lies prone, awaiting the blood purges that must certainly follow, enduring the terrifying period of vacuum before the calked heel of Godless communist tyranny comes smashing down.

What will you tell those youngsters clustered at your knee? How will you tell them that their nation, strong, dynamic, compassionate a few years ago, is now gone? How will you tell them that you cannot go to the store and buy food for them because the store is locked against its owners and that your money is no longer any good? How will you tell them that the policeman on the corner is no longer a friend--he has been replaced by a tyrant from the steppes of Asia or from the jungles of Africa? How will you tell them that the America your fathers gave to you has been lost?

What will you say when your little son, who feels you are a Marshall Dillon or a Hopalong Cassidy, asks you why you don't take a gun and go out to set things straight? What will you say when your teenager asks you what you have done to prevent this takeover? Will you tell him you played golf or went fishing or learned to waterski or worked in the garden or learned to make ceramics or hiked in the hills or a million other things, while your nation went down the drain?

What will yoy say when these children, whose lives have already been blueprinted for them, ask what they should do? How will you advise them when they ask if they should resist? What will you say if they ask you if they should continue to adore God, despite the ultimatum of the New Order? What will you do when the order comes to gather your children and ship them into State Camps where they can become robots of the State?

Communist writings openly predict that they will seize control centers, and that the great mass of population will lie prostrate. Records show that the lawless of a nation will take this opportunity to swoop down on the helpless, motivated in part by the same drive that causes looting after floods have driven people from their homes. Can you be sure that this will not happen -- especially after you read of the riots on Memorial Day in Griffith Park? There certainly was no motivation to justify attacks upon citizens and police, and the destruction of private property. How would these same people react if all law were suddenly eliminated?

Or, suppose you lived through the blood baths, and 15 years from now, your youngsters ask about the America that was. Will you tell them of the freedoms you had, the freedom to go where you wished, to do what you wished, to say what you wished? Will you tell them of the fun you had and the happiness you had? What will you say when they ask how these things happened to slip away?

Will you admit that you dismissed all efforts to halt the drift towards communism as "McCarthyism," that you helped smear everyone who tried to point out the danger?

It may seem a flight of fancy to ponder what could happen to America, but remember -- the Pentagon, charged with protecting you and yours from all dangers, foreign and domestic, has already made a study as to the best time to surrender! Ponder that!

If you are a father or mother, look at your children. If they are asleep, walk in and look at them -- peaceful, contented, trusting. Are you doing anything to prevent just such a terrifying picture as we have painted? Do you bother to inform yourself on the drift towards tyranny? Or do you plan to collaborate with the enemy, to "make friends" with the new order?

If America is to be spared this terror, it must be because her people have forbidden it. If the people will not stem the tide, then each American must face the terror that has already been visited upon Czechoslavakia, Poland, Yugoslavia, East Germany, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Manchuria, and many, many other lands.

And, Mister, what will you tell your children?

-- The Ledger, Montrose, California.

BEEF AND BACON ROLL-UPS are rolled up with just a slice of bacon rather than the usual carrot and dill pickle. The colorful, just-right sauce is made with convenient, canned tomato sauce, beef bouillon and herbs. Prepare this dish one day, serve the next with hot noodles or rice, green beans, gelatin salad, dark rye bread and fresh fruit for dessert.

Beef, Bacon Roll-Ups Are Easy to Prepare

There are several reasons for the ever-enthusiastic fan club which "Beef and Bacon Roll-Ups" enjoys. Most important it's a delicious meat and so easy to prepare. Also, the cost is modest. Round steak is so often "on sale" in your meat market.

The cook finds them an interesting dish to prepare. Many variations are possible, especially in the stuffing and saucing. One of the simplest preparations -- and one of the best in taste -- is the "Beef and Bacon Roll-Ups" here, made without the usual pickle filling, and sauced with tomato sauce, herbs and bouillon. As with the classic dish this specialty is oven-baked 2 hours.

The hurried homemaker will note this entree can be prepared a day ahead of time and baked the next day. While the roll-ups are cooking, there is plenty of time to prepare the rest of the menu--hot buttered noodles or rice, green beans, gelatin salad, dark rye bread and butter. And for dessert--coffee and fresh fruit.

BEEF AND BACON
ROLL-UPS

2 lbs. thinly sliced round steak
6 slices bacon
2 Tablesp. pure vegetable oil
1 onion, chopped
1 beef bouillon cube
1 cup hot water
3/4 Teasp. salt
2 (8-oz.) cans tomato sauce
2 Tablesp. minced parsley
1/2 Teasp. thyme
Buttered noodles or rice

Cut meat the length and width of bacon slices. Lay 1 bacon slice on each strip of meat. Roll up tight and tie with string. Brown on all sides in oil in skillet. Remove meat from skillet and place in shallow baking dish. Cook onion lightly in skillet; stir in beef bouillon cube which has been dissolved in hot water, salt, tomato sauce, parsley and thyme. Pour over meat. Cover and bake at 375 degrees for 1 hour. Remove cover and bake an additional hour. Serve with noodles or rice. Makes 6 servings.

Word comes via the grapevine - and it's true according to USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service -- that California's grape crop is likely to be about 16 per cent larger than average.

That's good news to homemakers. It probably means attractive prices, and plenty of grapes for the inspired meal planner to use in many glamorous ways.

With their colorful array of shades and tones, grapes are picturesque in fruit compotes, fresh fruit salads, and table decorations. As a handy bunch of quick energy, grapes are convenient in lunch boxes and at snack time. For their delightful, refreshing flavor, this fruit is delicious in cooling drinks and fancy desserts.

To assure selection of the best grapes, C&MS's fruit experts suggest you look for plump, firm ones. If the grapes are for table use, make sure that they do not drop off the stems as soon as you touch them. Also, avoid grapes that are moldy and wet. High color for the variety generally indicates a well-developed sugar content and flavor.

Right now you'll find Thompson Seedless- the greenish white variety -- and the large oval red Tokay grapes in especially good supply.

GRAFENWOHR, GERMANY (AHTNC) - Army Private First Class Isaiah Mack, 21, son of Mrs. Alethie Mack, 512 W. Ada, Charleston, Mo., participated in a three-week field training exercise conducted by the 4th Armored Division in Grafenwohr, Germany.

During the exercise, which ended Aug. 27, he took part in weapons firing and tactical maneuvers as part of an Army program to maintain the combat proficiency of his unit.

Mack is a driver in Company B, Third Battalion, of the division's 51st Infantry near Erlangen, Germany.

Tiger Ride Home

BRICK TOWNSHIP, N. J. AP -- A typical Brick Township school child finishes his last class in the afternoon, then grabs a tiger home from school.

The child really takes a bus, but in order for him to identify the correct bus to take, pictures of animals have been placed in the windows of the vehicles.

"We don't want any mistakes if we can help it," School Supt. Henry E. Dux said after the opening of school Monday. "We tell the children what number their bus is but we also tell them to ride home in the rabbit bus. It works."

Our seven little questions answer your big one about which tire to buy.

A rule of thumb is the more you pay for a tire, the more you get from it. More wear, mileage, rubber, that sort of thing.

But how can you tell if you're buying more tire than you really need? Or worse, not getting enough?

Use our Tire Value Calculator. This handy little cardboard device asks seven easy questions about the way you drive. You answer the questions and the Calculator tells you which of our tires suits you best. And that will be the least expensive BFG tire we'd recommend for your driving needs.

It may not be our lowest-priced tire. But if you buy the BFG tire that's right for you, you'll still drive a good bargain.

How will you tell them that the policeman on the corner is no longer a friend--he has been replaced by a tyrant from the steppes of Asia or from the jungles of Africa? How will you tell them that the America your fathers gave to you has been lost?

What will you say when your little son, who feels you are a Marshall Dillon or a Hopalong Cassidy, asks you why you don't take a gun and go out to set things straight? What will you say when your teenager asks you what you have done to prevent this takeover? Will you tell him you played golf or went fishing or learned to waterski or worked in the garden or learned to make ceramics or hiked in the hills or a million other things, while your nation went down the drain?

What will yoy say when these children, whose lives have already been blueprinted for them, ask what they should do? How will you advise them when they ask if they should resist? What will you say if they ask you if they should continue to adore God, despite the ultimatum of the New Order? What will you do when the order comes to gather your children and ship them into State Camps where they can become robots of the State?

Communist writings openly predict that they will seize control centers, and that the great mass of population will lie prostrate. Records show that the lawless of a nation will take this opportunity to swoop down on the helpless, motivated in part by the same drive that causes looting after floods have driven people from their homes. Can you be sure that this will not happen -- especially after you read of the riots on Memorial Day in Griffith Park? There certainly was no motivation to justify attacks upon citizens and police, and the destruction of private property. How would these same people react if all law were suddenly eliminated?

Or, suppose you lived through the blood baths, and 15 years from now, your youngsters ask about the America that was. Will you tell them of the freedoms you had, the freedom to go where you wished, to do what you wished, to say what you wished? Will you tell them of the fun you had and the happiness you had? What will you say when they ask how these things happened to slip away?

Will you admit that you dismissed all efforts to halt the drift towards communism as "McCarthyism," that you helped smear everyone who tried to point out the danger?

It may seem a flight of fancy to ponder what could happen to America, but remember -- the Pentagon, charged with protecting you and yours from all dangers, foreign and domestic, has already made a study as to the best time to surrender! Ponder that!

If you are a father or mother, look at your children. If they are asleep, walk in and look at them -- peaceful, contented, trusting. Are you doing anything to prevent just such a terrifying picture as we have painted? Do you bother to inform yourself on the drift towards tyranny? Or do you plan to collaborate with the enemy, to "make friends" with the new order?

If America is to be spared this terror, it must be because her people have forbidden it. If the people will not stem the tide, then each American must face the terror that has already been visited upon Czechoslavakia, Poland, Yugoslavia, East Germany, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Manchuria, and many, many other lands.

And, Mister, what will you tell your children?

BEEF AND BACON ROLL-UPS are rolled up with just a slice of bacon rather than the usual carrot and dill pickle. The colorful, just-right sauce is made with convenient, canned tomato sauce, beef bouillon and herbs. Prepare this dish one day, serve the next with hot noodles or rice, green beans, gelatin salad, dark rye bread and fresh fruit for dessert.

Beef, Bacon Roll-Ups Are Easy to Prepare

There are several reasons for the ever-enthusiastic fan club which "Beef and Bacon Roll-Ups" enjoys. Most important it's a delicious meat and so easy to prepare. Also, the cost is modest. Round steak is so often "on sale" in your meat market.

The cook finds them an interesting dish to prepare. Many variations are possible, especially in the stuffing and saucing. One of the simplest preparations -- and one of the best in taste -- is the "Beef and Bacon Roll-Ups" here, made without the usual pickle filling, and sauced with tomato sauce, herbs and bouillon. As with the classic dish this specialty is oven-baked 2 hours.

The hurried homemaker will note this entree can be prepared a day ahead of time and baked the next day. While the roll-ups are cooking, there is plenty of time to prepare the rest of the menu--hot buttered noodles or rice, green beans, gelatin salad, dark rye bread and butter. And for dessert--coffee and fresh fruit.

BEEF AND BACON

ROLL-UPS

2 lbs. thinly sliced round steak
6 slices bacon
2 Tablesp. pure vegetable oil
1 onion, chopped
1 beef bouillon cube
1 cup hot water
3/4 Teasp. salt
2 (8-oz.) cans tomato sauce
2 Tablesp. minced parsley
1/2 Teasp. thyme
Buttered noodles or rice

Cut meat the length and width of bacon slices. Lay 1 bacon slice on each strip of meat. Roll up tight and tie with string. Brown on all sides in oil in skillet. Remove meat from skillet and place in shallow baking dish. Cook onion lightly in skillet; stir in beef bouillon cube which has been dissolved in hot water, salt, tomato sauce, parsley and thyme. Pour over meat. Cover and bake at 375 degrees for 1 hour. Remove cover and bake an additional hour. Serve with noodles or rice. Makes 6 servings.

Word comes via the grapevine - and it's true according to USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service -- that California's grape crop is likely to be about 16 per cent larger than average.

That's good news to homemakers. It probably means attractive prices, and plenty of grapes for the inspired meal planner to use in many glamorous ways.

With their colorful array of shades and tones, grapes are picturesque in fruit compotes, fresh fruit salads, and table decorations. As a handy bunch of quick energy, grapes are convenient in lunch boxes and at snack time. For their delightful, refreshing flavor, this fruit is delicious in cooling drinks and fancy desserts.

To assure selection of the best grapes, C&MS's fruit experts suggest you look for plump, firm ones. If the grapes are for table use, make sure that they do not drop off the stems as soon as you touch them. Also, avoid grapes that are moldy and wet. High color for the variety generally indicates a well-developed sugar content and flavor.

Right now you'll find Thompson Seedless- the greenish white variety -- and the large oval red Tokay grapes in especially good supply.

Armed Forces

GRAFENWOHR, GERMANY (AHTNC) - Army Private First Class Isaiah Mack, 21, son of Mrs. Alethie Mack, 512 W. Ada, Charleston, Mo., participated in a three-week field training exercise conducted by the 4th Armored Division in Grafenwohr, Germany.

During the exercise, which ended Aug. 27, he took part in weapons firing and tactical maneuvers as part of an Army program to maintain the combat proficiency of his unit.

Mack is a driver in Company B, Third Battalion, of the division's 51st Infantry near Erlangen, Germany.

Tiger Ride Home

BRICK TOWNSHIP, N. J. AP -- A typical Brick Township school child finishes his last class in the afternoon, then grabs a tiger home from school.

The child really takes a bus, but in order for him to identify the correct bus to take, pictures of animals have been placed in the windows of the vehicles.

"We don't want any mistakes if we can help it," School Supt. Henry E. Dux said after the opening of school Monday. "We tell the children what number their bus is but we also tell them to ride home in the rabbit bus. It works."

Our seven little questions answer your big one about which tire to buy.

A rule of thumb is the more you pay for a tire, the more you get from it. More wear, mileage, rubber, that sort of thing.

But how can you tell if you're buying more tire than you really need? Or worse, not getting enough?

Use our Tire Value Calculator. This handy little cardboard device asks seven easy questions about the way you drive. You answer the questions and the Calculator tells you which of our tires suits you best. And that will be the least expensive BFG tire we'd recommend for your driving needs.

It may not be our lowest-priced tire. But if you buy the BFG tire that's right for you, you'll still drive a good bargain.

Today In U. S. History

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 14, the 257th day of 1966. There are 108 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1901, President William McKinley died from wounds he received from an assassin's revolver on Sept. 6.

On this date:

In 1628, Salem, the second settlement in Massachusetts, was chartered by John Endecott.

In 1778, Benjamin Franklin was sent to France as American minister plenipotentiary.

In 1923, Jack Dempsey knocked out Luis Angelo Firpo in two rounds of a heavyweight championship fight in New York City.

In 1940, Congress passed the Selective Service and Training Act.

In 1943, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced that American and Australia forces had captured the air-naval base of Salamaua, New Guinea.

The years ago — Egypt took over full operation of the Suez Canal after more than 90 foreign pilots and some 400 other non-Egyptian employes quit their posts on the waterway.

Five years ago—The Western Big Four foreign ministers met in Washington to discuss the Berlin crisis.

One year ago—Pope Paul VI told the opening of the fourth and final session of the Vatican Ecumenical Council that he plans to establish a synod of Catholic bishops who would consult with him in the governing of the church.

Doctors Seek To Rejoin Boy's Severed Leg

BOSTON (AP) — Doctors at Boston City Hospital have rejoined the severed left leg of an 18-year-old boy and are watching to see if the heroic effort will succeed.

To date, no attempt to rejoin a severed leg is known to have fully succeeded. It is believed that the first successful reattachment of a human limb occurred in 1962 at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston when surgeons rejoined the right arm of 12-year-old Everett (Red) Knowles.

The battle to save the leg of Jan Dangora began Sept. 1 when his left leg was cut off eight inches below the knee in a motorcycle - automobile collision. Only a small portion of skin connected the two parts of Jan's leg.

It's still to early to know if the replant will work—and that means not only healing but restoration of function and feel to some useful degree.

It was learned, however, that blood circulation has been fully restored.

His condition remains delicate and the fight for his recovery can be said to be only beginning, with the risk of secondary complications not yet out of the picture.

Details of the surgery and a progress report are expected to be presented later this week.

The complex surgery requires a nearly perfect application of known traumatic surgical techniques and refined blood vessel, bone and muscle rejoining as well as delicate attention to nerves.

John Dempsey Dies Last Night

John J. Dempsey, 77, 1407 East Gladys, a retired federal employe, died at his home Tuesday night at 11:25 p.m., after an illness of four years.

He was born in St. Louis, Nov. 6, 1888, son of Frank and Catherine Dempsey.

He had lived in Sikeston 19 years and served in the navy in World War I.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Callie Hibbs Dempsey; three stepdaughters, Mrs. Myrtle Green, Mrs. Stella Slayton, Walnut Ridge, Ark., Mrs. Ina Mason, Fenton; one stepson, Everett Decker, Gobler; five nieces and nephews, all of St. Louis.

Minutes later, Conrad reported: "We're in the spun-up station-keeping right now."

"I'm down to 10 feet from the end," Conrad had said while reporting difficulty pulling out the tether.

"I hit it very lightly but it really upset the Agena. It's hung up on the right hand hold."

A few minutes later he reported the cord was completely free and the two spacecraft were spinning like a cartwheel through space in a formation-flying test.

"I'm having a hard time station-keeping with it," he added.

"We're on top of the world!" Conrad shouted as Gemini 11 rode the power of the Agena engine to an altitude of 850 miles above the earth over eastern Australia early today. The old mark was 476 miles by Gemini 10.

"Utterly fantastic. The world is round," Conrad said.

After twice reaching the record height, they again fired the Agena to lower the spacecraft to its original orbit, ranging from 180 to 190 miles high.

Gordon then opened his hatch and poked the upper half of his body into space to photograph the stars in a scientific experiment.

It was an easy, slow-moving task, allowing the astronauts plenty of rest during Gordon's two hours eight minutes outside.

"We both took a cat nap—dozed off a few minutes," Conrad reported.

"That's a space first—sleeping in a vacuum," mission control center told him.

Counting his shortened 44-minute space walk Tuesday, Gordon racked up a record for most time outside or partly outside a space craft—two hours and 52 minutes.

At 12:32 p.m., EDT the astronauts began the unique tether experiment with the Agena, expected to last more than three hours.

Conrad undocked from the Agena and slowly backed away until the 100-foot line finally was pulled taut between the two vehicles. Gordon had hooked up the two-inch thick nylon line during his space walk—one of the work assignments that caused him to become overexerted, forcing an early end to the stroll.

The astronauts want to learn if this is an effective means of flying formation with a satellite with little or no use of fuel.

Such capability might be required in the future on space rescue or repair missions in which a manned spacecraft might have to hover for long periods near another satellite.

It also might be a means of towing or tugging a satellite from one place to another in space.

When the astronauts first separated and started pulling the line out of the Agena, Conrad reported "the tether is not flapping at all. It's behaving very nicely.

"We kind of upset the Agena a little bit when we pulled out the tether," he added. "It's hung up in the bag. I've got about 50 feet out. I'm jerking it a little bit. It's hung up on the right hand hold. We've got it coming out the rest of the way."

He said later that the skip-rope effect was settling down.

"We're spinning after a fashion," he said. "We've got it spun up at about 45 degrees out of the orbital plane."

Later he said: "The tether is maintaining tension at all times. I'm impressed.

"By golly, we are oscillating. There was a great deal of slack in the tether when we started. But the tether seems to have constant tension in it."

Getting Your Money Back

BILLIONS OF DOLLARS are deducted from payrolls or collected from other income-tax payments every year by the Federal Government. What happens to the money in terms of direct benefit to one's community or city or State? How much of it goes to help pay for facilities or projects in other States? And how long can the States raise enough money through local taxes to pay for the many projects that are necessary to meet the needs of a growing population?

These questions have in large part gone unanswered. But at last there is a growing realization that federal revenues should be distributed so as to supplement State and city funds.

This is not a problem which can be solved by political partisanship. Both parties should recognize their obligation to propose a formula which would bring about an equitable distribution of public funds to promote the social welfare of America.

The Republican Party, in a search for better ways to meet the increasing demands of present-day life, has now offered a program that might well be called "constructive federalism." But the plan might also have been suggested by the Democratic Party. It is to be hoped that eventually the two parties will join together to accept the principles of a new federalism.

The Republican Coordinating Committee, which has just adopted a comprehensive plan that shows what can be done to develop a better financial relationship between the federal, State and city governments, is composed of many men who have distinguished themselves in the field of public service. The Committee includes prominent members of Congress, Governors of several States, mayors of cities, former President Eisenhower and recent nominees of the Republican Party for the presidency -- Messrs. Landon, Dewey, Nixon and Goldwater. The Chairman of the Task Force that drafted the plan is Robert Taft, Jr., a former member of the House of Representatives and a son of the late Senator Taft. The principal recommendation says:

"We therefore propose a system to share the personal and corporate income taxes collected by the national government with the States. Under this plan, one-half of each State's share would be computed on the basis of returning income tax collections to the State in which they originated. The other half of each State's share would be computed in a way which will provide some measure of fiscal equalization.

"We recognize that some States are wealthy, while others are in serious need. Equalization cannot altogther alleviate fiscal inequities among the States but no plan of revenue sharing is feasible unless some degree of equalization is included. The equalizing formula should be simple and could be based upon population and per capita income levels.

"Equalization grants should be made only to the States which themselves contribute a fair proportion of their per capita incomes to the costs of their own State and local services. This fair proportion should be defined in the statute. Grants to any State should be reduced proportionately if the State and its local units do not apply an adequate amount of State and local tax revenue."

The plan calls for refunds to the State in a gradually increasing percentage every year. The program favors a minimum of supervisory controls by the Federal Government so as to free the State and local governments from "the maze of regulations, paperwork, red tape, and restrictions which hamper them in their efforts to serve their citizens."

It is urged that the Governors be consulted before Congress passes any measure affecting their States. They would be given a voice but not a veto.

The present system of federal grants to States is criticized as follows:

"Reliance on specific grant in aid programs controlled from Washington is not the answer. At the worst, the States will continue to sink into a morass of financial inadequacy and eventual bankruptcy. At best, they will become mere administrative appendages of the national government."

The new plan can be expected to develop a greater sense of responsibility among the States and local units. The future estimated in "staggering" sums by the Committee.

America must strengthen State and local governments and not let them be swallowed up in a vast federal bureaucracy.

More than ever in coming years there will be need for refunds of tax money to the States to take care of problems involving mental health, education, water-pollution control, highways and other projects that can mean much to the life of the nation.

When these reforms are put into effect, we may be able to enjoy the benefits of a truly great society, paid for by the earnings of its citizens and their creative enterprises. The time indeed has come for a constructive federalism.

Sheppard Seeks Venue Change

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) - Attorneys for Samuel H. Sheppard filed a motion today asking that his second murder trial, scheduled to begin here Oct. 18, be moved out of Cleveland.

Judge Roy F. McMahon said he would decide later whether to hold an oral hearing on the change of venue motion or to receive briefs and rule after studying them.

Sheppard has pleaded innocent to the second-degree murder charge in the bludgeon death of his first wife, Marilyn, on July 4, 1954, at their home in suburban Bay Village.

A jury of seven men and five women convicted him Dec. 21, 1954 after a nine-week trial here, and he served nearly 10 years of a life sentence in Ohio Penitentiary.

The 42-year-old former osteopath was freed July 16, 1964, by U.S. District Judge Carl A. Weinman of Dayton, Ohio on a habeas corpus action on grounds Sheppard's constitutional right to a fair trial had been denied.

William Henry Harrison was the only son of a signer of the Declaration of Independence to become president.

William Howard Taft was secretary of war in President Theodore Roosevelt's cabinet from 1904-08 before becoming President in 1909.

Judge Roy F. McMahon said he would decide later whether to hold an oral hearing on the change of venue motion or to receive briefs and rule after studying them.

Sheppard has pleaded innocent to the second-degree murder charge in the bludgeon death of his first wife, Marilyn, on July 4, 1954, at their home in suburban Bay Village.

A jury of seven men and five women convicted him Dec. 21, 1954 after a nine-week trial here, and he served nearly 10 years of a life sentence in Ohio Penitentiary.

The 42-year-old former osteopath was freed July 16, 1964, by U.S. District Judge Carl A. Weinman of Dayton, Ohio on a habeas corpus action on grounds Sheppard's constitutional right to a fair trial had been denied.

William Henry Harrison was the only son of a signer of the Declaration of Independence to become president.

William Howard Taft was secretary of war in President Theodore Roosevelt's cabinet from 1904-08 before becoming President in 1909.

Miss Shirley Bowden Is Wed to Charles R. Brown

ST. LOUIS -- On Aug. 20, at 3 p.m. Miss Shirley Jean Bowden, daughter of former Charlestonians Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Bowden, now of St. Louis, was married to Charles Robert Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glover Brown, Jefferson City.

The wedding, a double ring ceremony, was held at the Cote Brilliante Presbyterian church, with the Rev. William Gillespie officiating.

The church was decorated with seven-tiered candelabra, two altar baskets of white and yellow roses, ferns, and an altar of assorted flowers.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white silk peau de soie gown with a scoop neckline and short sleeves. It featured a high-rise bodice of Alencon lace with pearl trim. The full-length detachable train was designed with appliqued Alencon lace and pearl trim at the end. The finger-tip veil was of lace and petal clustered three tier nylon tulle. She carried a cascade of orchids, stephanotis, and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Beverly Lewis of Anderson, Ind., served as matron of honor. Her gown of deep gold peau de soie in a full-length empire style was trimmed in Alencon lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of deep yellow carnations and roses. Her veil was deep peau de soie and illusion.

Her bridesmaids were Miss Jacqueline Wright and Miss Yvonne Willis of St. Louis, Miss Betty Hill of Kansas City, Mrs. Gwendolyn Reed and Mrs. Barbara Roland of St. Louis, and Mrs. Joyce Webb of Jefferson City.

The bridesmaids gowns of full-length empire design were of bright golden peau de soie trimmed in white Alencon lace. Headpieces were yellow peau de soie roses held by a pale yellow illusion veil.

The bridesmaids carried cascade bouquets of yellow and white mums and carnations.

The flower girl was little Miss Giselle Pickett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Pickett, who wore a white floor-length lace-trimmed silk organza gown and veil identical to those of the bridesmaids. She scattered daisy petals from a decorated basket.

Brown chose his brother, Arthur Brown, as his best man. The groomsmen were Raymond Thorpe, Helton Reed, Wilbur Thomas, and Lloyd Conley, Ronald Coleman and Frank Days of Jefferson City.

The ushers were Johnny Roland, Robert Lay and John Brooks, and Russell Davis, cousin of the bride, of Anniston, Ind.

Mrs. Bowden, mother of the bride, wore an ensemble of beige lace, with a small feathered hat and beige peau de soie accessories. The groom's mother wore a dress of beige lace with brown accessories. Both mothers wore orchid corsages.

The organist was Mrs. Harriet Lee and Miss Gladys Buck was soloist. She sang "Ava Maria" and "The Lord's Prayer," the latter used as the benediction.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Downtown Motor Inn, hosted by relatives and close friends of the bride and groom.

Before the wedding Miss Bowden was the guest of honor at several luncheons and showers. Her rehearsal supper was held at the home of Mrs. Lola Edwards, 5893 Kennerly Aye.

Charleston relatives and friends attending the wedding were William H. Bowden, grandfather of the bride, and Mrs. Willie Pettigrew, aunt of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Barrett, Mrs. Mary Lawrence, Mrs. Addie Hamilton, Mrs. Myrene Moss and Willie Davis.

For her wedding trip to the Lake of the Ozarks, the bride wore a yellow suit of raw silk with matching accessories. Her white orchid corsage was from her bouquet.

After the wedding trip the couple will live in Columbia, where Mrs. Brown is an elementary school teacher in the public school system and Brown, a senior at the University of Missouri, is a member of the varsity football team.

Honey - Dew From The Stars

"Dew distilled from the stars and the rainbow," that's how the ancient Greek philosopher Aristotle referred to honey.

Today, honey offers all the same fine qualities which made it such an idolized sweetener in ancient times.

Choose, for example, from the wide variety of flavors, aromas and colors of honey on the market. These characteristics vary with the kind of flowers from which the nectar was gathered.

As a rule, the lightest colored honeys are the mildest, explains the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service. And well over half the honey produced in this country is light-colored, mild-flavored sweetclover, clover or alfalfa honey.

Blends of flavors are numerous.

Distinctively flavored honeys from citrus trees, wild sage, buckwheat and other blossoms also are available. Buckwheat is considered probably the darkest table variety.

This ready-to-use sweetener is available in different forms, too. Most honey marketed in the U.S. is extracted-removed from the comb and offered in a liquid or spreadable form. But in-the-comb honey is popular as well.

Try honey to accent or enhance the flavor of many other foods. Remember to use mild-flavored honey for bland dishes; stronger, darker honey for more highly flavored dishes.

HONEY "DEW" RECIPES

HONEY FRENCH DRESSING

1 10-1/2 ounce can tomato soup
1/2 cup honey
3/4 cup vinegar
1/4 cup water
2 cups salad oil
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon black pepper
1/2 teaspoon paprika

Thoroughly combine ingredients in order given, using an electric mixer, or a blender. Refrigerate and allow flavors to blend at least 24 hours before serving. Keep refrigerated! Excellent as a topper for head lettuce, halves of avocado, raw and cooked salad vegetables. (Tasty with blue cheese crumbles added.) Makes 1 quart.

HONEY CUBES

1/2 c. honey,
2 c. hot water
2 tblsp. lemon juice

Pour hot water into honey, stirring to blend. Add lemon juice. Pour into ice cube trays, and allow to cool slightly before placing in the freezer. Serve in cube form or crushed by adding to chilled tea or fruit punch.

FROZEN LEMON CREAM PIE

3 egg yolks
1 tblsp. grated lemon rind
1/4 c. lemon juice
1/4 c. honey
3 egg whites
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 c. honey
1 c. whipping cream
1/4 tsp. vanilla extract
2/3 c. vanilla wafer crumbs

In saucepan, combine egg yolks, lemon rind and 1/4 cup honey. Gradually add lemon juice, stirring until smooth. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened (about 5 minutes). Beat egg whites with salt until they hold their shape. Continue beating and slowly drizzle in 1/4 cup honey. Beat meringue until stiff, adding vanilla extract. Fold whipped cream into cooked mixture. Sprinkle half the cookie crumbs over bottom of pie shell. Add filling. Cover top with remaining crumbs. Freeze until firm. Cut into squares or wedges for serving. Makes 1 8-inch pie (6 servings.)

"JUST PLUM GOOD"

The well-appreciated plum has passed into American slang as something "satisfying" or a "job in recognition for good service." Many foods are described as "just plum good," or "he got a plum for working thirty years."

Along with apples, oranges, and peaches, plums are one of the more important fruits in America. The growing areas use various blendings of native, Chinese, Japanese or European.

In season, generally late May to mid-September, plums are one of the more eye-catching fruits on the market. California and Michigan are the principal producers. Idaho, Oregon, and Washington are commercial producers of "purple plums" also called fresh prunes. Shipments are widely distributed and they are generally available to consumers in all parts of the country.

Plums of good quality are fresh in appearance, full colored for the variety, and soft sure. Softening at the tip of the plum is a good sign of maturity. Immature fruit is hard.

Plums are excellent eaten out of hand. They have a refreshing tart sweetness, and are excellent in pies, stewed dishes, preserves, jellies, and jam. They're also tasty in ice cream, puddings, Bavarian creams, cakes and tarts.

Try adding a delightful note to your menu suggests the U.S. Department of Agriculture, by putting plums high on your marketing list.

RECIPES

FRESH PLUM FRITTERS

14 fresh plums
1 1/3 c. sifted flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1/4 tsp. salt
1 tblsp. sugar
1 c. evaporated milk
1 egg
Vegetable oil for frying

Wash and drain plums. Cut into halves and remove pits. Pour vegetable oil into electric frypan to a depth of 1 inch and preheat to 360 degrees F. Meanwhile, sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together into a small mixing bowl. Mix evaporated milk and egg thoroughly using a whisk or fork. Add to flour mixture, mixing only until dry ingredients become moistened. Dip each plum half into batter so that it is well coated, then fry in hot fat until golden brown, about 3 to 5 minutes on each side. Remove from pan and drain on paper toweling. Serve hot with syrup or dust with confectioners sugar, if desired. Makes 28 fritters.

FRESH PLUM PUDDING

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/2 cup milk
3 tablespoons shortening melted
2 cups sliced fresh plums
1 cup sugar
1 cup boiling water

Sift the flour, 1/2 c. sugar, salt and baking powder into a mixing bowl. Add milk and melted shortening. Beat until well blended. Turn into a greased 8x8x2 inch baking pan. Cover with the sliced plums and sprinkle with 1 cup sugar. Pour boiling water over all. Bake in a preheated moderate oven at 375 degrees F. 45 minutes or until well done. Serve warm, with cream, if desired. Yield: 6 servings.

SPUD-TACULAR RECIPES

HASH BROWNED -- Add chopped cooked potatoes to a little fat in a frying pan. Season with salt and pepper. Moisten with water -- about 1/4 cup for 4 cups potatoes. Cook over low heat until brown on the bottom -- don't stir. Serve folded in half. Serves Six.

SOUFFLE -- for leftovers-- To two cups of seasoned mashed potatoes add 1 tablesppon each of minced parsley and green onion and about 1-3 cup grated cheese. Beat in 4 well-beaten egg yolks, and then fold in 4 stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a 1 1/2 quart casserole and bake at 350 degrees F. for 30 to 35 minutes. Serve piping hot as accompanied to seafood and broiled fish platter.

POTATO CANDY -- Sieve 1 cup of mashed potatoes, combine with 3 cups sifted powdered sugar. Add 8 ounces shredded coconut with 1/4 teaspoon salt. Mix thoroughly. Shape into tiny balls and dip into melted semi-sweet chocolate. Chill on waxed paper.

ESCALLOPED CELERY AND POTATOES -- Combine diced white potatoes with finely diced celery. Alternate layers of potato and celery with medium thick white sauce in a well-buttered casserole. Sprinkle each layer with salt and pepper. Pour remaining sauce over all. Cover with cornflakes. Dot with butter. Bake in moderate oven until potatoes are tender.

Distinctively flavored honeys from citrus trees, wild sage, buckwheat and other blossoms also are available. Buckwheat is considered probably the darkest table variety.

This ready-to-use sweetener is available in different forms, too. Most honey marketed in the U.S. is extracted-removed from the comb and offered in a liquid or spreadable form. But in-the-comb honey is popular as well.

Try honey to accent or enhance the flavor of many other foods. Remember to use mild-flavored honey for bland dishes; stronger, darker honey for more highly flavored dishes.

HONEY "DEW" RECIPES

HONEY FRENCH DRESSING

1 10-1/2 ounce can tomato soup
1/2 cup honey
3/4 cup vinegar
1/4 cup water
2 cups salad oil
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon black pepper
1/2 teaspoon paprika

Thoroughly combine ingredients in order given, using an electric mixer, or a blender. Refrigerate and allow flavors to blend at least 24 hours before serving. Keep refrigerated! Excellent as a topper for head lettuce, halves of avocado, raw and cooked salad vegetables. (Tasty with blue cheese crumbles added.) Makes 1 quart.

HONEY CUBES

1/2 c. honey,
2 c. hot water
2 tblsp. lemon juice

Pour hot water into honey, stirring to blend. Add lemon juice. Pour into ice cube trays, and allow to cool slightly before placing in the freezer. Serve in cube form or crushed by adding to chilled tea or fruit punch.

FROZEN LEMON CREAM PIE

3 egg yolks
1 tblsp. grated lemon rind
1/4 c. lemon juice
1/4 c. honey
3 egg whites
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 c. honey
1 c. whipping cream
1/4 tsp. vanilla extract
2/3 c. vanilla wafer crumbs

In saucepan, combine egg yolks, lemon rind and 1/4 cup honey. Gradually add lemon juice, stirring until smooth. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened (about 5 minutes). Beat egg whites with salt until they hold their shape. Continue beating and slowly drizzle in 1/4 cup honey. Beat meringue until stiff, adding vanilla extract. Fold whipped cream into cooked mixture. Sprinkle half the cookie crumbs over bottom of pie shell. Add filling. Cover top with remaining crumbs. Freeze until firm. Cut into squares or wedges for serving. Makes 1 8-inch pie (6 servings.)

"JUST PLUM GOOD"

The well-appreciated plum has passed into American slang as something "satisfying" or a "job in recognition for good service." Many foods are described as "just plum good," or "he got a plum for working thirty years."

Along with apples, oranges, and peaches, plums are one of the more important fruits in America. The growing areas use various blendings of native, Chinese, Japanese or European.

In season, generally late May to mid-September, plums are one of the more eye-catching fruits on the market. California and Michigan are the principal producers. Idaho, Oregon, and Washington are commercial producers of "purple plums" also called fresh prunes. Shipments are widely distributed and they are generally available to consumers in all parts of the country.

Plums of good quality are fresh in appearance, full colored for the variety, and soft sure. Softening at the tip of the plum is a good sign of maturity. Immature fruit is hard.

Plums are excellent eaten out of hand. They have a refreshing tart sweetness, and are excellent in pies, stewed dishes, preserves, jellies, and jam. They're also tasty in ice cream, puddings, Bavarian creams, cakes and tarts.

Try adding a delightful note to your menu suggests the U.S. Department of Agriculture, by putting plums high on your marketing list.

RECIPES

FRESH PLUM FRITTERS

14 fresh plums
1 1/3 c. sifted flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1/4 tsp. salt
1 tblsp. sugar
1 c. evaporated milk
1 egg
Vegetable oil for frying

Wash and drain plums. Cut into halves and remove pits. Pour vegetable oil into electric frypan to a depth of 1 inch and preheat to 360 degrees F. Meanwhile, sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together into a small mixing bowl. Mix evaporated milk and egg thoroughly using a whisk or fork. Add to flour mixture, mixing only until dry ingredients become moistened. Dip each plum half into batter so that it is well coated, then fry in hot fat until golden brown, about 3 to 5 minutes on each side. Remove from pan and drain on paper toweling. Serve hot with syrup or dust with confectioners sugar, if desired. Makes 28 fritters.

FRESH PLUM PUDDING

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/2 cup milk
3 tablespoons shortening melted
2 cups sliced fresh plums
1 cup sugar
1 cup boiling water

Sift the flour, 1/2 c. sugar, salt and baking powder into a mixing bowl. Add milk and melted shortening. Beat until well blended. Turn into a greased 8x8x2 inch baking pan. Cover with the sliced plums and sprinkle with 1 cup sugar. Pour boiling water over all. Bake in a preheated moderate oven at 375 degrees F. 45 minutes or until well done. Serve warm, with cream, if desired. Yield: 6 servings.

SPUD-TACULAR RECIPES

HASH BROWNED -- Add chopped cooked potatoes to a little fat in a frying pan. Season with salt and pepper. Moisten with water -- about 1/4 cup for 4 cups potatoes. Cook over low heat until brown on the bottom -- don't stir. Serve folded in half. Serves Six.

SOUFFLE - for leftovers-- To two cups of seasoned mashed potatoes add 1 tablesppon each of minced parsley and green onion and about 1-3 cup grated cheese. Beat in 4 well-beaten egg yolks, and then fold in 4 stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a 1 1/2 quart casserole and bake at 350 degrees F. for 30 to 35 minutes. Serve piping hot as accompanied to seafood and broiled fish platter.

POTATO CANDY -- Sieve 1 cup of mashed potatoes, combine with 3 cups sifted powdered sugar. Add 8 ounces shredded coconut with 1/4 teaspoon salt. Mix thoroughly. Shape into tiny balls and dip into melted semi-sweet chocolate. Chill on waxed paper.

ESCALLOPED CELERY AND POTATOES -- Combine diced white potatoes with finely diced celery. Alternate layers of potato and celery with medium thick white sauce in a well-buttered casserole. Sprinkle each layer with salt and pepper. Pour remaining sauce over all. Cover with cornflakes. Dot with butter. Bake in moderate oven until potatoes are tender.

20-MINUTE SOUTH seas fillets are fish fillets--unbelievably good in a spicy, sweet-sour sauce made with tomato sauce, brown sugar, soy, ginger and other ingredients. Actually the flavor is exotic but the ingredients are familiar in every kitchen. Serve with chive-buttered rice, buttered peas, papaya salad and hot tea.

20-Minute South Seas Fillets Have Exotic Flavor

Fish cocked with a tart-sweet sauce is no stranger to the people of the Orient and South Seas. American kitchens might appreciate this exciting flavor more if they served these "20 Minute South Seas Fillets" occasionally.

This interesting recipe will inject new life into your menus, too. Serve it with halibut fillets one week; swordfish the next. It makes a delectable sauce with scallops, shrimp, crab or lobster.

Be sure to follow the recipe directions explicitly as to cooking time; fish should never be overcooked. It's "done" when you can flake it with the tines of a fork. Also, the green peppers should be only crisp-done, not limp. Convenient, canned tomato sauce furnishes lively taste as well as rich color.

The rest of the menu is not difficult and can be prepared as the fish simmers: chive-buttered rice, buttered peas, papaya salad, hot tea and cookies.

20-MINUTE SOUTH SEAS FILLETS
1 lb. fish fillets
Salt
2 Tablesp. pure vegetable oil
1 onion, chopped
1 green pepper, sliced
½ cup blanched slivered almonds
1 (13-½-oz.) can pineapple tidbits, undrained
2 (8-oz.) cans tomato sauce
1 Tablesp. brown sugar
1 Tablesp. Worcestershire sauce
1 Tablesp. soy sauce
2 teasp. cornstarch
1 teasp. ginger

Sprinkle fish with salt; lightly brown on both sides in oil in skillet. Add onion, green pepper and almonds and saute lightly. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over fillets. Cover and simmer 20 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

COFFEE CORNER by Cherie

Isn't it delightful---at last all the new T.V. shows are starting and we can quit staring glassy-eyed at re-runs---and new re-runs at that. I never could figure out why they repeated the shows that have just finished playing that winter, all summer again, I mean T. V. has been around for quite a few years now, and I wouldn't mind looking at some of the shows of several years ago, would you? But oh no, what do we see---the same dern things we were looking at just about two months ago, and still just as rotten as they were then. Remember the detective series Martin Kane? We use to watch that before the reception was very good in this area, and I guess I'll go through life frustrated by all the endings on those who-dunits I never did get to see, cause a plane would go over or somebody would be shaving and the picture as well as the sound would just disappear into limbo. Or, didn't you just love Playhouse 90, Father Knows Best, and a whole raft of others that for some reason seemed much fresher than todays material. Anyway, I sat down and begin to view what T.V. land had in store for us this year, and actually what I've seen hasn't been quite as bad as usual. I plopped my two down in front of Tarzan, and this will really kill you, got so carried away with it I never did get in and get the dishes done. To be perfectly honest, I'm not sure if it was the series itself, or that yummy Ron Ely, that stars as Tarzan, (what I'd give to be a plain Jane). One thing I know for sure, the kids of today don't know what they've got! Here I wasted the best years of my life looing at Johnney Weismuller and look at what this younger generation is getting! After admiring Ron a while, I immediately decided to put Charles on a strict starvation diet, oh what a lovely waistline that lad has, (I'm sure you know which lad I mean). Then, I was glad to see all the cute childrens shows that are going to be on, and if my kids will only shut up and let me watch them I know they'll be greatly enjoyed! Actually, T. V. leaves an awful lot to be desired, but I've decided so does an evening of conversation with my family, so I'll just flip the dial, turn up the sound, and settle down to a long winter alternating between children screaming, animals roaring, guns blazing, and children screaming, (with me there seems to be that sound perpetually in the background of all shows, T V or otherwise), and ladies don't forget Tuesday nights. Just look at your husband and laugh! I think this is great, I'm so tired of hearing men spout about all these lush ladies with the lovely figures that flip on and off our screens these days in scant attire, now we can turn the tables and drool over the nice trim waistlines and massive pectoral muscles that some men are in possession of as they swing from branch to branch.

Hey, now that fall is arriving I think you need a good pumpkin pie receipe, and this one is the BEST!! Also, it's guaranted to ruin your husband's waist line, so don't give him any---make it and ship it direct to Ron Ely, Hollywood, California.

BEST PUMPKIN PIE
Mix together:
2 cups of heated pumpkin
1/4 cup of melted butter
1/2 cup of milk
1/4 cup of heavy cream

Add two beaten eggs and then mix together with the dry ingredients which have been sifted together.
1 TBS. flour
1/2 tsp. of cinnamon
1 tsp. of nutmeg
1/2 tsp. of cloves
1/2 tsp. of salt
1 cup of brown sugar firmly packed to make that cup. Mix well and pour into a 10-inch pie shell, (unbaked), and bake at 425 degrees, for 45-60 minutes. Cool and top with whipped cream. Hint: when baking pie shells for any length of time, always cover the edge crust with strips of foil paper until the pie is almost done, then remove the strips and allow the edges to brown. This only takes a minute to do and keeps the crust from burning around the sides.

NATURE'S PEARFECTION

Whoever said "Beauty is only skin deep" certainly wasn't referring to the Bartlett pear! This golden beauty tastes as luscious inside as it looks on the outside.

Beneath its smooth silky-skinned coat, which ranges from green to a rich yellow in color, you'll find a creamy white, fine-textured meat-guaranteed to be delicious. Endowed by Nature with plenty of vitamins A, B1, and C and a generous portion of minerals, this bell-shaped fruit is "PEARfect" for summer meal enchantment.

However, don't be swayed into believing that color is a reliable guide to ripeness. Since pears are picked before they ripen, it is often necessary to allow the 'butter fruit' to ripen at home. Allow them to stand at ordinary room temperature until a simple touch test proves them fully ripe. If the pear responds to gentle hand pressure, just as a ripe peach does, it is ready for eating.

But warmth is required to bring these pears to full-flavored goodness, so don't hold them in the refrigerator until they pass the test.

If the expected crop of Bartlett pears from three Pacific Coast States is realized, it will exceed last year's yield by 80 per cent, says USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service.

So for nutrition's sake as well as taste appeal, buy some firm, juicy Bartletts today -- they're just PEARfect!

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Is Newfoundland an independent British colony?

A—No. In 1949, Newfoundland became the tenth province of Canada.

Q—For what purpose was the Liberty Bell originally ordered?

A—It was ordered to commemorate a declaration called the William Penn Charter of Privileges, issued in 1701. The bell was to be used to celebrate the 50th anniversary of that charter in 1751.

A CALL FOR COURAGE IN HANDLING UNREST

A speech in the House of Representatives denouncing rioting and violence won a standing ovation from Republicans and Democrats alike for veteran legislator Howard W. Smith.

Mr. Smith, the 83-year-old Virginian who has served continuously in the House since 1931, was narrowly defeated in a Democratic primary in July. On July 25, Mr. Smith, the chairman of the House Rules Committee for 11 years, had this to say in the debate on the civil-rights bill ---

"I was deeply distressed to hear the speech of my old friend from New York, the chairman of the Judiciary Committee, Emanuel Celler (Dem.), of New York, when he argued with the House that, instead of standing up and voting for what we believe in and doing what our oath of office requires us to do, we tremble in our seats and yield to the fear of the Negro revolution."

IF FEAR IS TO RULE ---

"If that is the kind of spirit that has come to this country, and we are going to operate in the Congress on the theory of fear, on the theory of violence, on the theory of mobs and so forth, then this is not the place to which I was first elected.

"I was distressed to hear all this talk about operating not on the righteousness of causes, but operating on the fear of this revolution that has been encouraged from high places, until it has reached the point that unless somebody shows some courage, in this Congress and elsewhere, we are going to have a situation where we operate under the threat of political reprisals and revolutionary emotions.

"I was distressed when I saw the President address a joint session of this Congress, and I heard him adopt the war cry of a Negro revolution - 'We shall overcome; we shall overcome' -- repeated time and again, when we were about to consider a civil-rights law.

"And I was deeply distressed to see members of the Supreme Court sitting on those front seats, hearing discussed and advocated a piece of legislation the constitutionality of which they would soon be called upon to pass upon, applauding -- applauding the revolutionary call that 'we shall overcome.'

"I was distressed a few days ago to see in the press, and not refuted, the statement by the Vice President of the United States that if he lived in a tenement, in the ghettos of the cities, on the second floor, he would have the spirit to 'lead a revolt.'

"What are we going to have next? . . . .

"My friends, the political fates have decreed that when this Congress adjourns I will leave you. I have few personal regrets about that, but I do hate to leave you with the spirit that seems to prevail and about which you are exhorted daily -- 'Do this or the

Creative cooks find peanut butter is one of the most versatile, nourishing and economical foods in their kitchens.

There are numerous ways to use this protein-packed spread, besides in sandwich filling.

As a spread for crackers, it's compatible with a variety of jams, jellies, cheese, some meats, various fruits and even a few vegetables.

As a dip for chips, it gives increased interest to sour cream [illegible] specialties.

As a flavoring agent, there are few limits to this flexible favorite. As a sauce for many meats, fish and poulty dishes, atop a baked potato or ice cream, on biscuits, muffins and in cookies and cakes, peanut butter adds its own texture and appeal.

Beyond its versatility, peanut butter also is extremely nourishing. It's rich in protein, high in food energy, and has some important vitamins --- especially the B vitamins.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service reports a plentiful supply of this "triple-threat" favorite on the market right now, which usually means you're likely to find attractive prices. Take advantage by putting peanut butter at the top of your next shopping list. It's bound to please the whole family.

"GOOBER" RECIPES

PEANUT BUTTER BROWNIES
1/2 cups sifted flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup crunchy style peanut butter
1/4 cut butter or margarine
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 eggs, unbeaten
1 cup chopped peanuts

Mix and sift flour and salt. Cream peanut butter, butter and vanilla. Add sugar gradually, creaming until well blended. Add eggs 1 at a time, beating well after each addition. Blend in flour. Stir in peanuts. Spoon into greased 8-inch square cake pan. Spread evenly. Bake at 350° F., 30 to 35 minutes, or until center is firm. Cool in pan 5 minutes. Cut into squares.

JIFFY PEANUT BUTTER ICE CREAM
1/2 cup crunchy-style peanut butter
1/3 cup chopped peanuts
2 pints vanilla ice cream

Blend peanut butter and peanuts into slightly softened ice cream. Place in refrigerator trays, cover with foil. Freeze until firm.

STUFFED SWEET POTATOES -PEANUT BUTTER
4 medium-sized baked sweet potatoes
2/3 cup milk
1/2 cup peanut butter
1/4 teaspoon salt
Pepper
1/3 cup chopped salted peanuts

Cut hot baked sweet potatoes in half and remove potato from shells. Mash thoroughly. Add milk, peanut butter and seasonings. Beat until fluffy and refill shells. Sprinkle chopped peanuts on top. Brown on baking sheet in 425 degree oven.

EXHIBITS FROM 15 STATES TO BE AT MID-SOUTH FAIR

Fifteen states are now represented in exhibitors for the 1966 Mid-South Fair.

Varied exhibits from shoe polish to the latest inventions in the field of electronics will be on display in five exhibit buildings and numerous outside spaces Sept. 23 - Oct. 1.

Fair officials stated that nowhere else in the Mid-South can business firms promote their products and services to so many persons in such a short time. For this reason exhibitors from all over the United States come in to take advantage of the opportunity of promotion through the Mid-South Fair.

States represented are Alabama, Arkansas, Idaho, Illinois, Kansas, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Missouri, New York, Ohio, Tennessee, Texas, Washington, D.C., and Wisconsin.

The chronic knocker usually winds up taking the rap.

This only takes a minute to do and keeps the crust from burning around the sides.

NATURE'S PEARFECTION

Whoever said "Beauty is only skin deep" certainly wasn't referring to the Bartlett pear! This golden beauty tastes as luscious inside as it looks on the outside.

Beneath its smooth silky-skinned coat, which ranges from green to a rich yellow in color, you'll find a creamy white, fine-textured meat-guaranteed to be delicious. Endowed by Nature with plenty of vitamins A, B1, and C and a generous portion of minerals, this bell-shaped fruit is "PEARfect" for summer meal enchantment.

However, don't be swayed into believing that color is a reliable guide to ripeness. Since pears are picked before they ripen, it is often necessary to allow the 'butter fruit' to ripen at home. Allow them to stand at ordinary room temperature until a simple touch test proves them fully ripe. If the pear responds to gentle hand pressure, just as a ripe peach does, it is ready for eating.

But warmth is required to bring these pears to full-flavored goodness, so don't hold them in the refrigerator until they pass the test.

If the expected crop of Bartlett pears from three Pacific Coast States is realized, it will exceed last year's yield by 80 per cent, says USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service.

So for nutrition's sake as well as taste appeal, buy some firm, juicy Bartletts today -- they're just PEARfect!

"NO WORD OF COURAGE."

"Now we come here with mobs in the streets, with further mob violence threatened, and no word is spoken of courage to defend the American way of government."

U.S. News & World Report

A CALL FOR COURAGE IN HANDLING UNREST

A speech in the House of Representatives denouncing rioting and violence won a standing ovation from Republicans and Democrats alike for veteran legislator Howard W. Smith.

Mr. Smith, the 83-year-old Virginian who has served continuously in the House since 1931, was narrowly defeated in a Democratic primary in July. On July 25, Mr. Smith, the chairman of the House Rules Committee for 11 years, had this to say in the debate on the civil-rights bill ---

"I was deeply distressed to hear the speech of my old friend from New York, the chairman of the Judiciary Committee, Emanuel Celler (Dem.), of New York, when he argued with the House that, instead of standing up and voting for what we believe in and doing what our oath of office requires us to do, we tremble in our seats and yield to the fear of the Negro revolution."

IF FEAR IS TO RULE ---.

"If that is the kind of spirit that has come to this country, and we are going to operate in the Congress on the theory of fear, on the theory of violence, on the theory of mobs and so forth, then this is not the place to which I was first elected.

"I was distressed to hear all this talk about operating not on the righteousness of causes, but operating on the fear of this revolution that has been encouraged from high places, until it has reached the point that unless somebody shows some courage, in this Congress and elsewhere, we are going to have a situation where we operate under the threat of political reprisals and revolutionary emotions.

"I was distressed when I saw the President address a joint session of this Congress, and I heard him adopt the war cry of a Negro revolution - 'We shall overcome; we shall overcome' -- repeated time and again, when we were about to consider a civil-rights law.

"And I was deeply distressed to see members of the Supreme Court sitting on those front seats, hearing discussed and advocated a piece of legislation the constitutionality of which they would soon be called upon to pass upon, applauding -- applauding the revolutionary call that 'we shall overcome.'

"I was distressed a few days ago to see in the press, and not refuted, the statement by the Vice President of the United States that if he lived in a tenement, in the ghettos of the cities, on the second floor, he would have the spirit to 'lead a revolt.'

"What are we going to have next? . . . .

"My friends, the political fates have decreed that when this Congress adjourns I will leave you. I have few personal regrets about that, but I do hate to leave you with the spirit that seems to prevail and about which you are exhorted daily -- 'Do this or the

Q—Is Newfoundland an independent British colony?

A—No. In 1949, Newfoundland became the tenth province of Canada.

Q—For what purpose was the Liberty Bell originally ordered?

A—It was ordered to commemorate a declaration called the William Penn Charter of Privileges, issued in 1701. The bell was to be used to celebrate the 50th anniversary of that charter in 1751.

PEANUT BUTTER-TRIPLE THREAT IN THE KICHEN

Creative cooks find peanut butter is one of the most versatile, nourishing and economical foods in their kitchens.

There are numerous ways to use this protein-packed spread, besides in sandwich filling.

As a spread for crackers, it's compatible with a variety of jams, jellies, cheese, some meats, various fruits and even a few vegetables.

As a dip for chips, it gives increased interest to sour cream [illegible] specialties.

As a flavoring agent, there are few limits to this flexible favorite. As a sauce for many meats, fish and poulty dishes, atop a baked potato or ice cream, on biscuits, muffins and in cookies and cakes, peanut butter adds its own texture and appeal.

Beyond its versatility, peanut butter also is extremely nourishing. It's rich in protein, high in food energy, and has some important vitamins --- especially the B vitamins.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service reports a plentiful supply of this "triple-threat" favorite on the market right now, which usually means you're likely to find attractive prices. Take advantage by putting peanut butter at the top of your next shopping list. It's bound to please the whole family.

"GOOBER" RECIPES

PEANUT BUTTER BROWNIES
1/2 cups sifted flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup crunchy style peanut butter
1/4 cut butter or margarine
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 eggs, unbeaten
1 cup chopped peanuts

Mix and sift flour and salt. Cream peanut butter, butter and vanilla. Add sugar gradually, creaming until well blended. Add eggs 1 at a time, beating well after each addition. Blend in flour. Stir in peanuts. Spoon into greased 8-inch square cake pan. Spread evenly. Bake at 350° F., 30 to 35 minutes, or until center is firm. Cool in pan 5 minutes. Cut into squares.

JIFFY PEANUT BUTTER ICE CREAM

EXHIBITS FROM 15 STATES TO BE AT MID-SOUTH FAIR

Fifteen states are now represented in exhibitors for the 1966 Mid-South Fair.

Varied exhibits from shoe polish to the latest inventions in the field of electronics will be on display in five exhibit buildings and numerous outside spaces Sept. 23 - Oct. 1.

Fair officials stated that nowhere else in the Mid-South can business firms promote their products and services to so many persons in such a short time. For this reason exhibitors from all over the United States come in to take advantage of the opportunity of promotion through the Mid-South Fair.

States represented are Alabama, Arkansas, Idaho, Illinois, Kansas, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Missouri, New York, Ohio, Tennessee, Texas, Washington, D.C., and Wisconsin.

Cabbage Rolls--From An Italian Family

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The Italians who settled in California added greatly to that state's reputation for good eating. Among them was the DeDomenico family, who began as produce and poultry storekeepers and later became experts in pasta making.

It was Lois DeDomenico, however, who thought up the idea of combining thin vermicelli with rice (another California product) and packaging it as a mix. Here's her suggestion for using it in cabbage rolls.

DeDOMENICO CABBAGE ROLLS
(Makes 6 to 8 servings)

1 package (8 ounces) beef flavor vermicelli and rice mix
1 pound ground chuck steak
1 onion, chopped
1 carrot, coarsely grated
1 large head green cabbage
2 cups tomato puree (two 8-oz. cans)
2 cups chicken broth, canned or made with chicken bouillon cubes

Prepare vermicelli and rice mix according to package directions. Cool. In a deep saucepan or in the bottom section of a Dutch oven, saute beef, onion and carrot in a little butter or margarine until beef is brown and crumbly. Drain off any excess fat from the beef. Stir in cooked vermicelli and rice.

Remove core from cabbage and carefully pull off about 12 leaves, keeping them whole. Pour boiling water over leaves and allow to stand until cabbage leaves are wilted. Use vermicelli-rice mixture to fill cabbage leaves (more leaves may be needed, depending on their size). Roll up leaves, tucking in ends and fastening with a food pick.

Pour tomato puree into the saucepan or Dutch oven in which meat mixture was cooked. Put in cabbage rolls. Shred two cups of the remaining cabbage and sprinkle over rolls.

Add chicken broth. Cover tightly and simmer, stirring occasionally, about one hour, or until cabbage is tender. Add more chicken broth, if necessary, to keep rolls from sticking.

A New Way To Fry Chicken

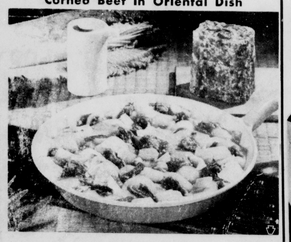
Chicken is one of the best buys in meat. Certainly there is no more popular dish than fried chicken. Why not give it a different twist and try frying it the Oriental way? It is ever so light and delicate. Use corn starch for coating the chicken pieces, after a quick dip in a mixture of egg and water. Fry in corn oil for the most delicate browning and flavor.

Oriental Fried Chicken

2 eggs
1 tablespoon water
1 cup corn starch
1 teaspoon salt
1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut up
Corn oil for frying

Beat eggs well; mix in water. Combine corn starch and salt. Dip chicken pieces into egg mixture, then into corn starch and salt, then into egg mixture, coating chicken well with each. Pour corn oil into skillet to depth of 1 inch. Heat over medium heat to 375 degrees F., or until 1 inch cube of bread turns brown in 40 seconds. Carefully put chicken into hot oil. Fry, turning once, until light golden brown and tender, about 15 minutes. Makes 4 to 4 servings.

Corned Beef In Oriental Dish



Your hostess who serves Corned Beef with Celery Cabbage! A dish in the style of the Far East, this one, like many other oriental meat and vegetable dishes, is easy to put together and quick in the cooking, with a wealth of flavor and unusual attractiveness. In addition, the meat is ready for instant use the moment the can is opened, so preparation time is cut to the nub.

Canned corned beef needs no special preparation — no precooking, no lengthy, high-heat cooking that characterizes many Chinese dishes, no dicing or cutting up. Flaking with a fork (and this can be done right in the skillet) is all that's required to separate it into pieces just the right size for even distribution throughout the dish. Having been cooked to doneness during processing, it only has to heat through to blend its goodness with the hot cabbage and sauce.

This is an interesting way to use celery cabbage, one of the less familiar but no less delicious vegetables on the market. If celery cabbage is not available, the familiar green cabbage can be used.

Corned Beef and Celery Cabbage

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 medium onion, sliced
1 head celery cabbage, cut in 1-inch thick slices
Water
1 beef bouillon cube
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1½ teaspoons soy sauce
1 can (12 oz.) corned beef, unchilled
1 pimiento, slivered
Crisp fried noodles (optional)

In hot butter in large skillet, cook onion just until tender. Add washed and drained cabbage, 1 cup water and bouillon cube. Cover and simmer, stirring occasionally, about 7 minutes or until celery cabbage is almost tender. Combine cornstarch with 2 tablespoons water and soy sauce; stir smooth. Stir into cabbage; cook stirring, until thickened. Add corned beef and flake coarsely; add pimiento, cover and simmer until beef is heated through, about 5 minutes. Serve at once, over crisp fried noodles if you wish.

Makes 6 servings.

Keep Cooky Jar Well Supplied With Crispies

School time is also cooky time if there are youngsters in your home. They do double or even triple duty if they go into lunch boxes and then serve as after school and bedtime snacks.

This large quantity, refrigerator type cooky has wonderful flavor because of its lard, brown sugar and oatmeal mixture, advises Reba Staggs, home economist. If the cooky rolls are kept wrapped in the refrigerator, they can be baked on quick notice.

Oatmeal Crispies

1½ cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
¾ cup lard
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup granulated sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 cups quick-cooking rolled oats
½ cup chopped nuts

Sift together flour, salt, and soda. Thoroughly cream together lard and sugars. Add eggs and vanilla. Beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients and mix well. Add rolled oats and nuts. Mix. Form into rolls 1½ inches in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper. Chill thoroughly. Cut into ¼ inch slices. Place on ungreased baking sheet and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 10 minutes or until lightly browned. Yield: 8 dozen.

Cube Flavorful Variety Meat For Dinner Menu

There's flavor a-plenty in a variety meat called heart. When prepared Italienne-style to be served over cooked spaghetti it will also provide that touch of novelty which every menu needs.

Heart rates highly for protein content in the class known as variety meats. In addition, it has generous amounts of the minerals needed by the body, advises Reba Staggs, meat authority.

Though very flavorful, heart classifies as a less-tender cut which must be cooked in liquid or be tenderized to tenderness. Some time can be cut in cooking procedure when the meat is cubed.

Heart Italienne

2 pounds beef or veal heart
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
½ cup onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
1 can (1 pound, 13 ounces) tomatoes
1 package (7 ounces) spaghetti, cooked
½ cup grated Cheddar cheese, if desired

Wash heart thoroughly, removing veins and hard parts. Cut meat in 1-inch cubes. Brown meat, onion, and garlic in lard or drippings. Add salt, pepper, pimiento, tomato paste, and tomatoes. Cook slowly 2 hours, or until meat is tender and mixture thickened. Serve over spaghetti and top with grated cheese, if desired. 6 to 8 servings.

Flank Steak Goes Fancy With Rice, Spinach Stuffing

Flank steaks are often served broiled, carved diagonally into thin slices and served as "London Broil." There is, however, another way to prepare them which makes them elegant food for guests. That's by stuffing and braising them.

Beef flank steak is a boneless cut and one steak comes from each side of beef, points out Reba Staggs, meat expert. They're small, usually weighing three-fourths to one pound each.

Stuffing for these flank steaks is both colorful and delicious. It's a well-seasoned mixture made mainly of rice, mushrooms and spinach. After the latter is cooked, make certain it's well drained.

Fancy Stuffed Flank Steak

2 beef flank steaks (about 1 pound each)
1 can (4 ounces) mushrooms
1 package (10 ounces) frozen, chopped spinach, cooked and well drained
1 tablespoon chopped onion
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup cooked rice
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed mushroom soup
½ cup water

Pound or lightly score flank steak on both sides. Drain and chop mushrooms, reserving mushroom liquid. Combine mushrooms, spinach, onion, salt and rice. Spread half the mixture (about 1 cup) on each flank steak and roll as a jelly roll. Tie steaks with string and brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Combine mushroom soup, mushroom liquid and water. Pour over steaks. Cover tightly and cook slowly 1½ hours or until tender. 6 to 8 servings.

Cranberries Make This Meat Ring Sweet, Saucy

A ruby-topped meat ring is an invitation to dining that's hard to resist. When it's as good looking as this, most folks will figure it's good to eat, too!

Certainly, it's true, also, that Sweet Saucy Meat Ring is good to eat with its unusual combination of ground beef and ham topped with whole cranberry sauce, says Reba Staggs, meat authority. Serve a buttered green vegetable in the center and surround the base of the platter with oven-browned or baked potatoes.

Sweet Saucy Meat Ring

1½ pounds ground beef
½ pound ground smoked ham
¾ cup dry bread crumbs
½ cup milk
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons minced onion
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup brown sugar
1 cup drained, whole cranberry sauce

Combine beef and ham, Mix bread crumbs, milk, eggs, onions, salt and pepper and add to meat. Mix thoroughly. Pack firmly into a 2-quart greased ring mold. Combine brown sugar and cranberry sauce. Pour half of mixture over meat loaf. Bake in a slow oven (325° F.) 1 hour. Heat remaining cranberry mixture slowly until hot; then spoon out. Spoon over loaf. 6 to 8 servings.

Cube Flavorful Variety Meat For Dinner Menu

There's flavor a-plenty in a variety meat called heart. When prepared Italienne-style to be served over cooked spaghetti it will also provide that touch of novelty which every menu needs.

Heart rates highly for protein content in the class known as variety meats. In addition, it has generous amounts of the minerals needed by the body, advises Reba Staggs, meat authority.

Though very flavorful, heart classifies as a less-tender cut which must be cooked in liquid or be braised to tenderness. Some time can be cut in cooking procedure when the meat is cubed.

Heart Italienne

- 2 pounds beef or veal heart
- 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
- ½ cup onion, chopped
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
- 1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
- 1 can (1 pound, 13 ounces) tomatoes
- 1 package (7 ounces) spaghetti, cooked
- ½ cup grated Cheddar cheese, if desired

Wash heart thoroughly, removing veins and hard parts. Cut meat in 1-inch cubes. Brown meat, onion, and garlic in lard or drippings. Add salt, pepper, pimiento, tomato paste, and tomatoes. Cook slowly 2 hours, or until meat is tender and mixture thickened. Serve over spaghetti and top with grated cheese, if desired. 6 to 8 servings.

Flank Steak Goes Fancy With Rice, Spinach Stuffing

Flank steaks are often served broiled, carved diagonally into thin slices and served as "London Broil." There is, however, another way to prepare them which makes them elegant food for guests. That's by stuffing and braising them.

Beef flank steak is a boneless cut and one steak comes from each side of beef, points out Reba Staggs, meat expert. They're small, usually weighing three-fourths to one pound each.

Stuffing for these flank steaks is both colorful and delicious. It's a well-seasoned mixture made mainly of rice, mushrooms and spinach. After the latter is cooked, make certain it's well drained.

Fancy Stuffed Flank Steak
2 beef flank steaks (about 1 pound each)

- 1 can (4 ounces) mushrooms
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen, chopped spinach, cooked and well drained
- 1 tablespoon chopped onion
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup cooked rice
- 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
- 1 can (10½ ounces) condensed mushroom soup
- ¼ cup water

Pound or lightly score flank steak on both sides. Drain and chop mushrooms, reserving mushroom liquid. Combine mushrooms, spinach, onion, salt and rice. Spread half the mixture (about 1 cup) on each flank steak and roll as a jelly roll. Tie steaks with string and brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Combine mushroom soup, mushroom liquid and water. Pour over steaks. Cover tightly and cook slowly 1½ hours or until tender. 6 to 8 servings.

Cranberries Make This Meat Ring Sweet, Saucy

A ruby-topped meat ring is an invitation to dining that's hard to resist. When it's as good looking as this, most folks will figure it's good to eat, too!

Certainly, it's true, also, that Sweet Saucy Meat Ring is good to eat with its unusual combination of ground beef and ham topped with whole cranberry sauce, says Reba Staggs, meat authority. Serve a buttered green vegetable in the center and surround the base of the platter with oven-browned or baked potatoes.

Sweet Saucy Meat Ring

- 1½ pounds ground beef
- ½ pound ground smoked ham
- ½ cup dry bread crumbs
- ¼ cup milk
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ½ cup brown sugar
- 1 cup drained, whole cranberry sauce
- ½ cup milk

Combine beef and ham. Mix bread crumbs, milk, eggs, onions, salt and pepper and add to meat. Mix thoroughly. Pack firmly into a 2-quart greased ring mold. Combine brown sugar and cranberry sauce. Pour half of mixture over meat loaf. Bake in a slow oven (325° F.) 1 hour. Heat remaining cranberry mixture slowly until hot throughout. Spoon over loaf. 6 to 8 servings.

Many Varieties of Comedy Offered in New TV Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — It isn't always what they are doing but how they are doing it that makes the difference. They were playing comedy in all sorts of ways in the television shows making their debuts Monday night.

Nine new shows were unveiled, of which this viewer saw six, all half-hour programs.

"Family Affair" on CBS is pegged to what is hardly a novel idea — a happy bachelor and his man servant who are unexpectedly saddled with some children. But if the mood and tempo of the first program can be maintained, this promises to be a warm and charming comedy.

Brian Keith plays the uncomfortable foster parent with great sensitivity and Sebastian Cabot is a perfect British gentleman's gentleman appalled at the prospect of child care.

Jean Arthur, a lady with a skillful way with a comedy line came back to show business in a CBS series that, at first look, seemed unworthy of her talents. Miss Arthur in "The Jean Arthur Show" plays a very successful woman lawyer in partnership with her son. But in the rather feeble episode Monday night they had her running furiously around in rather misguided efforts to help a fellow with gambling fever beat a murder rap.

"Felony Squad" on ABC, was simple police action. The principal characters are almost cliches now - the older plainclothes lieutenant, played with grim intensity by Howard Duff, and his young partner whose father is an older uniformed man. The first show revolved around a crooked lawyer trying to frame the young cop.

Two early evening entries, "The Monkees" on NBC and "Run, Buddy, Run" on CBS were broad comedies apparently intended to delight the young audience.

"The Monkees," a rock 'n' roll group complete with long hair, were involved in a story about a beautiful princess and her wicked uncle who was trying to kill her. The nonsense was further funnied up by effects like an electric light going on when the villain had an idea and all sorts of non sequiturs.

"Run, Buddy, Run" had a fellow fleeing a sinister criminal syndicate bent on murdering him, but depended on its humor in such side excursions as a wild motorcycle ride through a busy supermarket. Decision should probably be reserved on this one since the first show had to get Buddy, played by Jack Sheldon, started on his flight and comic adventures.

"The Roger Miller Show" on NBC was a pleasant enough, low - key variety half - hour, particularly when Miller was singing his own songs in his off - hand way and had Bill Cosby at his side making small talk.

Vorster Succeeds Verwoerd

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) - Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster was chosen today to become South Africa's seventh prime minister. He succeeds Hendrik Verwoerd, who was stabbed to death by an assassin a week ago.

Vorster was elected unanimously as leader of the ruling Nationalist party at a party caucus. His only real contender, Transport Minister Ben Schoeman, withdrew. As Nationalist leader, Vorster automatically becomes prime minister.

"I promise you that as far as it is humanly possible, I will strive for the security of South Africa," Vorster told a crowd outside Parliament after his election. "As far as it pleases God Almighty to allow man to work out his own future and decide on his own destiny, the destiny of South Africa will be decided by ourselves."

The party's unanimous choice, obviating a vote between contending candidates, was seen as indication of their resolve to choose a strongman leader, resolute in pursuing its apartheid (race) segregation policies without deviating from Verwoerd's race line.

Schoeman told the meeting that after serious consideration he had decided not to accept nomination as party leader.

As the only other candidate, Vorster was unanimously elected, thus preserving a facade of party unity and strength.

Vorster will now be called on by state President Charles Swart to form a government, which is expected to make its first appearance before Parliament Wednesday.

Vorster, 50, now regards the 13th as his lucky number. He was elected to the premiership on the 13th of September. He was born December 13, 1915. He is the 13th child in his family. This is his 13th year in Parliament and as justice minister he was 13th in the Cabinet seniority.

He holds the portfolios of justice, police and prisons, and as the nation's top policeman has sharply curtailed activities of about 500 left-wing and liberal critics under the suppression of communism laws.

Vorster was interned for nearly two years during World War II for pro-German sympathies and is often pictured in newspaper cartoons wearing Nazi-style jackboots.

What Do You Mean, "Milk"?

What do you mean when going to the store for milk?

Not only are there nearly a dozen different types of "milks" -- evaporated, nonfat dry, buttermilk, etc. -- but even fluid, whole milk is offered with variations. So the consumer may well find it worthwhile to know what the labels mean, suggests the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service.

For example, the words "graded" and "pasteurized" usually are marked together and are on nearly all milk available in stores. This indicates that the milk has been graded for quality and heat-treated for a safeguard against bacteria.

Cream will not rise to the top of "homogenized" milk. The milk fat, which is broken up into small particles, remains equally distributed to the last drop.

VITAMIN D on a milk label means that more of this vitamin has been added to increase the natural content. This vitamin is particularly important during growing years for proper development of bones and teeth. Vitamin D milk sometimes is priced slightly higher.

FORTIFIED on the label generally indicates that vitamins and minerals have been added to the milk. "Modified" usually means that extra milk solids have been added or that the milk has been changed somewhat so as to be more easily digested by infants and invalids. Any such additions should be shown on the label.

YO HO HO!

When your young pirate raids the icebox this summer, make sure he finds a golden booty -- fresh Bartlett pears!

You'll have no difficulty keeping him supplied with this nourishing, delicious loot. USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports this year's harvest will exceed last year's by 80% with a record - breaking 520,500 tons.

Now, that's a lot of pears, but there are so many ways to use them in addition to out-of-hand eating. For example, use them to prepare salads, pies, and for attractive garnishes. And don't overlook this snack-time treat guaranteed to delight those hungry buccaneers:

It's pears on a stick. To prepare, melt caramel candies in top of a double boiler over boiling water. Insert a flat wooden skewer into the stem end of washed fresh pears and then slowly swirl the pear in the caramel sauce, spreading it with a knife to make sure the pear is entirely 'hidden.' Set pears upright in waxed paper-lined baking pan and refrigerate until caramel is firm.

Remember that these Bartlett gems, when purchased green, should be allowed to mellow at room temperature until they yellow and yield to slight pressure.

So serve pears to your family often -- they're a real treasure-pleasure!

Nutritional Gold Mine

Milk could well be called a nutritional gold mine. It is a source of many essential nutrients, but particularly calcium, riboflavin and proteins -- three which people often are short of.

While other frequently eaten foods are good sources of proteins, it is difficult to get enough calcium and riboflavin without drinking or "eating" milk, explain U.S. Department of Agriculture nutritionists. Milk provides three-fourths of all the calcium, nearly half the riboflavin and perhaps one-fourth of the protein for Americans.

Calcium is a mineral needed throughout life for healthy bones. Riboflavin, a B vitamin, is one of the essential nutrients for healthy skin and nerves. Protein, of course, is the main material needed for building and repairing all body tissues.

All milk products provide some of the nutrients of whole milk, although none quite duplicate the nutritional value. Thus, a dish of ice cream is an excellent dessert for children -- but is by no means a substitute for a glass of milk.

Furthermore, milk and dairy products "pay their way" by contributing these needed nutrients at the "price" of a very moderate number of calories.

Americans are using 60 per cent more plumbed - in appliances than they did 10 years ago, according to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. It's predicted that their use will double in the next five years.

FOUR CENTURIES OF FINE EATING

Any meal that includes corn-on-the-cob could stimulate thoughts of this favorite vegetable's heritage, and corn has a heritage all its own.

Corn dates back to the era of the Indian and remained unknown to others until the first settlers came to this country.

The settlers were dependent on corn for most of their diet and through help from the Indians they found many different uses for it. That makes corn not only American, but patriotic as well because it sustained the first inhabitants and thus prepared the country for civilization.

Today, the American palate remains relatively unchanged, for fresh corn still ranks as one of our favorite vegetables.

Delicious piping hot corn-on-the-cob, of course, is popular any time and can be prepared in many different ways -- roasted, steamed, grilled or broiled.

For swift, simple cooking, just drop the ears (husked and de-silked) into boiling salted water. In less than 10 minutes they'll be done.

You'll find plenty of fresh, green corn in the produce department of your grocer. Be sure your family gets its share of this "patriotic" food.

Congress Spinning Wheels After Reversing Last Year's Pace

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This year Congress had a creepy feeling, and it's still creeping.

It was different last year. That was the up-and-at-'em year.

The Democrats, fresh from their election triumphs in November 1964, ran the show in 1965 with their overwhelming majorities in both House and Senate. President Johnson called Congress' performance last year fabulous.

What it did was bound to change the social, economic and political life of the nation. It turned out legislation in a torrent, passing 86 major administration bills, including medicare, voting rights, aid to education.

Johnson's Great Society programs were off to a stunning start. Last year's was probably the most productive single session of Congress in history.

After such a deluge it was natural that Johnson this year wouldn't drown Congress in quite as big a flood of proposals as in 1965. And he hasn't.

But it would also seem natural that such a peppy Congress would still work with a rush, particularly since this is another election year with all 435 House seats and 35 Senate seats at stake. But it hasn't.

It has dawdled all year, so much so that there's a good chance now it will have to quit temporarily in mid-October, so members can go home and politick for the November elections, and then come back for a lame-duck session.

(That session, since it would still be the present Congress, would include men defeated in November but none of the newly elected who can't take their seats until next year.)

But a lot of the members — starting perhaps last June — weren't waiting for mid-October to go home and try to round up votes. It's happening right now.

Monday in the House on a roll-call vote only 250 of the 435 members showed up. This concern about getting re-elected, and the work it involves, explains in part the slow pace of the present Congress. But not all of it.

Johnson has lost much of his magic control over Congress, the kind he had in 1965 after his huge victory over Sen. Barry Goldwater in 1964 had carried a lot of Democrats to victory with him.

At a time when Johnson's own popularity with the public is slipping, according to the polls, it has slipped in Congress, too, at least to the extent that the members are no longer so eager to say "yes, sir," when Johnson speaks.

One veteran observer of the House remarked: "A lot of these guys this year are not so anxious to have their vote, yes or no, on a piece of legislation because that only means that much more explaining to the folks back home."

At the same time Johnson's leadership hasn't been so concentrated as it was in 1965. He has to spend a lot more time with the war in Viet Nam. And he dawdled about doing something to head off inflation.

Last year the badly outnumbered Republicans, shattered and bewildered by their disaster in the 1964 elections and practically tongue-tied as a result of it, were so limp and mentally denuded that they actually quizzed outsiders for ideas use against Johnson.

This year they gathered themselves together and are sniping, if not sharpshooting, at him.

That by itself spoils some of the smooth sailing Johnson had in 1965. Some major bills and appropriations measures still are awaiting action. One of Johnson's pet projects, the civil rights bill, seems all but dead.

When this session finally ends, Johnson may praise it but he will never be able to call it fabulous.

FOUR CENTURIES OF FINE EATING

Any meal that includes corn-on-the-cob could stimulate thoughts of this favorite vegetable's heritage, and corn has a heritage all its own.

Corn dates back to the era of the Indian and remained unknown to others until the first settlers came to this country.

The settlers were dependent on corn for most of their diet and through help from the Indians they found many different uses for it. That makes corn not only American, but patriotic as well because it sustained the first inhabitants and thus prepared the country for civilization.

Today, the American palate remains relatively unchanged, for fresh corn still ranks as one of our favorite vegetables.

Delicious piping hot corn-on-the-cob, of course, is popular any time and can be prepared in many different ways -- roasted, steamed, grilled or broiled.

For swift, simple cooking, just drop the ears (husked and de-silked) into boiling salted water. In less than 10 minutes they'll be done.

You'll find plenty of fresh, green corn in the produce department of your grocer. Be sure your family gets its share of this "patriotic" food.

Congress Spinning Wheels After Reversing Last Year's Pace

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This year Congress had a creepy feeling, and it's still creeping.

It was different last year. That was the up-and-at-'em year.

The Democrats, fresh from their election triumphs in November 1964, ran the show in 1965 with their overwhelming majorities in both House and Senate. President Johnson called Congress' performance last year fabulous.

What it did was bound to change the social, economic and political life of the nation. It turned out legislation in a torrent, passing 86 major administration bills, including medicare, voting rights, aid to education.

Johnson's Great Society programs were off to a stunning start. Last year's was probably the most productive single session of Congress in history.

After such a deluge it was natural that Johnson this year wouldn't drown Congress in quite as big a flood of proposals as in 1965. And he hasn't.

But it would also seem natural that such a peppy Congress would still work with a rush, particularly since this is another election year with all 435 House seats and 35 Senate seats at stake. But it hasn't.

It has dawdled all year, so much so that there's a good chance now it will have to quit temporarily in mid-October, so members can go home and politick for the November elections, and then come back for a lame-duck session.

(That session, since it would still be the present Congress, would include men defeated in November but none of the newly elected who can't take their seats until next year.)

But a lot of the members — starting perhaps last June — weren't waiting for mid-October to go home and try to round up votes. It's happening right now.

Monday in the House on a roll-call vote only 250 of the 435 members showed up. This concern about getting re-elected, and the work it involves, explains in part the slow pace of the present Congress. But not all of it.

Johnson has lost much of his magic control over Congress, the kind he had in 1965 after his huge victory over Sen. Barry Goldwater in 1964 had carried a lot of Democrats to victory with him.

At a time when Johnson's own popularity with the public is slipping, according to the polls, it has slipped in Congress, too, at least to the extent that the members are no longer so eager to say "yes, sir," when Johnson speaks.

One veteran observer of the House remarked: "A lot of these guys this year are not so anxious to have their vote, yes or no, on a piece of legislation because that only means that much more explaining to the folks back home."

At the same time Johnson's leadership hasn't been so concentrated as it was in 1965. He has to spend a lot more time with the war in Viet Nam. And he dawdled about doing something to head off inflation.

Last year the badly outnumbered Republicans, shattered and bewildered by their disaster in the 1964 elections and practically tongue-tied as a result of it, were so limp and mentally denuded that they actually quizzed outsiders for ideas use against Johnson.

This year they gathered themselves together and are sniping, if not sharpshooting, at him.

That by itself spoils some of the smooth sailing Johnson had in 1965. Some major bills and appropriations measures still are awaiting action. One of Johnson's pet projects, the civil rights bill, seems all but dead.

When this session finally ends, Johnson may praise it but he will never be able to call it fabulous.

MISS CARLA HOUGH of Charleston prepares to serve pecan kisses.

Miss Carla Hough Has Been Cooking Since Early Teens

Editor's note: This is the fourth in a series of articles about the home life of area families.

By Ruth Dillender

CHARLESTON -- Miss Carla Hough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hough, 1413 East Cypress St., says that cooking and collecting recipes are among her favorite pastimes.

Miss Hough is a graduate of the University of Missouri in Columbia with a bachelor of arts degree and is now working on her master's degree in social work at the university.

Miss Hough has been cooking meals for her family since her early teens.

Recipes that Miss Hough suggests are:

PECAN KISSES

3 egg whites beaten very stiff. Gradually add 1 scant cup sugar, one teaspoon vanilla and one teaspoon vinegar. Continue beating until no graininess. Fold in one cup broken nuts. Bake approximately 45 minutes in 250 degree oven on wax papered cookie sheet -- can put very close as cookies, don't spread. Makes three dozen.

Miss Hough says that these light cookies are good to serve with a heavy meal.

SPICED ROAST BEEF

3 or 4 pounds of veal, bottom, round of beef or chuck roast
2 Tablespoons flour
2-3 tablespoons Spanish olive oil
1 large onion sliced
2 cloves garlic crushed
2 whole cloves
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 bay leaf or 1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon catsup
2 cups water
1/2 ounces bitter chocolate, grated

Dust meat with flour which has been mixed with 1/2 teaspoon salt. Brown meat in hot olive oil in casserole or dutch oven that can be moved to top of stove. Remove the meat and add onion and garlic. Cook until yellow. Replace meat and add the rest of the ingredients except chocolate. Cover tightly and simmer 2 1/2 to 3 hours until tender. Remove meat. Add more liquid if necessary for two cups sauce. Add chocolate and cook sauce until thick.

Mrs. Ruth Wigdor gave this recipe for spiced roast beef to Miss Hough.

FUDGE CAKE (BROWNIES)

1/4 pound or 1/2 cup butter
2 squares bitter chocolate

Put in pan and melt.

2 eggs
Pinch salt
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup nuts
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup flour

Beat eggs, sugar and vanilla. Add butter and chocolate mixture. Then add flour. Bake 1/2 hour in moderate oven. Serves 8.

The Hough family is so fond of the brownie recipe that Miss Hough says she usually has to triple it. Miss Hough's grandmother gave her the recipe.

Your Dental Health

10 -- Thumbsucking and Pacifiers.

PRECEDE: The following is one of a series of articles being presented by The Daily Standard in cooperation with The Scott County Dental Society.

Will thumbsucking cause a child to have crooked teeth?

Dental authorities now generally agree that it won't -- provided the habit ends before the child reaches age five. In those early years, any irregularity in tooth position caused by sucking habits probably will correct itself.

But by age five, the permanent teeth begin to erupt, and these CAN BE seriously affected by the thumbsucking, fingersucking, lip biting, tongue thrusting and similar habits.

Sucking is one of the earliest habits a baby develops, and is related to his need to obtain his food from breast or bottle. Psychologists believe that sucking also gives a baby a feeling of comfort and pleasure, and is a natural and normal habit which should be allowed.

Sucking may increase when a baby is tired, bored or frustrated, but, from a dental viewpoint, there's not likely to be any harm from it during the early years.

Some babies prefer a pacifier to the thumb, and a rubber pacifier in the years before five will not injure the teeth either. In fact, some dentists think it preferable, since it is softer and exerts less pressure on the dental arches and teeth than does the thumb.

At age five, however, persistant thumbsucking may permanently affect both jaw shape and tooth position -- narrowing the dental arches and forcing the teeth out of position.

Persistent thumbsucking should be brought to the attention of both the physician and the dentist for corrective action.

Above all, don't substitute the lollipop for the thumb. It's a formidable ally of tooth decay.

Missouri Press Report

by Senator

Edward V. Long

The House and Senate are now expected to agree on the new Child Nutrition Act which includes a four - year extention of the special school milk program.

Included in the new Act is a two year program to provide school breakfasts to students from underprivileged families.

The bill calls for milk purchases by the U. S. Department of Agriculture totaling $465 million over the next four years. Missouri dairy farmers provide a major portion of the milk for our nation's school children.

The Senate has just voted to strengthen our national program of protecting endangered species of fish and wildlife. Our bill urges Federal assistance to State and local agencies attempting to protect American wildlife now being threatened with extinction.

Conservation and wildlife refuges are urgently needed, and nation - wide action is essential if we are going to preserve species of birds, animals, and fish which are rapidly disappearing.

The Kansas City Region has just gained final Congressional consent to create a 7-county Mass Transportation Authority.

Missouri countries to be served by the new Authority are: Cass, Clay, Jackson, and Platte.

Final approval came when the Senate agreed to an amendment granting public access to information about the Authority.

Now available from my office: a 50 page catalogue of Federal programs for rural areas. It covers everything from flood control, job opportunities, improved schools, to Farmers Home Administration programs. The title, "Federal Programs for individual and Community Advancement." For one or more copies, write: Senator Edward V. Long, 3107 New Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C. 20510.

The Voice Of Freedom

By DAVID LAWRENCE

It's easy enough to assume from the headlines that Red China and the Soviet Union are at loggerheads and that this somehow means that America should either get closer to Moscow or begin to be less hostile to Peiping.

But it is more important to consider policies on a long-range rather than a short-range basis. For the fundamental fact which cannot be ignored is that the future of the Chinese people is really at stake.

The United States has always been friendly to the Chinese people, and it is necessary in the development of American foreign policy not to be misled into thinking that cozying up to the existing regime in Peiping is good either for this country or for the people who are today enslaved by an autocratic government on the mainland of China.

What is most disturbing is the calm indifference of so many so-called "experts" on China to the fate of the Republic of China on Formosa. They are ready to discard the very nucleus that gives promise of some day restoring liberty to all the Chinese people.

In the conflicts of the last half-century, the United States has been on the side of freedom for nations, large and small. The principle of self-determination has been championed but this doesn't mean approval of the phony elections that autocracy may impose. For the people alone have a right to choose their government and to change it at will. Those critics who are tired of the democratic idea and talk of "realism" are merely surrendering their ideals for the sake of a doubtful expediency. To them the end justifies the means, and the assumption is that permanent peace can be bought in this way.

It has become obvious that safety for all can be achieved only by applying the Woodrow Wilson doctrine that "the world must be made safe for democracy." Dictatorships must neither be coddled nor rationalized as a necessary evil. Nothing is to be gained by compromising. For to do so is to bolster the autocracies. This eventually could bring on the big war, in which America would surely be involved.

An enlightened policy by the American Government, on the other hand, would demand that Formosa's progress be adopted as a symbol of future policy. For what has been accomplished on that island in recent years by the Nationalist Chinese, in economic and educational fields as well as in the operation of a free government, should stand out as a living example of what all Chinese could enjoy if relieved from bondage.

Peace, of course, is not to be achieved in a single decade. Wars are always being threatened by thoughtless and irresponsible men. The old saying that "Rome wasn't built in a day" applies to peace-making.

Nor is the mainland of China the only danger spot. The Russian people, while living under a Communist autocracy, are not making the progress they are capable of making. The quarrel between Moscow and Peiping is a controversy between two rival autocracies. It is not relevant just which of the two rides on top today or even in the next few years. What is relevant is how deeply American concepts and the moral support of the free world are penetrating both countries. Communication facilities are not too good, but the people of the Soviet Union are beginning to be informed at last that a family today can live better in this country or in Britain or in any of the other free countries than in Russia and its satellites.

The real struggle is between slavery and freedom. There is evidence that inside the Soviet Union the people are restless and disturbed. They are not satisfied with their government, but feel helpless for the present to change it by force. There is definitely a public opinion which reveals a potential power to affect policy. The basis of the discontent is largely economic, and concerns the life of the individual and his desire for a decent standard of living.

What's happening inside Russia will in due time begin to be paralleled inside Red China. Patience is essential, and it is even more necessary now to do everything we can in America to tell these two peoples that their future welfare is dependent on a partnership with the democracies of the world.

A major war can be averted only if the United States remains firm and isn't misled by the Peiping-Moscow bickering. The aim of both autocracies is to conquer. Their quarrel with each other is over which of the two shall be at the helm and derive the biggest material benefits through subversion of governments everywhere in the world.

It is ominous that the Peiping Government today is developing nuclear weapons. We have a vital interest in influencing the trend toward the kind of government which will be able to restrain the hand that could pull the trigger.

Only in a world of freedom can we survive. Our salvation can come when humanity heeds the Voice of Freedom. Its unceasing appeal is epitomized by the song "America" in these words: "From every mountainside let freedom ring."

It has been estimated that the cattle population of the United States is over 100 million head.
